CAPONE'S STORY: BY HIMSELF

Parker Named to Supreme Court

NORTH CAROLINA REPUBLICAN IS HOOVER CHOICE

Given High Honor at Age of 44.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—President Hoover today gave recognition to the south by appointing Federal Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina as an associate justice of the United States Supreme court to succeed the late Justice Edwin T. Sanford.

The south will continue to have two justices on the court, as it had prior to the death of Justice Sanford, who was from Tennessee. Judge Parker, who is only 44 years of age, is a Republican, and as a resident of one of the five states in the south carried by Hoover in 1928 his selection is expected to go far toward pacifying southern Republicans who were displeased because they failed to receive recognition in the President's cabinet. The appointment may help to bolster up the movement, which has had the strong backing of Mr. Hoover, to make the Republican party a permanent factor of formidable strength in the south.

G. O. P. Ascendancy Preserved.

On the basis of the original political affiliations of the justices, who are presumed to forget partisanship on the bench, there will be, as for some years past, six Republicans and three Democrats. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes, Willis Vandevanter, George Sutherland and Harlan F. Stone are Republicans, while Justices James C. McReynolds, Louis D. Brandeis and Pierce Butler are Democrats.

President Hoover sent the Parker nomination to the senate late this afternoon and it was referred to the judiciary committee. The impression is that the committee will take favorable action and that the senate will confirm the appointment with little if any opposition.

As a judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Fourth federal circuit for the last five years Judge Parker's opinions will be available for scrutiny by senators who opposed Mr. Hughes on the ground that he would line up with the majority of the court which favors "property rights" over human rights." Lawyers who are familiar with Judge Parker's decisions believe that they show neither extreme conservatism nor radicalism, and are not such as to arouse an acute controversy.

Illinois Next in Line.

It was made known by President Hoover that an impelling reason for the selection of some one from that particular area was that the Fourth judicial circuit has been without representation longer than any of the circuits which are not now represented on the court. The last Supreme court justice from this circuit retired seventy years ago.

The fact that the President was influenced by this consideration was regarded as making it likely that the Seventh circuit, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, will have the best chance when the next vacancy on the court arises.

The Seventh circuit has had no representation on the Supreme court for twenty years, since the death of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller of Illinois.

Judge Parker will be the youngest justice and one of the youngest ever appointed on the court. Justice Stone, who now is the youngest member of the court, is 57 years of age.

On U. S. Bench Since 1925.

Judge Parker was appointed by President Coolidge as Circuit judge in 1925. In 1920 he was the Republican nominee for governor of North Carolina, in 1923 and 1924 he was a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States, and in 1924 he was Republican national committeeman from his state and a delegate at large to the national convention.

Born at Monroe, N. C., on Nov. 20, 1885, Judge Parker always has lived in that state, his present home being at Charlotte. He graduated from the University of North Carolina and holds the degrees of A. B., LL. B., and LL. D. from that institution, of which he is a trustee. He was admitted to the North Carolina bar in 1908 and began practice at Greensboro. He moved to Monroe the following year and in 1922 became head of a law firm at Charlotte. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason.

Treasure Hunt Leads to Death in Auto Smash

A young couple, wed for less than a year, were killed last night when the automobile in which they were riding on a church "treasure hunt" collided with another car at Warwick and Marmora avenues. Another married couple, riding in the other car, escaped with slight injuries.

The dead were Earl Schweiger, 23 years old, 5649 North Washtenaw avenue, and his wife, Margaret, 26 years old, members of the Lane Park Evangelical church at Roscoe street and Bosworth avenue. They were married last June. The injured are Ernest Lundin, 36 years old, whose shoulder was dislocated, and his wife Elizabeth, 33 years old, who was slightly bruised. The Lundins live at 4128 North Mason avenue.

Box of Candy Is Goal.

The treasure hunt was sponsored by the Christian Endeavor society of the church. Its goal was a box of candy, hidden somewhere on the northwest side. In six automobiles a score of young persons drove away from the church last evening as the hunt began.

The first stop was 4220 North Ashland avenue, where a jar on a back porch gave up the clews that led the party on to the Schweiger home. From there the trail led to the homes of others in the party. It was just after leaving their own home that Schweigers took the lead in the search. Their car darted ahead of the others and disappeared.

It was about that time, too, that the Schweigers approached the intersection of Warwick and Marmora avenues. Schweiger was driving east in Warwick avenue. North in Marmora avenue came Lundin. Headlight beams on both cars were dimmed by the glare of the street light.

Cars Crash; "Hunters" Die.

Schweiger's car, the lighter of the two, struck the Lundin machine, which bowled over, the top crushed to splinters and every window shattered. Lundin crawled out of the wreckage, extricated his wife, and took her to the Belmont hospital.

In the other car, which had not overturned, the police found Schweiger, already dead of a skull fracture. Mrs. Schweiger died of a skull fracture while being taken to the Chicago State hospital.

Soon after the accident the automobiles bearing the other treasure hunters arrived on the scene. They found Miss Mildred Shute, 24 years old, 6025 North Rockwell street, the only one there who could tell them of the tragedy. She had been riding with the Schweigers but had escaped without injury.

The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Schweiger increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 195.

Start Inquiry Into Death.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Rose Aimone, 35 years old, 3610 Clinton avenue, Berwyn, mother of two children, who was killed on Thursday night when she was struck by an automobile near her home, was continued until March 28 for investigation. Mrs. Aimone was hit by the car of John Krech, 2510 Lawndale avenue, a Chicago fireman.

A companion of Krech, Harry Ayers, testified that their car struck the woman as she crossed Home and Ogden avenues, Berwyn, and crashed into a second car, driven by Joseph Domogala, 3620 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn. Ayers said he and Krech had been drinking in Lyons. Krech was released without bond and was not asked to testify. Police were instructed to conduct an inquiry.

DAUGHTER WINS BACK HER FATHER'S $100,000 LOSS WITH INTEREST

Circuit Judge Phillip L. Sullivan yesterday ordered Donald F. Reinhold, bucketshop proprietor, and his father-in-law, Samuel I. Silver, to give up $100,000 and interest, obtained from the late William S. Walker, real estate dealer. The money is to be paid to Mrs. Winifred W. Hadley, 2748 Woodbine avenue, Walker's daughter and heir. Mrs. Hadley brought action to recover the amount with her husband, Harry W. Hadley, president of the International Trade Exchange and co-executor of the Walker estate. The case was on trial for eleven weeks.

Mrs. Hadley charged that in 1926 Reinhold had persuaded her father to part with $100,000 in securities for stocks and bonds in five companies, organized by Reinhold, now nonexistant. Walker was then 84 years old. He died May 12, 1927. The discovery of his transactions was made through an examination of Reinhold's books.

Reinhold, who is 29 years old, organized the Harry S. Donald company and was raided in 1923. The following year he organized the Standard Bond company and was again forced to stop activity under threat of prosecution. He has since organized several similar companies.

In a pistol fight which followed between the two patrolmen and the three hold-up men one of the latter was shot dead, another was wounded and captured, and the third escaped.

Spring Revival Shown in City Building List

BY THOMAS WREN.

E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association, announced last night that the activities of the last thirty days indicate a fairly active spring building program in Chicago.

Mr. Craig said $10,615,000 worth of building permits have been taken out during the thirty day period and approximately $2,645,000 in construction contracts were awarded in that time. Since the first of the year, he said, more than $100,000,000 in building contracts have been let, the work to be started this spring.

Appeals to Unions.

Building trades leaders can stimulate construction and relieve some of the unemployment among their members, Mr. Craig advised, by retaining present wage scales, withdrawing the one or two isolated demands for increases.

Following is a list of projects to cost $100,000 or more which are being planned followed by a list of projects for which contracts have been awarded, as compiled by a 30 day builders' survey:

The organization of a building congress was announced by Mr. Craig. Its purpose will be to correlate the functions of the various building interests, including contractors, materialmen, bankers, architects and engineers. It is planned to have the building congress meet twice each month.

BRICKBATS MIX WITH GIBES IN SENATOR RACE

Mrs. M'Cormick, Deneen Liven Battle.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Illinois' senatorship battle took on intensity last night. Ruth Hanna McCormick, at Joliet, ripped into the Deneen camp, declaring it was responsible for circulating "a scurrilous magazine," filled with attacks upon her father, the late Senator Mark Hanna, and her husband, the late Senator Medill McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick told her Joliet audience that she has kept her campaign clear of personalities both in speeches and in literature and said she felt "shame that my opponents should stoop so low."

A few miles away at Aurora Senator Deneen closed up his downstate campaign and came into Chicago at night to prepare for his Cook county opening on Monday. His managers put forth a declaration that "city hall machine leaders are indorsing Mrs. McCormick."

Hurl Bricks at Meeting.

Meanwhile 50th ward factional strife reached the brickbat stage when a band of five men in a fast sedan, riding past Ald. Curtis F. Mellin's headquarters at 4740 Lincoln avenue, hurled bricks which shattered plate glass windows, showered several of the crowd of 1,500 with flying glass, and interrupted the speech of Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, who was on the platform with Judge Harry Hamlin and Earl W. Mackey, vice president of the Grigsby-Grunow company, radio manufacturers. The Mellin organization has indorsed Mrs. McCormick.

Among those cut by glass were two women, Mrs. Olga Schmidt, 35 years old, a Mellin worker, and Mrs. Alice Tasjian, 60 years old, mother of Henry Tasjian, candidate for representative in the Sixth district, who was on the speaker's platform. Mrs. Tasjian, an invalid, was attending her first political meeting.

A bitter fight over ward committeeman is being waged between Louis Nettelhorst, the Brundage entry and candidate for probate clerk; William M. Brown, Deneen ward leader, and Ald. Mellin, who is reputed to have support from both Deneen and Snow camps. Mellin says he refused indorsement from some of the Deneenites, who supported him a year ago in a runoff election in which he defeated former Ald. A. K. Mose. Some of Mellin's followers at the meeting told the police they recognized the brick tossers as Nettelhorst workers.

Mrs. McCormick Denies Deals.

Mrs. McCormick, in her Joliet address, said she had made no pledges of deals with any leaders or factions, and that the indorsements from anti-Deneen groups appear to indicate that "everybody likes to be with a winner."

The Deneen camp announced that it had installed a radio station at its headquarters, and that next week will see rallies and a drive by air as well as by platform.

"In my speeches I have made no personal attacks on any of my opponents," said Mrs. McCormick. "I believe that is the way a campaign for the dignified office of United States senator should be conducted.

Scores Personal Attacks.

"But it was called to my attention this afternoon that a magazine called 'Lightnin'' is being mailed in large numbers to people throughout the state and that this magazine from cover to cover is an attack upon my father, Mark Hanna, and my husband, Medill McCormick. These magazines are being mailed in envelopes bearing the imprint of the National Republican Party of Illinois. That is the name of the Deneen Republican faction in Cook county, of which Senator Charles S. Deneen is the acknowledged leader, and which is the mainstay of his present campaign in Cook county for the senatorship. The editor of the magazine is Elmer L. Williams, a man who has achieved considerable notoriety in past political campaigns.

"On the envelope under the name National Republican Party of Illinois are the words 'State Woman's Committee' and the address is given as 105 West Madison street, Chicago.

Makes Plea for Issues.

"I resent any such attack upon my father and my husband in a campaign in which I am a candidate for the senatorship and in which, you will agree with me, I have from the first asked for your consideration only on the basis of whatever ability and integrity I may personally possess.

"I do not propose to permit my

Michigan Ave. Blast Wrecks Glass Fronts

Fire and a terrific explosion early this morning wrecked the interior of the Russell photographic studio on the fourth floor of the 30 South Michigan building and blew out windows in buildings fronting Michigan avenue from Madison to Monroe streets. The shower of glass launched by the blast fell with a crash across sidewalk and boulevard and on the tops of a few automobiles that were passing.

Guests in the University club at 76 East Monroe street and in the Chicago Athletic association at 12 South Michigan avenue were aroused from their sleep by the explosion and for a time it was feared that some of the residents of the University club, which adjoins the damaged building, would be overcome by the fumes of a poisonous gas which poured through the windows. The total damage was estimated at $50,000 by Fire Marshal Corrigan, who arrived on the scene when a 2-11 alarm was sounded.

Third Fire in Three Months.

Marshal Corrigan said he was unable to determine the cause of the fire but he said he believed that the explosion and the gas resulted from the combustion of celluloid film in the photographic studio. He said the blaze was the third in six months in the Russell studio and that he would start an investigation this morning.

The first alarm was turned in by Harry Sullivan, 719 Aldine street, a Yellow cab driver, who was passing 30 South Michigan avenue when the explosion occurred. Sullivan's cab was showered with fragments of glass from shattered window panes and he at once drew to the curb and notified the fire department when he saw flames shooting from the fourth floor windows of the building.

Flee University Club Rooms.

Guests of the University club, whose windows faced north toward the burning studio, fled to the club lobby when smoke began rolling into their rooms and flames set their curtains afire. Earl Koenig, switchboard operator, notified all other guests of the danger and soon the lobby was filled with a crowd of persons in night attire.

George R. Carr, vice president and general manager of the Dearborn Chemical company, 310 South Michigan boulevard, who was driven from his room on the sixth floor of the club, said that he detected the odor of phosgene gas in the smoke from the burning building. Marshal Corrigan recalled that it was this gas which had caused the death of more than 100 persons in a fire at a Cleveland hospital several months ago when X-ray film stored in the building caught fire.

The flames were confined to the third and fourth floors at 30 South Michigan avenue, but windows were blown out of all the stores in the building, including the shops of W. H. Taylor, Inc., women's wear; J. D. Nadherny, tailor; Jacob Schwartz, tailor, and in the Illinois Olympian club, which are in the same building.

Use of Leeches Not Fraud, Evanston Judge Decides

Obtaining money by means of leeches does not constitute illegal practice of medicine, Justice of the Peace John Russ of Evanston ruled yesterday. He made the decision in the case of Benjamin Schabox, 68 years old, 2121 Church street, Evanston. Schabox, who had been arraigned on a charge of practicing medicine without a license, said he put the leeches on the body of Oscar Burnett, 1349 Leon place, Evanston. The practitioner said it was "a good old Persian remedy."

'JUST A BIG BEER MAN; THE BEST PEOPLE BUY IT'

He Gives Self Up; Warned from City.

Police in their drive on hoodlums yesterday arrested 352 men. Among these were 17 with prison records and seven with guns. The men with records and the gun carriers were being held for the detective bureau showup to be held tomorrow afternoon.

Alphonse Capone spent a quiet evening at home last night in the secluded suite at the Lexington hotel, 2135 South Michigan avenue. He declared himself comforted by the reflection that, although but recently released from a Philadelphia prison, his only crime has been "selling beer and whisky to the best people."

Capone was at liberty after an afternoon spent with Chief of Detectives Stege and other policemen. Sought here for three days following his release on Monday from the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia, the gang leader had given himself up voluntarily at the detective bureau.

Neither U. S. Nor State Wants Him.

From there the returned wanderer was taken to the federal building and the Criminal Courts building, but neither United States Attorney Johnson nor State's Attorney Swanson indicated a desire to detain him.

Chief Stege had the last word and he told Capone that Chicago does not want him; that he had better get out of town and stay out, or he would be arrested on sight. It was with this warning in his ears that the chief of gangsters returned to his suite early in the evening.

Why They Jailed Him.

"I never had a number," triumphed Capone [pronounced in only two syllables, if you please] "until they picked me up in the City of Brotherly Love for carrying a gun, and gave me a year, not for carrying a gun, but because my name is Capone.

"I'd never been indicted before. Why should I be? All I ever did was supply a demand that was pretty popular. Why, the very guys that make my trade good are the ones that yell the loudest about me."

And this comment:

"Some of our best judges use the stuff."

All "this talk about 100 per cent virtue," no matter what the temptation, struck Mr. Capone as a bit ludicrous, he indicated, as he sat at his large mahogany desk, with pictures of George Washington and Big Bill Thompson smiling down on the gold encrusted inkstand.

About This "Legitimate" Matter.

"They talk about me not being on the legitimate," he argued. "Why, lady, nobody's on the legit. You know that, and so do they. Your brother or your father gets in a jam. What do you do? Do you sit back and let him go over the road, without trying to help him? You'd be a yellow dog if you did. Nobody's really on the legit, when it comes down to cases; you know that."

It's frequently more difficult, this front page habitue feels, for a headliner celebrity to get his rights than for the ordinary citizen to get his.

"Whatever I did in the jail," he recalls, "everybody was watching to see that Al Capone didn't get any favors. When I'd been there six months I came up for parole. I had a writ of relief, they call it, before the Supreme court. It's even more important than a writ of habeas corpus. The judge is supposed to allow it or deny it, with reasons for what he does.

The Grief of Limelight.

"If I'd been plain John Smith from Oshkosh, he'd have allowed it. All I did, you know, lady, was carry a gun. But because my name was Capone from Chicago, he wouldn't pay any attention to it. Yes, sir, there's a lot of grief attached to this limelight."

As a matter of fact, Al Capone hasn't much use for his curious contemporaries who'd walk a mile for a glimpse of him.

"Say, if I was just plain Issy Patlatki, living in Chicago, I'd not stand out in the gutter trying to get a peek at Al Capone. I'd attend to my business and let him attend to his. So use making a laughing stock of the city," he suggested.

"You notice I didn't come in with a brass band. I don't go for that stuff. Neither did I come in with all those bodyguards the papers talked about. One man, the driver of my car. I'm not afraid of anybody."

He says it quietly, and presses the

The door at the far end of the large room opens and a young but competent gentleman comes in.

"Please ask my wife and sister to come here," commands Capone, and the competent young man withdraws.

Presently the door opens again. Two women enter. One is rather tall and slim—that is Mrs. Capone. The other is shorter, plumper—she is Mafalda, his sister. The introductions over, they chat in subdued pleasantries and retire with swirls of blue chiffon. His mother was meanwhile in an adjoining room.

"Did you notice my wife's hair?" asks Al Capone.

We had. It was lustrous and fluffy.

"No, I mean the streak of gray," he adds. "She's only 28, and she's got gray hair, just worrying over things here in Chicago."

He Disclaims "All the Raps."

Capone is thirty-one. He is not yet gray. But he's had occasion to be, he avers.

"Say, I'm only 31, and I've been blamed for crimes that happened as far back as the Chicago fire," he said.

He cited one particular "bum rap" that irked him.

"Here they go and question me about the murder in New York of Frank Yale," he said. "Why, the day that happened I was in the office of my solicitor." He uses the British term; not the more American word, "lawyer."

"There I was, in the office of my solicitor; and I had an iron-clad alibi, but they go for me. It's perfectly ridiculous," Capone declared.

Maintains His Innocence.

Large and loosely built, well but not foppishly dressed, casually alert, Al Capone sits at his big desk and talks in a low voice. With carefully chosen phrases. Innocent and innocuous—that is what he is, he maintains.

All he ever did, he reiterates, was to ply his trade. And if his trade was so popular that it brought him a home in Miami Beach and a reputation for giving one hundred dollar tips, that's the fault, he claims, of the customer, not of the dealer. He's quite frank about it all. His theme song is:

"All I ever did is sell beer and whiskey to our best people."

Explains "Al Brown" Alias.

He is equally forthright about his other name—Al Brown.

When he is asked how he got that name he answers immediately:

"Sure, I'll be glad to tell you that. I was starting a gambling place in Indiana Harbor with a fellow named Curley. You know Curley, don't you? And he wouldn't sign the lease with his right name, and I thought what's the use of signing my name if he won't sign his. So he said, 'Call yourself "Brown,"' so I signed the lease 'Al Brown,' and I guess the name kind of stuck."

The name has stuck, just as his reputation, he explains.

"I'm not trying to cut in on anybody, or do anybody any harm," he declares. "Here I am, up here with my wife and sister and a few, a very few friends, but by tomorrow it'll be all over town that Al Capone was throwing a party to 500 people. All I want to do is to mind my own business, wind up my affairs here, and leave for my home in Miami in about three weeks."

He Knows About Miami.

It was suggested that Miami was not particularly palpitant to receive him.

"Surely, I've heard that," he laughed. "There's been a change of administration since I was there last. The brother of one of the officials owns a paper there that's losing a thousand dollars a day. Naturally, they got to make news, naturally. So that's why there's all this ballyhoo about me. They got to sell papers."

As for himself, personally, Alphonse Capone is touched and grieved at the lineage his activities have received.

"You know, lady," he confides, "I'd rather the newspapers wouldn't print a line about me. That's the way I feel. I didn't see any reporters while I was in that Philadelphia jail and I'd rather not see anybody here. That's the way I feel. No brass band for me."

The "Big Fellow" Speaking.

A French phone tingles at his desk. He picks up the instrument and it looks tiny in his hand. There are a few, cautious preliminaries; then a friendly:

"Sure, this is the Big Fellow. Come on over," and the executive puts down the receiver and turns, courteously, to the interview at hand. On his desk is a large, and authentic, glass of water. Breaking the 18th amendment may be a solvent social industry; personally, however, it does not appeal to Mr. Capone, he says, and he drinks deep of the water.

"Ask me anything you want," he invites. "Only ask me something I can answer. I haven't been down at my Miami home for ten months so I don't know a thing about the raid there. [The raid occurred on Thursday when Miami authorities seized some liquor in the Capone mansion.]

"In jail I did clerical work. I suppose some of these reformers will say that was the fix. But what would they do, have a fellow that can do clerical work, dig ditches just because his name's Capone, and he's from Chicago?"

WARNED FROM CHICAGO

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Al Capone, home from ten months in the Eastern Pennsylvania penitentiary at Philadelphia, walked into the Chicago detective bureau at noon yesterday and gave himself up after playing hide and seek with the authorities for three days.

The police told him pointedly that he is not wanted in Chicago and that as long as he remains here he is to be arrested on sight.

"You're no better than any other hoodlum and you are going to be arrested on sight," Chief of Detectives Stege told him. "You're not wanted in Chicago. You don't belong here and we don't intend to let you live here."

"You'll be arrested as often as you show yourself to any of our detectives," was Stege's parting word to

Rothstein's Name Is Linked with 7 Gang Feud Slayings

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—The body of a man found in a blazing automobile on the outskirts of Newark, N. J., on Aug. 9 last has been identified as that of Eugene Moran, New York gangster, it was announced today by Frank E. Brex, deputy chief of police of Newark, N. J. The announcement was coincident with the discharge in the court of general sessions of John "Legs" Diamond, accused of the so-called Hotsy Totsy club murder, of which one, William Cassidy, was the victim.

Moran, with another man, tried to kill Eddie Diamond, tubercular brother of "Legs," in Denver with a machine gun on Nov. 5, 1928.

Brex said that the identification of Moran clears up, as to motive, a string of seven gang murders set in motion by the late Arnold Rothstein who, it would appear now, was one of the victims of his own machinations.

Calls Moran Hired Slayer.

Eddie Diamond died recently at Saranac lake. Brex charges that Moran was sent to Denver by Rothstein to kill Eddie Diamond after Rothstein had fallen out with "Legs" Diamond, who had been his close associate. The day before Eddie Diamond was shot at in Denver, Rothstein was fatally wounded in the Park Central hotel in this city and he died on Nov. 6. It would appear that the linking up of the attack on Eddie Diamond with Rothstein might open up a new line of investigation into the Rothstein murder mystery.

The identification of Moran was established in St. Louis on Feb. 18 after seven months of intensive work by Newark detectives. At the time his body was found in East Newark the only marks of identification were the teeth. The car in which the body was slumped had been saturated with gasoline and set afire. It was the engine number which furnished the clue that solved the mystery.

After the identification of Moran had been verified, the detectives began to work on leads they had encountered in their investigation, with results which led them to believe that the assassination of Rothstein was the first of a chain of four directly growing out of a feud between the gambler and the Diamond brothers, and that three others were indirectly associated with that feud.

The first of the list of gang slayings listed by Brex in connection with the feud, was the killing of Frank Devlin, who had assisted Moran in the Denver machine gun exploit. Devlin's body was found March 3, 1929, on a farm near Somerville, N. J. He had been shot three times in the back of the head.

Three days later Thomas "Fat" Walsh, former bodyguard of Rothstein, was shot to death while playing cards in the Miami Biltmore hotel in Miami.

Moran was the next to go.

Two More Are Slain.

Then followed two of the four men who, Brex asserts, "took Moran for a ride." The body of James Batto, a New York gambler, was found in an automobile that had been standing nine hours on Fifth avenue Sept. 11, 1929.

The body of Mortimer Schubert, New York racketeer, was found in an automobile under the Broadway subway elevated structure in Manhattan valley Nov. 14, 1929, with six bullet holes in the body. One ear had been cut off and the body burned from the waist to the head.

The seventh slaying, not attributed directly to the Rothstein feud, but said by Brex to have been perpetrated as reprisal for the death of Devlin, was that of Harry Veasey. His body was found in an automobile in Hoboken, Jan. 10 last, with two bullet wounds.

the gangster who once was reported to have been able to have policemen transferred to suit his business needs.

Stege sent the gangster to the federal building under police escort to make inquiry as to whether the government wanted to press any charge against him. United States Attorney Johnson said the government was not yet prepared to take charge of Capone.

Stege then sent Capone on to the offices of State's Attorney Swanson in the Criminal Courts building with Deputy Chief of Detectives John Egan, who was instructed to ask if the prosecutor wished Capone to be brought before any judge or magistrate.

Swanson was not in his office. First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup was out. Chief Investigator Pat Roche was out.

No one at the offices of either the government or state prosecutor wished to take charge of Capone, though for years the gang leader has been reputed the head of the largest bootleg, gambling, and vice syndicate in Chicago and many killings have been attributed to his gang by the police.

A Call Three Days Late.

Capone's call at the detective bureau was at least three days late. He had been expected in Chicago on Tuesday after his release from the Eastern Pennsylvania penitentiary at Philadelphia on Monday afternoon. A detail of police had been kept on watch at the Capone home, 7244 Prairie avenue, on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and yesterday morning—but no Capone, or not at least The Capone, showed up.

Then at noon yesterday Attorney Thomas D. Nash called Chief Stege on the telephone.

"Do you want Capone?" Nash asked "I have no process for his arrest." Stege replied.

"Well, are you going to arrest him?" the attorney persisted.

"We are arresting all bootleggers, gangsters and gunmen on sight," said Stege. "He is one of them and I expect he will be brought in if any of our men see him."

A bit later Capone was elbowing his way through throngs of sightseers in the lobby of the police headquarters building at 11th and State streets.

'When did you get in?" the press representatives asked.

He Wants to Stay Here.

"What do you expect to do now?" he was asked.

"I want to live here and conduct my business," he said.

"Did you pay your income tax this year?" he was asked, the reference having importance because he was brought into the federal court more than a year ago charged with failure to pay the government's tax on his 1928 and previous incomes.

"You got out on March 17, two days after the last day to file your tax statement," Capone's questioner said. "You would have had to account for three months of 1929 if you had any income? Did you do so?"

Capone, alias Scarface Al Brown, implied by a smile that he had.

"Take him to the Federal building and the Criminal Court building," Stege directed.

Upon Capone's return Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne was at the bureau to question him. Stege, Egan, Lieut. Pat O'Connell, Lieut. Walter Storms and other policemen were present during this interrogation, but the press was not represented.

Prosecutor Questions Him.

An account of the questions and answers was later given by Stege and Ditchburne, as follows:

DITCHBURNE—Al, what do you know about the Valentine day massacre of the seven Moran fellows?

CAPONE—I was in Florida then.

STEGE—Yes, and you were in Florida, too, when Frank Yale was murdered in New York.

CAPONE—(No response).

DITCHBURNE—Your name was prominently connected with the massacre and the Yale murder.

CAPONE—I'm not as bad as I'm painted. If you sift everything I was ever accused of you'll find I didn't do it. I get blamed for everything that goes on here, but I had nothing to do with any of the things you talk about.

Capone Denies Murders.

DITCHBURNE—Your name is synonymous with a large gang. Perhaps you personally don't commit the murders, but we assume that your gang is in control on the west side and the south side and we are not far wrong in assuming your gang is responsible for many of those murders.

CAPONE—I'm not responsible for what others do.

DITCHBURNE—You're not a good citizen. If you were walking along the street with your brother and he was killed you wouldn't come in here and tell us who killed him.

CAPONE—Well, put yourself in my place and see what you'd do.

DITCHBURNE—We have to protect the public, and such fellows as you must go. There used to be a time when we wouldn't have a hundred murders in ten years, but since you gangsters have been at war we have had three hundred murders a year.

STEGE—That's why we are going to drive you out of town.

Capone's Attorney Protests.

ATTORNEY NASH — But you haven't any right to arrest him unless you have evidence of some crime against him. You, Mr. Ditchburne, as a lawyer, know the police can't do that.

DITCHBURNE—I'm not here to tell the police what not to do. I'm here to advise them what to do. I'm not interested in protecting Capone. If Capone feels that he is being arrested wrongfully he has his remedy. He can sue for false arrest.

STEGE—Go as far as you like in suing me. Saltis and Dingbat Oberta and others have done that. I'll give you a $100,000 judgment against me for $15,000 cash.

CAPONE—I don't want to sue anybody. All I want is not to be arrested if I come downtown.

STEGE—You're out of luck. Your day is done. How soon are you going to get out of town?

He Wants to Go to Florida.

CAPONE—I want to go to Florida some time next week. I don't know when I have to go to the federal court for trial on the contempt case.

STEGE—I've given you notice now. You can go because no one wants to put a complaint against you today. But next time you go into the lockup and you don't get booked unless you get a writ, and you go to court next morning. Be on your way. Good-by, Mr. Nash. You'd better advise him to get out of Chicago.

NASH—Lenin and Trotsky and others rebelled against that kind of treatment.

STEGE—I hope Capone goes to Russia.

And with that Capone and his lawyer departed.

Later Attorney Nash said he hadn't any plan of asking an injunction to restrain the police from arresting Capone. Future events must take their course, he said.

TWO BOMBERS FOUND GUILTY ON THIRD TRIAL

A jury in Judge Otto Kerner's Criminal court last night returned a verdict of guilty against two bombers whom the state had vainly been trying to convict since they were first arrested in April, 1929.

The men found guilty are Carlo Oliverio, 28 years old, of 1137 South Hermitage avenue, and Joseph Cerra, 25 years old, 2443 Arthington street.

The technical charge against the pair was possession of bombs. The jury fixed the penalty at from one to five years in the penitentiary. The prosecution was conducted by Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman.

Guilty on Third Trial.

The trial was the third effort of the state to bring the two men to justice. The first trial was stopped when the state tried to introduce the confessions of the defendants and Judge D. J. Normoyle ruled that the police had obtained the confessions by duress.

The case against the defendants was then dismissed, a new indictment was obtained, and a second trial was started before Judge Harry Lewis. But as the case was nearing an end it was again stopped, the judge this time dismissing the jury because of alleged prejudicial publicity growing out of a bomb threat which First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup said was made to him over the telephone.

Agree Quickly on Verdict.

The jurors last night deliberated nearly four hours. They were said to have agreed quickly on a verdict of guilt, but were for a time divided on the question of punishment.

Cerra in his confession admitted that he made and sold bombs for from $25 to $150, depending upon their size. He also said he helped to explode some of the bombs, but he could not give the locations. It was admitted that Oliverio's confectionery store at 2755 Taylor street was the place where the bombs were manufactured.

POLICE HERO MADE A SERGEANT AFTER SQUAD KILLS BANDITS

Commissioner of Police Russell yesterday promoted Acting Sergt. Christopher Callahan to a full sergeantcy in recognition of his work in frustrating a holdup in a store at 5001 South Park avenue last Monday night. As Callahan and his squad entered the store where the holdup was in progress one of two bandits tried to fire. He was killed before he could fire and the other robber was shot dead as he tried to draw his gun. Sergt. Callahan has received nine creditable mentions for his police work since April 14, 1922, and on four occasions has won extra compensation, totalling $340.

BOTTLE THROWN IN SEA SHOWS UP 15 MONTHS LATER

It was Christmas day of 1928 aboard the liner Olympic in mid-Atlantic. George B. Williams, a Chicagoan en route to Berlin, tossed from the rail a note in a corked bottle, promising $10 to the finder.

The bottle bobbed into the wake of the liner and disappeared. Assuming the glass had been shattered by the ship's propellers, Mr. Williams, a vice president of Lawrence Stern & Co., La Salle street investment house, forgot all about it. The broker was on a second trip to Berlin yesterday when there came to his home at 1401 Davis street, Evanston, a letter in Norwegian, translated, it ran as follows:

"Good Sir: The bottle you dropped in the ocean was found by me on Feb. 28, 1930, in the harbor of Lovianna-Lovunen, Helgeland, Norway. I hope you will send the promised money to me as I am a poor and old fisherman. Yours very truly, Jens Kristiansen."

Last night Mr. Williams' associates forwarded him the letter and cabled $10 to Kristiansen in the fishing village of Srjutog on the western coast of Norway. In a little less than 15 months Atlantic currents had carried the bottle approximately 2,000 miles.

Bank Cashier Also Grabs Pal of Wounded Man.

For five years Eugene Eckman, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Riverside, kept a rifle in his cage as a defense against robbers. The raid came yesterday afternoon and he used the weapon effectively, wounding one of a pair of highwaymen, probably fatally, and capturing the other.

The wounded bandit, shot through the body, is Walter Young, alias Dick Richards, 36 years old, of 1015 North Clark street. He told the police that his wife and three children live in Kansas City. His captured companion is James Walker, also known as Ben Howard, 38 years old, who lived with Young.

Chief Finally Arrives.

Eckman, before he shot it out with Young and seized Walker, had pressed a button which rang an alarm in the Riverside police station. Policeman William A. Crowe, the only one in the station at the time, leaped into a police automobile and arrived after the battle. Chief of Police Clarence C. Neuschaefer of Riverside appeared in the station an hour after the holdup.

"Hello!" said the chief to a group of reporters, "what are you fellers doing here?"

"Why, haven't you heard, chief? The bank's been held up!"

"No," said the chief, "they don't hold up banks in Riverside!" And it was difficult to convince him it was true, although he could not explain why he thought Riverside immune.

Eckman's quick action saved $1,519, which Young and Walker had taken from the till in his cage. Walker was locked up at the village police station, and Young, after being attended at the West Suburban hospital, was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Recalls Former Holdup.

Explaining how he happened to have the rifle always at hand in his cage, Eckman said the bank had been held up in 1925 by three bandits.

"I was on duty at the time," he explained, "and they got away with $7,000. I made up my mind that the next bandits would hear from me before they got away."

The two holdup men walked into the bank late in the afternoon and asked Eckman for $1 worth of pennies. He handed them the roll of 100 pennies and as he did so they poked revolvers through the bars and told him to "stick 'em up and open the cage!"

Eckman, pretending fear, opened the cage. The bandits walked in and made Eckman, Miss Ruch Miller, the bookkeeper; Mrs. Hazel Balfanz, secretary, and Mrs. Sidney Tull, a patron, lie on the floor.

Young covered them while Walker quickly swept all the currency and silver in the drawer and on the counter into a canvas bag.

Battle in Street.

The bandits then backed away. At the door they almost ran into R. W. Nelson, treasurer of the town of Riverside, who was entering. They made Nelson face the wall and ran out.

The moment's delay was enough for Eckman. He ran out after them, the rifle at his shoulder, and called on them to halt.

Walker dropped his revolver and the bag of money and lifted his arms in the air. Young kept on going, rounded a corner, and leaped into his automobile. As he stepped on the starter he turned and fired a shot at Eckman. Eckman answered with two shots, one of them piercing Young's body, lodging in the spine.

Eckman turned in time to see Walker start to run, called again on him to halt and then seized him.

FIVE MEN SEIZED AS EXTORTIONISTS IN POLICE TRAP

Twice in the last two weeks, Joseph De Lenro, 1018 South May street, had received letters threatening him with death and his family with physical harm unless he paid $600 to a band of blackhanders. Yesterday De Lenro took the letters to the Maxwell street police.

At the instigation of Sergt. Edward Balata, De Lenro opened negotiations with the extortionists and agreed to deliver the tribute in an envelope to a vacant flat at 1119 South Racine avenue. A police squad was concealed in the apartment last evening when five men entered.

They were seized, and four, who carried guns, were disarmed. The prisoners identified themselves as Louis Cardillo, 1656 West Garfield boulevard; William Caranita, 1933 West Jackson boulevard; Philip Gondolfo, 626 North Kedzie avenue; Joseph Farinello, 1119 South Racine avenue, and John Alesse, 1953 West Jackson boulevard.

Maxwell street police were hunting Tony Artingello, alias Joe Casano, 21 years old, last night, to question him about the murder of Cicero Basile, 38 years old, retail coal dealer, who was shot to death Thursday night near his home at 632 South Morgan street. The investigation indicated that Basile had received black hand threats. Those arrested in the De Lenro home are to be questioned concerning Basile's death.

HEAR WHALEN WILL QUIT POLICE BOARD ON MAY 2

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Grover Whalen, it seems, will actually retire as police commissioner on May 2. At least that is the word going around at city hall and in political circles. Grover, it is said, will return to Wanamaker's Department store as general manager after a year and a half a "loan" to the city.

When Whalen took the job, during the height of the discussion over the failure of the police to catch Arnold Rothstein's slayer, he promised Mayor Walker only one year of his time. Having served this time, and more, he now wants to get back to business.

PRICES OF FOOD LOWER, EXCEPT BEEF AND BUTTER

Butchers Report Sale of Cheaper Meats.

A survey of retail food prices indicates that the cost of nearly all foodstuffs is lower than a year ago, and some important items, including some kinds of meats, are lower than a week ago.

"Although our reports from 75 leading cities indicate that meats have been in fair demand, the consumers are showing a decided tendency to reduce the amounts they pay for the main dishes of their meals," said John Kotal, secretary of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers. He was inclined to attribute this to heavy purchases of luxuries last year and in some degree to decreased employment. His reports in recent weeks, however, show butchers more hopeful of the coming spring business.

Lamb Still Cheap.

Lamb cuts continue to be the cheapest items, according to C. W. Kaiser of the Chicago Retail Meat Dealers' association. Next in line are pork cuts, with choice beef probably at its highest point of the season because the meat is from cornfed animals.

The institute of American meat packers report, lower wholesale meat prices in every type of meat except choice beef, with smoked meat prices unchanged, compared with a year ago. Stocks on hand in packing plants are reported to be lighter, indicating that the winter's demand has been good, the institute officials declared.

Butter prices started an upward swing during the week, due to exceptional demand in rural areas, according to R. W. Balderston, manager of the national dairy council. Storekeepers report increases of 25 to 50 per cent in sales of butter in small towns during the last six weeks, as a result of a nationwide campaign to relieve farmers of their surplus milk production.

"As a result," he said, "dairymen enter the present period of usual increased production without abnormally high stocks of butter in storage. The demand for sweet cream butter in all sections of the country has been increased during the last week, and has boosted prices of all butter several cents a pound."

Chinese Export Is a Factor.

Poultry stocks continue in a state of oversupply on the local markets, produce dealers state, with eggs still at bargain prices because of a winter of heavy egg production. China is continuing to export eggs for American bakeries, confectioners, and ice cream manufacturers in large amounts, it was said, which helps the consumers, but keeps farm prices at unusually low levels for March.

Millers and bakers have been pursuing a policy of watchful waiting in recent weeks, with unprecedented stocks of wheat and flour in the world's grain warehouses. Many bakers, it is said, have not bought flour for over a month, while some millers were reported to be using the last wheat at the bottom of their bins before buying more grain.

Their anxiety over the condition of the present crop on hand, and confusing news regarding condition of the unharvested crop, plus uncertainty as to the policies to be pursued by the federal farm board and foreign wheat holders, were said to have created this situation.

Breakfast cereal manufacturers have continued to buy grains at present low levels in limited amounts, but no material lowering of prices has been reported as yet by any food concern that might be in position to pass low grain prices on to the consumer, according to a leading Chicago grain merchant.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 21.—A murder trial which has gripped England for a fortnight ended today when Sidney Harry Fox, 31, was found guilty of strangling his mother at the Metropole hotel in Margate last October. He killed her for the sake of $15,000 insurance money, policies on which would have expired 20 minutes after the crime, and then set fire to the hotel room in the hope of covering traces of the murder.

Cold Wave Over

A recession of the Canadian cold wave, which brought Chicago and the central states a spell of wintry weather yesterday and last night, was predicted for today. Yesterday's maximum reading was 28 degrees, nearly 10 points below normal. The forecaster, C. A. Donnel, predicted cloudy skies and a slowly rising temperature today, with a return to normal probably by tomorrow night or on Monday at the latest.

MYSTERY RAID MADE ON TOMB OF GABY DESLYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARSEILLES, France, March 21.—A new mystery was added today to the mysterious case of the late Gaby Deslys, famous French dancer, when it was learned that during the night some one had tried to break into her tomb in the Saint Pierre cemetery here. The motive of the ghoulish attempt is incomprehensible, since it is well known that the former dancer's jewels and valuables were not buried with her. A possible explanation is that the grave raiders were seeking a new clew on the riddle of the dancer's identity.

Even when she was alive Gaby was a shadowy figure and her origin was never determined. Since her death two claims have been made for her estate. The first claim was that she was the daughter of a man in Marseilles, where the dancer was officially supposed to have been born, and the second was that of a Hungarian family who claim that her real name was Hedwige Navratil.

LOBBY FUND FOR STOCK MARGIN TO UNSEAT HUSTON

Agent Refutes His Story; Frets G. O. P. Leaders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, it was discovered by the senate investigating committee today, used the $36,100 contributed to the Muscle Shoals lobby by the Union Carbide company, to cover a shortage in his marginal trading account with a New York brokerage firm.

That evidence, given by his confidential agent, W. E. Moore, and other testimony from F. H. Haggerson, president of the carbide company, contradicting Huston's own story of the transaction in important details, will undoubtedly hasten, it is believed, Huston's resignation from the party chairmanship. Moore, secretary of the Associated Bond and Share company, of which Huston is chairman, has been Huston's associate in various enterprises for twenty or more years.

While no one expects Huston to resign before the Caraway committee has completed its inquiry, Republican leaders in and out of congress declared privately today that it is inevitable that he must retire as a result of exposure of his relations with the Muscle Shoals lobby, before the coming congressional campaign opens.

Brokers' Ledgers Shown.

Faced with the original ledger sheets of Blyth & Bonner, the New York brokers, Moore admitted that when a $22,100 contribution to the Tennessee River Improvement association, solicited from the carbide company, by Huston, was deposited with the brokers, Huston's trading account showed a shortage of $19,381. Subsequently another contribution of $14,100 was used to open a new account which was closed out, Moore testified, after a profit of $526 was realized. Huston resigned the presidency of the Tennessee River association when he became Republican chairman last August.

A few minutes later, Haggerson, bluntly admitting that he expected the $36,100 to be used to "secure acceptance of the American Cyanamid company bid for Muscle Shoals," denied the money was intended as the purchase price for maps, charts and data gathered by the Tennessee River Improvement association.

Influence on Power Bill.

Shortly after President Hoover's inauguration, Huston, Haggerson testified, solicited him for a contribution to the Tennessee River Improvement association, asserting that the organization would probably not require assistance much longer. The inference Haggerson conceded under cross questioning, was that, with the special session of congress coming on, the pending Wright bill embodying the cyanamid bid would probably be disposed of. Under an agreement with the cyanamid company, the carbide company would get 50,000 horse power of the electricity developed at Muscle Shoals.

Huston, who produced canceled checks before the committee to show the $36,100 was "promptly and properly disbursed" to the improvement association over a period of a few months, asserted yesterday he never knew the fund had been used by Moore as margins until he heard C. H. Krickl, member of the brokerage firm, testify.

RICH FOSTER PARENTS TO RETURN ADOPTED BABY TO GIRL MOTHER

Vilma Doris, 6 months old, will not grow up as the adopted child in the luxury of a north shore home, but will be returned this morning to her mother, Mrs. Vivian Ward, 19 years old, 2627 North Spaulding avenue.

The foster parents of the baby, who had started legal proceedings to adopt her, waived their rights and volunteered to return the child to the Cradle Society hospital of Evanston, from which they had obtained her. That institution will return the baby to her mother, according to Mrs. Florence Walrath, director manager of the hospital.

"The arrangement is a personal one between the present foster parents and the mother," Mrs. Walrath said. "We are concerned in protecting the persons who adopt babies from us, but in this case legal adoption was not completed and it was the foster parents' own arrangement to give back the baby to her mother."

Frank J. Tyrrell, attorney for Mrs. Ward, said that the adoption consent papers were not legal because the baby's father had not signed them. Mrs. Ward on Thursday obtained a writ of habeas corpus requiring the appearance of Cradle Society hospital officials in the court of Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski on Monday, but the plea will be withdrawn, Attorney Tyrrell said.

Seek Woman as She Flees Mother's Writ for Baby

The police last night were seeking Mrs. Hattie Tobin, who fled from her home at 4817 Dakin street, with Shirley Dolores Cunningham, 5 years old, whom she refuses to give up to her mother. Mrs. Tobin was wanted for appearance in Judge Michael L. McKinley's court, where Attorney Irene V. McCormick has filed habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of the child's mother, Mrs. Catherine Grecco. According to the mother, Mrs. Tobin has had the child since she was a year old. Attorney McCormick said the mother made an effort to get the child in January, 1927, and Mrs. Tobin then fled with the child.

AGREE ON TERMS FOR AIRPORT USE OF SCHOOL LAND

Board Expected to Ratify Expansion Lease.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

After nearly two years of negotiations representatives of the city council and of the board of education yesterday reached an agreement which both groups believe will make possible the transfer of school land to the city for the expansion of the municipal airport to nearly four times its present size.

The city officials and school trustees, aided by the Chicago aero commission and air operators, ironed out their differences at a conference in the office of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. The terms of the agreement will be submitted to the board of education next Wednesday.

Both Make Concessions.

The new terms are the result of concessions by both the city and the schools. They call for a fifty year lease of the land at $20 per acre for the first twenty years, the rental to be increased $10 per acre at the beginning of each ten year period thereafter. The land involved comprises approximately 600 acres of school property, part of which is now occupied by the city air field at 63d street and Cicero avenue. The schools are to receive half the profits of the airport and the city is to pay all improvements and taxes.

Immediately after the conference the Chicago aero commission met and adopted a resolution approving the proposed lease and offering to withdraw its previous recommendation to the city council that the $450,000 airport bond issue be withdrawn from the April ballot. This recommendation was made two weeks ago when it appeared that the schools and the city were too far apart in their demands to reach an early agreement.

Indicate Plan Is Acceptable.

Commissioner Wolfe proposed the new rental rates after city officials and air line operators made it plain that they would not accept the lease now pending before the board which contains a revaluation clause raising the rent at the end of twenty years to approximately $300,000 per year.

While the aldermen and the school trustees did not vote on the resolution containing the new terms, all of them indicated that the new proposal would be acceptable. But whether enough members of the school board will be in the city next Wednesday to warrant bringing the airport matter to a vote seemed problematical yesterday.

Commissioner Wolfe declared that all parties were in closer accord on the airport matter than they had ever been and promised to see that the measure is rushed through the city council if the board of education acts favorably on it. President Caldwell of the school board urged support of the new lease.

TWO EX-BAILIFFS FOUND GUILTY IN ATTACK ON GIRL

Three men, two of them formerly Municipal court bailiffs, were found guilty yesterday in Judge John P. McGoorty's Criminal court of an attack on a 17 year old girl. The jury fixed their punishment at 5 years each in the penitentiary, after deliberating all night.

The former bailiffs are Thomas Morrissy, 35 years old, and Thomas O'Reilly, 24 years old. Harry Barrett, 18 years old, is the other man convicted.

The evidence of the state was that Morrissy, a friend of the victim's family, took the girl for a ride on April 21. He took her to a forest preserve at the end of 92d street, it was brought out, and there Barrett assaulted the girl while the older men were accused of being accessories.

"Oldest Man" in Illinois Is Buried at Age of 102

Pana, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Thomas Tipsword, 102 years old, said to be the oldest man in Illinois, was buried today at Beecher City, southeast of Pana, having died Wednesday night of senility.

ROCKEFELLER JR. GIVES 16 MILLION FOR U. S. FOREST

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The New York American tomorrow will say John D. Rockefeller Jr. has established a $16,000,000 fund for western national park forests. Col. Arthur Woods is directing the disposition of the fund.

The Rockefeller project, the newspaper will say, calls for governmental coöperation on a basis of "fifty-fifty" in the purchase of forest lands to be saved from commercial lumbering. The first objective is to be the outskirts of Yosemite National park in California.

Dr. Charles Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., American tree expert, who directed reforestation in France, Italy, and England after the world war, said that Rockefeller "came to the front" after discussions both with him and with his son, Arthur N. Pack, president of the American Nature association.

JAPANESE BALK AT THREE-POWER PACT ON NAVIES

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—With the five power navy agreement held up by the Franco-Italian deadlock, it became known tonight that serious obstacles have developed to prevent the conclusion of a three power treaty among America, Great Britain, and Japan should the five power negotiations fail.

Japan is holding out for further concessions as the price of joining a three power agreement. With the entire French delegation back in Paris and the date of Premier André Tardieu's return to London still uncertain, the impression gathered at American delegation headquarters tonight is that hope for success of the five power naval conference is waning.

MacDonald Sends Out "S. O. S."

The sudden crisis in the three power negotiations caused Prime Minister MacDonald to summon American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, to 10 Downing street, conferring with them separately. Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald decided to take a determined stand against further concessions to the Japanese. Later the American delegation agreed the concessions would represent the limit which the United States will yield.

The attitude of Mr. Stimson for a five power pact was authoritatively described as hopeful, if not definitely optimistic. He retired tonight to his country estate at Stanmore for the week-end.

Stimson Still Has Hopes.

Mr. Stimson is disposed to put in at least another week trying to bring the French and Italians together so a five power naval limitation treaty may be written. Not until the last vestige of hope in that direction disappears is he willing to fall back on the last resort, a three power treaty.

The hitch in the three power negotiations developed in Tokio. The Japanese government is exhibiting marked hostility to the settlement reached by the American, British, and Japanese delegations. According to information from Tokio, Kijuro Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, told the British ambassador that the Japanese delegation here was split on the proposal made by the American delegation with the approval of the British.

M. Shidehara is quoted as stating that the diplomatic members of the Japanese delegation favored the settlement reached by Senator David A. Reed and Tsuneo Matsudaira, but that Admiral Takarabe and other naval members strongly opposed it. The upshot, according to M. Shidehara, was that the proposition was referred to Tokio without recommendation.

No Three-Power Pact.

M. Shidehara said the Japanese admiralty is strongly opposed to an agreement which accords Japan a parity with America and Great Britain in submarines and 70 per cent of the big cruiser strength of America during the life of the treaty.

As to concluding a three power treaty on the basis of the proposed agreement, he said the Japanese delegation has been instructed only on the basis of a conclusion of a five power treaty. A three power treaty had never been envisaged.

The opposition of the Japanese admiralty to the Reed-Matsudaira agreement is based principally on two counts—big cruisers and submarines. The Japanese came to London demanding 70 per cent of all the auxiliary tonnage allotted to America, and particularly 70 per cent of the eight inch gun cruiser tonnage.

Tokio Demands Big Cruisers.

Under the Reed-Matsudaira agreement the Japanese would have 70 per cent of the big cruiser tonnage during the life of the treaty, because, during that period, America would complete only 15 of the 18 big cruisers allotted under the Anglo-American agreement. The Japanese big cruiser tonnage would be only 60 per cent of the tonnage of the 18 America will eventually have.

The Japanese want additional concessions, particularly the right to replace four 7,000 ton cruisers with three 10,000 tonners and build another 10,000 tonner in 1935. They also want a greater allowance in submarine tonnage, which is fixed at 52,000 tons each for America, Japan, and Great Britain in the Reed-Matsudaira agreement.

A PARLEY "MYSTERY"

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—The "mystery of Chequers" is intriguing what is left of the naval conference today, and on its solution may depend the attitude which will be taken by the French as to their continuation in the parley. The mystery concerns what Prime Minister MacDonald actually said to Premier Tardieu last Sunday about the proposal of diplomatic intervention direct with Premier Mussolini, through British and French ambassadors in Rome, in an effort to induce Italy to yield her demand for parity with France.

M. Tardieu, it is stated, insists Mr. MacDonald gave him a firm promise that he would do so. Mr. MacDonald says he did nothing of the sort. It is reported from French sources that M. Tardieu declares he won't come back to London until there is something worth while coming for and until he has it in writing from Mr. MacDonald.

MacDonald Turned Down.

The popular solution of the mystery is that Mr. MacDonald listened favorably to M. Tardieu's views of this proposal, but when he suggested such an action to the foreign office officials they pointed out the impossibility of going over the head of Foreign Secretary Dino Grandi of Italy.

Rumors are heard of a new Mediterranean alliance, comprising Italy, Rumania, Turkey, Greece, and Bulgaria, thus isolating Jugo-Slavia, which is under French influence.

JAPANESE CAUTIOUSLY WEIGH U. S. PROPOSAL ON NAVAL TONNAGE

TOKIO, March 21.—(AP)—The Japanese government is cautiously considering the tentative agreement of the Japanese and American delegates to the London naval conference, having apparently become convinced that its rejection of the proposal would cause a breakup of the conference and vitally affect Japan's relations with Anglo-Saxon powers.

Conferences between civil and naval authorities of Japan may continue another week before the government decides whether to accept or reject the tentative schedule which would give the United States a total tonnage of 527,000 and Japan 366,900, the latter being 69.6 per cent of the American total.

The matter is complex, with numerous divergencies to be adjusted, that it is believed the cabinet meeting tomorrow will be unable to reach a decision. Instructions to the Japanese delegation are not expected to be sent until after Tuesday's cabinet meeting and may not be transmitted before the meeting of March 28.

Smallpox Found in Two Schools; Examine Pupils

An examining of the pupils of the Cregier Junior High school and the Brainard Grammar school was ordered yesterday by Health Commissioner Kegel, after a case of smallpox had been found in each institution. The two pupils found to be suffering from the disease are sisters, Margaret and Clara Belle Smith, 1858 West 13th street. They were sent to the Isolation hospital, where another member of the family had been taken previously.

ALL-INDIA BODY BACKS GANDHI IN FREEDOM "WAR"

Awaits His Arrest as General Signal.

AHMEDABAD, India, March 21.—(AP)—The all-India congress committee today approved the civil disobedience campaign of Mahatma Gandhi and expressed the hope that the entire country would respond by efforts toward attainment of purna swaraj—complete independence.

The group unanimously adopted a resolution approving the working committee's action of Feb. 14, which authorized Gandhi to initiate his civil disobedience campaign, and congratulating him on the journey to the sea begun March 12.

Authorized Spread of "War."

The resolution further authorized provincial committees to organize undertakings for civil disobedience, concentrating as far as possible on civil breaking of the salt laws, the laws which Gandhi plans to break by manufacturing salt at the gulf of Cambay.

The resolution counseled against civil disobedience until Gandhi has reached the gulf, has actually broken the salt laws, and has given word accordingly.

In the event of Gandhi's arrest before then, the provinces are authorized to start their campaigns immediately.

Vallabhai Patel, Gandhi lieutenant, and J. M. Sen Gupta, mayor of Calcutta, were congratulated on their arrests, the resolution declaring that this strengthened the national resolve to carry on the campaign. Village officials who resigned government service to help in the national movement were also congratulated.

Provide for President's Arrest.

With a view to providing for a contingency in the event of the arrest of the president and other members of the congress working committee, the all-India committee adopted another resolution empowering the president to nominate his successor as member of the working committee.

The all-India congress committee also adopted a resolution disaffiliating the American branch of the Indian national congress on the ground that "office holders of the branch carry on public propaganda against the declared policy of the congress and directly contrary to the congress' creeds and methods."

MIAMI HAS TO PUT UP $4,660 TO SEND 40 BEAUTIES TO HOMES

Miami, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—More than forty American girls who participated in the recent Miami beauty pageant were on their way home today—thanks to a special meeting of the city commissioners which produced their railroad fares.

The commissioners, who said the pageant association had an indebtedness of $24,734, appropriated $4,660 from the city's publicity fund to help the girls get out of the city.

Some of the forty or more girls had prize money due them and others had been unable to collect traveling expenses from the pageant association.

Among bills unpaid, the council was told, was one for $6,910.88 for railroad transportation.

MEANS REVEALS 'INSIDE STORY' OF 'OHIO GANG'

Book Being Examined by U. S. Attorney.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Amazing charges of graft and corruption and even of deaths, linked together in the most sensational scandal history of the Harding administration to appear thus far, are being examined by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, it was learned tonight.

On sale at book stores for the first time today, the book, dictated by Gaston B. Means, former justice department agent and ex-convict, purports to tell the inside story of the famous "Ohio gang."

Mr. Rover, it is expected, will decide tomorrow whether there is ground for grand jury action against Means or some of the persons accused in his book.

Investigator Extraordinary.

Drawn, he says, from the voluminous diaries in which he recorded his activities as an "investigator extraordinary" from 1921 to 1923, Means reveals that he was secretly employed by Mrs. Harding to establish the falsity of rumors of Harding's intrigue with Nan Britton.

While serving Mrs. Harding secretly, Means asserts in his book, his home actually was the headquarters of the "gang," which gathered there nightly to discuss the progress of their many plots. The place, barred and fortified like an arsenal, Means says, was maintained at "huge expense out of the mysterious millions which flitted through the hands of Means to Jess Smith and thence to Washington Court House, O., the home town of Harry M. Daugherty."

Graft Money in Ground.

Graft money was kept in a hole in his back yard, Means asserts, until Smith found it convenient to take the cash to Washington Court House.

In the book Means charges, among other things, that Smith, known as former Attorney General Daugherty's "Man Friday," did not commit suicide, but was killed to seal his lips; that an unnamed girl was struck by a bottle during a riotous party, and the inference is that the girl subsequently died; that T. B. Felder, another of Daugherty's one time confidants, "died suddenly" just after he announced that he would tell "the whole story"; that John T. King, well known politician, and C. F. Hateley, justice department agent, both of whom "knew too much," likewise died suddenly.

Indicative of the huge sums collected by the "gang" in its heyday, Means asserts he was sent to New York by former Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt to search out and obtain evidence against important bootleggers and liquor importers. Once in New York, Means, according to his story, established headquarters in a hotel, and at the direction of the "gang" proceeded to sell protection to the bootleggers.

THEATER TO INSTALL EQUIPMENT TO HELP DEAF TO HEAR ACTORS

Efforts to procure hearing aids for deaf or partly deaf persons who wish to attend church services and theaters in Chicago received their first actual impetus last night, when Mortimer H. Singer of the Keith-Orpheum circuit announced that the State-Lake theater hopes to be the first Chicago house to equip its seats with such apparatus. Installation of the necessary fixtures will be started immediately, he said.

Eight Chicago organizations are cooperating in the drive to secure the hearing aids in churches and theaters. Investigation has shown that there are at least 300,000 individuals here whose hearing is impaired, it was said yesterday by Mrs. Louis Pelton, chairman of the committee in charge. The clubs supporting the movement are the Chicago Woman's Aid, Chicago Woman's club, Woman's City club, Illinois Club for Catholic Women, National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago Teachers' federation, first district; Illinois Nurses' association, and the woman's auxiliary of the Chicago Medical society.

BRITISH FARMERS ASK FIXED PRICE ON HOME WHEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—British farmers, through the council of the National Farmers' union, issued an urgent appeal yesterday to the government for assistance. The farmers are backed up by farm workers and ask the state to guarantee the price of $1.72 a bushel for home grown wheat this year. They also request that legislation set up a system of guaranteed remunerative prices on all home grown cereals.

British wheat is selling at about $1.18 a bushel and the annual production is approximately 48,000,000 bushels. If the guarantee on wheat becomes effective this year it will cost the taxpayers about $20,000,000, while it would take more to cover the barley and oats.

Polish Prince Jailed for Dishonesty; Society Gasps

WARSAW, Poland, March 21.—(AP)—Warsaw society has been shocked by the arrest of Prince Thomas Lubomirski, 37, nephew of Prince Stanislas, chairman of the Bank of Commerce, and a relative of Casimir Lubomirski, first Polish minister to the United States. He has been charged with dishonesty in several financial transactions.

RUSSIA PUTS BAN ON JUNKETS TO SPEED INDUSTRY

Orders Famine Fund Used to Buy Grain.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 21.—Joy riding inspection committees, traveling around Russia investigating defects in the nationalized industry of Russia, have been condemned by the central committee of the communist party. This committee reports that after several years of continuous inspections soviet industry is functioning worse stead of better.

According to this decree, the works of the Ural metal trust have been visited by 30 inspection committees since last November. Complaints against the government bureaucracy for continuing to appoint junketing expeditions have resulted in this new order authorizing the directors of industrial, rural, economical and cooperative undertakings to refuse admittance to their premises to investigators.

Several other interesting decrees have been published recently by the Moscow Isvestia.

The first one announces that the commissariat of agriculture had telegraphed all of its local branches, stating: "The most important duty at the present moment is to increase cultivated land. Inform the peasants that their extended sowings of last year, which have not been taxed, will remain untaxed during the present year.

Another decree gave the local branches permission to use the famine grain fund, established a year ago, for sowing purposes, and orders all tractors operated by industry to be immediately sent to the country to assist in cultivation.

Rumors concerning the new fight within the walls of the Kremlin, between Stalin and his Georgian clique, and Michael Kalinin, Alexis Rykov and Nikolai Bukharin, who favor a more moderate course, are continuing to circulate. The official soviet telegraph agency published a curiously worded denial of the report that Stalin had resigned, saying:

"The reports that Stalin was forced to resign are not true. This matter can only be decided at the coming conference of the communist party presidium."

"GUN GIRL" WHO KILLED OFFICER DOOMED TO DIE

Mrs. Schroeder Hears Verdict with Smile.

Facing a jury of ten men and two women, who had deliberated on her fate in the slaying of a highway patrolman for less than three hours, Mrs. Schroeder was unmoved at 9:25 p. m. as she heard the foreman read: "Guilty of murder in the first degree and we fix the penalty of death."

She entered the courtroom with a smile upon her face, and her calm was unbroken as she consulted with her attorneys and heard the jury polled. She looked straight ahead and did not even pale as the verdict was repeated twelve times until each juror had uttered the fatal words.

In contrast to the blonde woman's unperturbed attitude many men and women in the courtroom could be seen wiping away tears.

Jokes in Her Cell.

Seated in her cell a few minutes after the verdict, Mrs. Schroeder carried on lighthearted repartee with W. Glenn Dague, indicted with her for the killing of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul following a robbery last Dec. 27.

Dague, walking about outside his cell on the floor below, called to her: "How are you feeling, Irene?"

With crowds outside the jail yelling the verdict so that their words were clearly audible, Mrs. Schroeder replied: "Come on up and see."

"I would if I could," was Dague's response.

"Why don't you?" Mrs. Schroeder countered.

"O, just because," Dague shouted back.

"Go to bed, you old devil," said the woman, and the exchange was concluded.

Defense counsel announced tonight that a motion for a new trial would be made Monday morning before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, who presided at the trial. If a new trial is denied, it was said an appeal would be taken to a higher court.

The jury, it was learned, took three ballots in arriving at a verdict.

Iowa Woman Gets Life.

Anamosa, Ia., March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Tilda Miner tonight was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury of eight women and four men for the poison slaying of her husband, Edward Miner. The jury deliberated but six hours before returned its verdict at 10 p. m.

The jury recommended life imprisonment at hard labor. Judge H. C. Ring will pronounce sentence on March 26.

When the jury reported at 9:35 that it was ready with its verdict, Mrs. Miner broke down. She held her 9 year old son, Charles, to her breast as she waited for the verdict. Her sister, Mrs. George South, also broke down and cried. Her mother remained calm until the foreman pronounced the word "Guilty." Then she started to moan.

Albert Hartwig, Mrs. Miner's alleged paramour, awaits trial on the same charge. He is alleged to have purchased the poison.

HOLD MOTHER OF THREE AS LEADER OF CRIME SCHOOL

Mrs. Nellie Smith, 25 years old, 2643 West Superior street, mother of three small children, was held under $2,500 bonds on two charges of burglary yesterday by Judge Allegretti in Boys' court. The woman's husband, Edward, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction on a charge of operating a still in the Smith home, which, the court found, was the rendezvous of boys of the neighborhood, whom Mrs. Smith taught to steal.

Five youths found in the apartment in a raid conducted by Sergt. Charles Walsh of West North avenue police were also held in $2,500 bonds each on burglary charges. Mrs. Smith appeared in court with a 5 month old baby in her arms and was severely reprimanded by Judge Allegretti.

"You deliberately filled these boys with the moonshine made upon your own premises and then you led them forth to plunder and steal," the judge said. "There's no sentence I could pronounce upon you that would be too severe."

SENTENCE KILLER OF CAFE OWNER TO DIE APRIL 11

William Lenhardt, 22 years old, Cleveland gunman, was refused a new trial yesterday by Judge Phillip Finnegan of the Criminal court and he was sentenced to be electrocuted on April 11 in accordance with a verdict returned several weeks ago by a jury. He was convicted of murdering Milton Valasporcious, restaurant owner, during a robbery on June 20, 1929.

Lenhardt was not outwardly affected by the imposition of the death penalty. His mother, Mrs. Sophie Glovka, a Cleveland rooming house keeper, became hysterical and was taken from the courtroom. The defendant told the judge that he felt he had not been given a fair trial. He said he could prove that he was in Cleveland the night of the murder. Three of his witnesses were sentenced for perjury during the trial.

Four colored men are sentenced to be executed on the same day as Lenhardt.

Wife, Used as Business Barometer, Gets Divorce

Mrs. Margaret Brunney, 28 years old, 9124 South Marshfield avenue, yesterday won a divorce from her husband, Willis Brunney, before Superior Judge Sabath. She charged that her husband beat her whenever he felt that his business was not going well. The Brunneys were married on Jan. 23, 1927, and separated on Jan. 7, 1929.

FROM THE ISLAND OF ST. HELENA

St. Helena is a British island possession lying in the South Atlantic ocean, 1,200 miles west of the nearest African coast. The island's chief claim to fame is as the place of banishment for Napoleon Bonaparte from Oct. 17, 1815, to May 5, 1821, when he died of cancer. Forced to flee France after Waterloo, he sought asylum on a British warship, was taken to Plymouth, and shortly afterward to St. Helena. Napoleon's residence was at Longwood, the island being strongly garrisoned during his detention. During the South African war St. Helena was used as a detention camp for interned Boer prisoners. The only port is Jamestown, which is also the residence of the governor. The island has an area of forty-seven square miles.

REALTY CONCERN LOSES FIRST OF 87 BUYERS' SUITS

Superior Judge Gentzel yesterday ruled against the H. O. Stone Real Estate company in the first of 87 suits brought by purchasers of property in the company's Lake Bluff subdivision on Waukegan road, which was opened five years ago. The buyers charged that salesmen misrepresented the subdivision by stating that it was within the village of Lake Bluff and that a railroad station was to be built in the district.

Judge Gentzel ordered the company to return $2,200 paid on property in the area by Emil Burgh, 3007 North Kilpatrick avenue. The suits still pending involve more than $100,000. The company offered the defense that its contracts absolved it of responsibility for salesmen's promises.

"The courts should not lend themselves to principals who hire high pressure salesmen, who rashly make any sort of statement or promise to have the unwary or illiterate sign a contract," the judge ruled. "No court should lend itself to the perpetration of such fraud."

NORTHWEST SIDE GETS GLIMPSE OF NEW TROLLEY BUS

Residents of the northwest side, who fought several years for the installation of feeder buses in their territory, were given a glimpse yesterday of one of the new buses that will give them transportation. The bus was taken to Elston and Lawrence avenues, where it was inspected by Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st] and other residents, in order to make adjustments as to the trolley wires that will furnish the motive power for the trackless trolley buses that will be used.

Service on the Elston route will not be ready for four months, according to Guy A. Richardson, vice president of the Surface Lines. Gasoline bus service, however, will be installed on Diversey boulevard in approximately six weeks and later will be replaced by the trolley buses, which have a free operation that permits them to range between the curb and the center of the street.

IRISH BUILT FORD TRACTORS GET BIG SALE IN AMERICA

Exports of Cork Factory Hop to Huge Figures.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CORK, Irish Free State, March 21.—The fact that Henry Ford is manufacturing for use in America in his Irish factory at Cork, was mentioned in a recently published statement by Mr. Ford himself, when he paid tribute to the work of Irish labor, both in Cork and Detroit. But up until now it was not realized to what great extent the production for America had developed here.

As a result of an inquiry among Cork Harbor authorities today, some remarkable figures were revealed. During January, 1,365 tractors were sent from Cork to New York, and in February the number increased to 2,505.

Exports Show Boost.

Tractor parts, weighing 167 tons, were sent in January, and 427 tons in February. In February 275 tractors and six tons of tractor parts were shipped to St. Johns and New Brunswick. In addition to these exports to the American continent, development of trade in other directions has spread rapidly.

British ports received 312 tractors in January, with seven tons of tractor parts, while in February the figures were 135 tractors and 971 tons of tractor parts. Havre, France, received 17 tractors and 30 tons of parts in January, with no tractors, but 20 tons of parts in February. Forty tractors were sent to Antwerp in January, and in February 13 tons of parts. Hamburg, in January, got one tractor and 90 tons of parts, while in February 515 tractors and 774 tractor parts were shipped to the German port.

Tons Go to Other Ports.

No Ford tractors were sent to Murmansk, Russia, during January, but tractor parts, totalling 1,097 tons were exported. In February the same port received 376 tons in machinery. Trieste and Barcelona, between them, took 499 Irish built Ford tractors and 28 tons of parts. Altogether exports from Cork to places abroad in these two months for January totalled 1,733 tractors and 2,300 tons of tractor parts, with 3,929 tractors and 1,933 tons of parts in February.

Export, under both heads, has been steadily increasing, and March figures are expected to be still higher.

STUDENT HURT IN SCHOOL FIRE.

Routed from his bed by flames in the basement of the De Paul university school of music, 2235 Sheffield avenue, early yesterday, Herman Hunthausen, 22 years old, a student-janitor, was burned about the face and arms while sounding an alarm. The property damage was small.

EXPERTS FACING A LEAN YEAR AT CITY FEE TROUGH

Payments for First Two Months of 1930 Small.

A lean year for the "experts" who serve the city hall administration for salaries in excess of the $18,000 a year paid to Mayor Thompson was indicated yesterday in the records of the controller's office. These showed that the list of vouchers, on which the public's high priced servants appear, is small, both for January and February.

The reduction of fees this year was attributed in the city hall to the financial stringency and the fact that the amounts of cash turned over to the city by the citizens' committee are sufficient only for the regular employés. The money crisis actually was felt by the "experts" late in 1929 as some of the unpaid bills held in the controller's office were turned in by them last year.

Many Large Fees Shown.

The written proceedings of the city council for last year, in which are printed each month the names of the experts and the amounts they received, presented a picture different from what is indicated for this year. A number of the experts' fees last year were above the $15,000 annual salary of Corporation Counsel Ettelson and the $6,000 stipend of Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements. Most of the "experts" are employed by or on the approval of these two members of the cabinet. The yearly totals of a number of the legal "experts" are as follows:

A. H. Veeder	23,200	S. L. Golan	12,937
J. G. Brennan	17,737	Frank R. Reid	11,450
E. C. Higgins	17,400	F. A. Bangs	11,250
A. T. Gilbert	15,295	Harry Klatzco	10,800
J. J. Sullivan	14,950	H. P. Beam	10,500
E. S. Gorham	14,900	F. D. Ayers	8,550
		H. T. Gilbert	7,970
		J. R. Roach	6,665
		J. F. Tyrrell	1,900

On Contract with City.

The city had a contract with Attorney Bradley by which he was to receive a percentage of the amount collected from foreign insurance companies who had not paid taxes for a number of years. Bradley's services covered a period of several years, according to the records.

Other experts' fees were as follows:

REAL ESTATE VALUATORS.

H. Goldstine	$30,400	Daniel King	$ 8,925
E. C. Harris	21,850	W. M. Brinkman	7,237
E. R. Woolf	20,700	B. F. Kleeman	6,975
E. M. Forchheimer	19,850	J. J. Ready	6,667
G. C. Crawford	15,900	Eli Goldstine	5,537
Leo J. Strauss	10,150	G. W. Kuntsman	5,350

BUILDING VALUATORS.

G. M. Posner	$30,100	D. J. O'Donovan	8,000
W. E. Mass	9,925

ENGINEERS.

D. A. Wallace	$22,870	W. H. Crumb	6,100
Max Blatt	8,100

The fifty aldermen of the city council receive each $5,000 a year salary and $720 annually for automobile maintenance. Several have commented with feeling in council sessions on the experts' fees and some discussion in the 1930 budget battle centered on the lump sums appropriated for the employment of the high priced employés.

ZIGZAG ROUTE OF ZEPPELIN'S NEXT HOP TO U. S. FIXED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 21.—An itinerary of the Zeppelin's flight to Lakehurst, N. J., by the way of Rio de Janeiro and Pernambuco, Brazil, was announced today.

The ship will leave Friedrichshafen on May 10 and fly to Seville, Spain, where it will stop for one day. Then, by the way of the Canary islands, it will cross the ocean to Pernambuco, Brazil, and follow the coast as far as Rio de Janeiro. If the weather is good the ship will land for 24 hours at Rio de Janeiro and also offer a sightseeing cruise over the city. In case of dirty weather the airship will simply cruise over Rio de Janeiro and continue to Pernambuco where it will tie up for three days.

From Brazil the Zeppelin will go to Havana where if the weather is good it will offer a sightseeing trip over the city before flying on to Lakehurst. After three days there it will return to Friedrichshafen by the way of Seville.

CHARGE POLITICS BEHIND MOVE TO BOOST LOOP TAX

Owners Protest Board Tactics as Unfair.

Owners of sixty-one parcels of loop property yesterday appeared before the board of review to voice protests against a move to raise their 1928 land assessments. Charges were made that the board is acting illegally and with questionable motives in demanding the owners to show cause why their valuations should not be increased.

The board on Monday notified the property owners of the impending increase on recommendation of its land committee. The properties involved number 271 items. The board announced no details and asked that arguments be submitted in writing. All of the properties were named in the 1,794 complaints filed by the board of education against almost every piece of property in the loop.

Charges Political Motives.

Despite the boards' announcement, the property owners made verbal protest. Fred J. Tucker, representing the Ashland block, one of the properties, demanded to know why only 61 properties were singled out. He charged that the proceedings were in violation of property rights and the board was acting from political motives.

"We are asked to make a defense without knowing what the charges are," Attorney Lester L. Falk, representing the building owners' association, interposed. "I object to the entire proceeding. The statutes of this state and the constitution contemplate no deprivation of property by an excessive tax levy unless the owners are accorded a proper opportunity to be heard.

"We are told in the notice to show why assessments should not be raised. We are not told why. We are not told how much. We are given no reasons. The board is not fair minded in its action. The parcels singled out here are assessed as high as, and perhaps higher than those fortunate enough to escape notice."

Seek Fair Value, Barrett Says.

After four hours of wrangling the board repeated its request that answers be submitted in writing by Monday morning. Charles V. Barrett, member of the board, said that an effort is being made to find the fair cash value of the properties.

"If the figures of the assessors are found to be correct, they will stand," he said. "If we find cause for increase, it shall be made. The board is making an honest effort to do its duty."

A forum on the tax situation in Illinois will be held today at a meeting in the Hamilton club. The speakers will be William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission; George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuations; Charles Ringer, member of the board of assessors, and the members of the board of review, Chairman William H. Weber, Charles V. Barrett, and Edward R. Litsinger.

BANKER WHO PULLS WOMEN'S TEETH FOR 'A THRILL' ARRESTED

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—(AP)—Elwyn Bentley, 60, wealthy retired bank president, is held here on charges of practicing dentistry without a license and common assault.

Bentley, a dapper bachelor and member of a prominent Springfield, Mo., family, is accused by Mrs. Mildred Rankin, 25, of having represented himself as a skilled dentist and to have extracted three of her teeth without her permission after she had agreed to permit him to clean them.

Bentley told police that dentistry in an "unprofessional way" had been his principal hobby for ten years. His patients were women, he said, and he charged them nothing. He said he had given dental treatment to about 200 women. In his room in a fashionable hotel were several recently pulled teeth.

"I get a thrill out of it," Bentley said.

He has other hobbies. One is philosophy and another dancing.

SELLS BORROWED WATCH; JAILED.

James Dalaly, 31 years old, of 2243 Polk street, who borrowed a wrist watch from Miss Josephine Armon, 20 years old, 1821 Jackson boulevard, and sold it to a taxi driver, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge McCarthy.

PLANS TO ARREST AUTOISTS WITH FAULTY LIGHTS

Russell Maps Campaign to Promote Safety.

BY HAL FOUST.

Police Commissioner Russell yesterday promised vigorous action against drivers of improperly lighted cars. Night driving in Chicago in the last few months has become increasingly dangerous because of the large number of automobiles without tail lights, or with only one headlight, or with no lights at all.

"I'm in favor of issuing arrest slips to every one motoring at night without all three lamps burning," Commissioner Russell said. "However, some people think the police should merely warn such drivers. I'm going to consult my safety committee at its meeting next Tuesday about starting a campaign against this menace.

"It's possible for a careful motorist, driving on a well lighted boulevard, to have a lamp go out without his knowledge. But in 99 cases out of 100 a dead lamp identifies a motorist who is negligent of the safety of others. The innocent few will suffer with the guilty majority—It is the only way we can correct the evil. Unless all are treated alike, the guilty would escape by telling policemen that the dead bulb had been burning a few minutes before."

Stevens Favors Arrests.

Elmer Stevens, chairman of the safety committee, said he also favored the arrest program, but will await Tuesday's meeting before advising the police commissioner.

"A new electric bulb costs only 25 or 30 cents," said Mr. Stevens, "and it's certainly no burden to require motorists to have both headlights and a tail light. These improperly lighted cars are a hazard to other drivers and to pedestrians."

"In addition to the half lighted cars, too many cars are on the streets without any lights. This is due to carelessness in many cases, the drivers failing to turn on the light switch when starting the machine. But carelessness is no excuse to escape punishment for endangering lives.

Some Hoodlum Cars.

"In other cases, smart alecks of hoodlum tendencies are driving without lights intentionally.

"In addition to the danger to pedestrians and to other motorists, these unlighted cars divert attention from the darkened machines of criminals leaving the scene of a crime, or trailing intended victims, or fleeing from police."

Car Lines Add $2,624,990 to Chicago's Subway Fund

As the bankers' committee was preparing yesterday to resume its sessions on a financial plan for the proposed consolidation of the Chicago transit systems City Controller Schmidt was notified that the city's 55 per cent share of the net profits of the surface lines, after certain deductions, will amount to $2,624,990 for the year ending Jan. 31, 1930. The surface lines' 45 per cent share for the same period will total $2,147,719, an increase of $48,064 over the return of the previous year.

The city's share, which is $58,745 greater than that of the preceding year, is payable on April 10. The money goes into the transit fund and can be used for corporate purposes only by investing it in 1930 tax anticipation warrants. Some reluctance to do this has been exhibited by the aldermen, it is said, because of the reported prospect for a transit settlement and the possibility of digging a subway, for which the money is intended.

Bankers to Meet Today.

The bankers' committee will meet this morning in the office of Frank O. Wetmore of the First National bank. Harry L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co., will come from New York and Eugene M. Stevens, president of the Continental Illinois bank, will sit in for Arthur Reynolds. Other conferees will be Frank M. Gordon of the First National bank, G. W. Pearson of the Continental Illinois, and C. F. Clarke of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

These bankers, as security experts, are expected to call in later Leonard A. Busby of the south side surface lines, Guy Richardson, representing the west and north sides, and Britton I. Budd of the elevated roads. The bankers are said to desire information and advice on certain operating costs and estimates.

It is planned that both bankers and operators shall be prepared and ready to discuss on Monday afternoon the disputed and omitted sections of the tentative franchise ordinance with the local transportation committee of the city council.

Little Change in Security Prices.

Judging from the market prices of transit securities, yesterday's announcement of an accord between the bankers and the aldermen on the disputed points did not appear to impress investors greatly. The investors know that an agreement on the financial plan by the protective committees of the security holders has not been announced, or even forecast.

There was no change in the price at which Chicago City Railway bonds and Chicago City and Connecting Railway bonds were sold yesterday. Metropolitan West Side 4 per cent bonds dropped from 75 to 73¾. The Chicago City and Connecting preferred stock sold up ⅝ of a point, but the closing price was only ½ higher than on March 8.

ASK WAR PLANES TO KILL SICK WILD HORSES

Salem, Ore., March 21.—(AP)—Ranchers in eastern Oregon have appealed to Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, to arrange with the United States army to send bombing planes to wipe out roving herds of wild horses infected with dourine, an infectious disease.

Dr. Lytle said an order from the state live stock sanitary board would be necessary before the ranchers could resort to bombing, and such an order, he predicted, would not be issued unless an uncontrollable infectious disease should appear. Ranchers said that the disease, which eventually results in paralysis and death, is serious and increasing.

REDUCE CRANE FACULTY; KEEP POLITICAL JOBS

Records Throw Light on Loss of Standing.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The records of Crane Technical high school and junior college were cited yesterday as an indication of the school board's view of the importance of providing teachers to instruct pupils, as compared with the importance of supplying political jobs in the school system. The college part of the institution was dropped by the North Central Association of colleges and secondary schools from its accredited list three days ago. The junior college had 2,738 students in February, 1929, 3,361 students last September and 4,359 on March 1, this year. That is a growth of about 60 per cent for the college in a year.

In appropriations and expenditures the high school and junior college are listed by the board as one unit. The appropriation this year, as compared with last year, shows the elimination of the equivalent of 15 teachers. But from the list of custodians, engineers, firemen, janitors, janitresses, matrons and watchmen the school trustees dropped only one employé.

Appropriations Compared.

For all of the items entering into "instruction" under the board's budgetary system, the records show that the trustees appropriated $928,228 in 1929 and only $610,294 this year for the high school and junior college—a decrease of $317,933. In 1928 the board spent $869,231 for instruction in the combined institution when there were considerably fewer pupils than are enrolled this year. That is a cut on instruction of $218,937 this year as compared with 1928.

In the operation of the school plant the trustees made only a nominal cut. There were 35 employés on the job in 1929 and this year the number is 34. Last year the plant operation pay roll totaled $69,888 and this year $66,185. The amount expended for plant operation in 1928 was $64,988.51. The board's committee of building managers has stated in a written report that jobs in the operation of the plant are awarded on a political basis.

The total appropriation for the Crane schools is $693,394 this year, as contrasted with $1,084,192 last year. Of this cut of $390,797 for the entire institution, "instruction" contributed $317,923.50 and the employés in the operation of the plant contributed $4,703.

Why School Is Dropped.

The North Central association found fault with the junior college's policy relative to admissions, the teaching load, and internal organization. It found the school's facilities inadequate, classes too large, library and school records inadequate. The general tone of the institution was also listed as a factor in dropping it from the list of accredited institutions.

The teaching load and the size of classes relate directly to the number of teachers in proportion to the number of pupils. In 1929 with a smaller enrollment the school board appropriated for 249 full time teachers and the equivalent of six months' time for another teacher.

This year the appropriation provides for 287 teachers, but 58 of those teachers are for periods varying between 1 month and 6 months each. The total appropriations provide for the equivalent of only 234 full time teachers, and 2½ months for another teacher, as compared with 249 full time teachers last year.

There is a reduction this year of $293,698 in teachers' salaries alone, and other appropriations accredited to "instruction" were also trimmed, while the pay roll for the cleaning, heating, and lighting of the schoolhouse is almost as large this year as last.

For the pupils the amount appropriated for technical supplies was decreased from $19,696 to $14,250, and laboratory supplies cut from $12,292 to $7,164. With 2,000 less pupils $9,631 was actually spent for laboratory supplies in 1928.

How Trims Are Made.

On the face of the record of appropriations, the board is going to make large savings in the supplies entering into the operation of the plant. Last year the board appropriated $20,000 for coal for the Crane institution. This year the amount has been trimmed to $9,000. That is a projected saving of $11,000.

That is nearly one-fifth of the proposed saving in coal throughout the public school system. For all the schools the board appropriated $1,169,150 last year with which to buy coal, while this year the total is $1,111,017, an aggregate saving of $58,133. In 1928 the Crane school spent $15,926 for coal. The method by which the school will get along on only $9,000 this year was not explained.

The board appropriated $2,075 for gas and electricity for the Crane schools this year, as compared with $5,970 last year. In 1928 the board spent $4,708.47 for gas and electricity. The method by which this reduction will be made is also unexplained.

Whether the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools had access to these records is not known. But the school directory published by the board of education shows that in 1923-'24 the Crane High school and college had 4,405 pupils at the beginning of that school year and 199 teachers. That is an average of one teacher for a little more than 22 pupils. The last directory, for 1929-'30, shows 7,740 pupils and the appropriation ordinance for 1930 shows 234 teachers. That is an average of one teacher for each 33 pupils.

BOGAN TELLS PLANS

Graduates of Crane Junior college, which was dropped from membership by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools during the conference at the Stevens hotel which closed last night, will not lose the results of their two years' work, it was made known yesterday.

Such graduates will, however, have to submit their course credits for entrance in some institution willing to receive them. A member school of the Central association is privileged to exercise its own judgment in accepting the grades and placing students in its own system.

"There is no rule on the matter laid down by the association," an official said. "We give our ratings in much the same manner that Dunn and Bradstreet pass on the rating of a business man. One may accept or reject that rating as he chooses, and do business with the man or not, according to his judgment. That is the identical situation with regard to Crane Junior credits."

In reply to a letter addressed to the executive committee by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, detailing the program of improvement and expansion planned for the Crane school, the committee invited officials of the school to submit it at next year's conference, with application for reinstatement.

Hilton U. Brown of Indianapolis, president of the board of trustees of Butler university, made a fruitless appeal to the executive committee to retain that institution in membership on a probationary basis.

Merle Prunty, superintendent of schools of Tulsa, Okla., was elected president of the association for 1931. Dean C. R. Maxwell of the University of Wyoming was elected first vice president, and G. W. Willett, principal of Lyons Township High school at La Grange, second vice president.

Adolph Menjou, motion picture actor, and his wife, Kathryn Carver, stopped in Chicago yesterday for a few hours when they arrived from New York on the Century en route to Hollywood. They have been abroad for about a year where Menjou made the first talking picture in the French language. "Where can I find Al Capone?" Menjou asked. "I want to meet him."

FATHER IS GIVEN DAY AND A HALF TO WIN CHILD, 9

Edward Arnhem, wealthy manufacturer, was yesterday allowed a day and a half in which to win the love of his 9 year old daughter, Shirley Helen, by Superior Judge Lewis. The father has waged a legal battle for the custody of his daughter since his wife, Mrs. Margaret Arnhem Beauschauen, was granted a divorce on June 27, 1928.

Under the terms of the divorce decree the custody of the child was to be divided between the parents. When his wife, who remarried, charged that Arnhem had taken Shirley Helen to California for a year, the court granted her complete care. Arnhem brought action to see his child.

The judge ruled that the child should see her father occasionally even though the mother retained custody and gave Arnhem the right to a day and a half, yesterday and today, to visit his daughter.

BAILIFFS REFUSE PAYLESS WORK; FEAR COURT TIEUP

County Officials Strive to Avert Crisis.

The Criminal courts will face a crisis Monday morning unless the bailiffs recede from their present position of refusing to work under the county board economy plan of twelve months' work for ten months' pay. Sheriff John Traeger and Anton Cermak, president of the county board, this morning will try to persuade the bailiffs to abide by the plan, so that the Criminal court work will not be tied up.

Judges of the Criminal court discussed the subject at the regular weekly luncheon yesterday and then sent for Traeger and Cermak to ask them to determine what could be done to keep all the courts operating.

No Pay, No Work, They Say.

It is planned to start the payless period of two months on Monday for 28 of the bailiffs. Payless periods for the other bailiffs would follow later. They were asked to sign waivers so that in the future no claim could be made for back pay. They held a meeting in the office of Chief Bailiff Charles Mugler and overwhelmingly voted against working unless paid.

The bailiffs say they have no objection to taking two months off without pay if necessary, but they refuse to work without pay. They point out that in two months of enforced vacation they might be able to earn money at odd jobs.

Normoyle to Explain.

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court was delegated by his associates to appear at the meeting this morning to explain to the bailiffs that if they continue to refuse to work without pay four or five of the courts now operating will have to be closed. Judge Normoyle said that it is generally agreed among the judges that the courts are now undermanned by bailiffs and that to take away 28 more men would seriously cripple the Criminal courts.

Seizes Robbers' Gun and Fires at Pair as They Flee

Two men last night tried to hold up Eugene Pigulsky, 23 years old, of 4617 South Kominsky avenue, a laundry wagon driver, as he was putting up his horse and wagon in the rear of 2927 West Van Buren street. Pigulsky seized the one revolver possessed by the robbers and fired four shots at them as they ran west in Van Buren street.

BRICKBATS MIX WITH GIBES IN SENATOR RACE

Mrs. McCormick and Deneen Liven Battle.

opponents in this manner to divert me from continuing a discussion of genuine issues. I do not believe that such methods will have any effect upon my candidacy except to help it with all those who see this scurrilous sheet. My first reaction to such a method of conducting a campaign for this high office was not one of concern nor solely one of resentment. I have a feeling of shame that my opponents should have found it necessary to stoop so low."

Stresses Independent Stand.

Mrs. McCormick took up the indorsement aspects of the campaign.

"I have said I am a candidate running as a regular Republican," she said, "but that my candidacy is independent of the candidacies of any other individuals seeking office and independent of any factions in any county.

"This distinction between myself and my chief opponent prevails in Cook county just as it does in all the other 101 counties of the state. I am not a resident of Cook county and my political interests there are limited to my desire to represent them as ably as possible in the United States senate. On the contrary, my chief opponent is not only the leader of a party faction in Cook county but he is now interested in promoting the interests of various other candidates who seek county offices and memberships in the important sanitary district board.

"Many ward organizations in Chicago and various leaders in Republican factional politics have recently been pleased to give me their indorsements. I have said, and I want to say again, that a Republican candidate must have the indorsement of a majority within his own party if he is to be nominated. I see no reason why a candidate should not welcome any or all indorsements within his own party so long as the candidate has not made any pledge which will interfere with his freedom to administer his office without obligation to anybody except to the public.

"I have made no pledges or deals with any leaders or groups or factions in Cook county or anywhere else."

Rap Crowe Indorsement.

The Deneen forces bent their attack upon the indorsement of Mrs. McCormick's candidacy by Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. Following a conference with Senator Deneen, Jacob D. Allen, Cook county director of the Deneen group, put forth a statement.

"Mr. Crowe's declaration for the lady opposing Senator Deneen is not surprising," said the statement. "In view of the fact that Morris Eller in the 20th, Joseph Savage in the 25th, and Chris Paschen, building commissioner, have said they feel more at home in Mrs. McCormick's company, Mr. Crowe's enlistment in her cause was to be expected. We shall not be surprised if we are informed Ali Baba and the forty other gentlemen composing his organization have also declared for the lady who does not like the world court."

Deneen to Take Rest.

The conclusion last night of Senator Deneen's swing through the downstate counties at the rate of seven a day, brings him to Chicago for a two days' rest before the formal opening of his Cook county campaign.

"The next two weeks in Chicago will be the bitterest part of the campaign," said Senator Deneen at Aurora, where he spoke on the world court issue. "I expect the endeavor will be made to obtain votes by playing upon the passions and racial animosities growing out of antagonism developed in a thousand years in Europe. Two years ago it was sought to stir up the voters in Chicago by the appeal, 'Do you want a world court in which England is a member, or Italy, or Germany, or France?'"

On Monday night a massmeeting at the Aragon ballroom at Lawrence avenue and Broadway, will start the Deneen Chicago campaign. Several of the Deneen slate candidates are also to speak, and the meeting will be broadcast over station WJKS through a new studio established in Deneen headquarters.

On Tuesday, Senator Deneen is to open his noonday downtown meetings with a speech at the Grand Opera house. Noonday meetings are scheduled daily at loop theaters for the rest of the campaign.

Mrs. McCormick is to campaign in Kane county today, with a meeting at Aurora tonight. Helen Bennett, originator of the Women's World Fair, will talk for Mrs. McCormick from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock tonight over radio station WJJD.

REPUBLICANS IN TWO COUNTIES BACK SEARLE FOR SUPREME COURT

Rock Island, Ill., March 21.—(AP)—Rock Island county Republicans in convention today unanimously indorsed Circuit Judge Charles Searle of Rock Island for justice of the Supreme court from the Fourth district. The 220 delegates, headed by Harry H. Cleaveland, director of the Illinois department of public works and buildings, were instructed to vote for him at the district convention in Monmouth April 10.

Backed by Mercer G. O. P.

Aledo, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—The Mercer county Republican central committee this afternoon indorsed Judge Charles J. Searle of Rock Island as a candidate for the State Supreme court bench in the Fourth judicial district. The convention instructed its delegates to vote for Judge Searle at the Fourth district judicial convention at Monmouth April 10.

Jacksonville, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—At a meeting yesterday of the Schuyler county Republican central committee, delegates to the Fourth district judicial convention, to be held at Monmouth April 10 were instructed to vote for the renomination of Justice Paul Samuell of Jacksonville. Justice Samuell was present as was also George H. Wilson, candidate from Adams county.

U. S. TO RECALL MARINES FROM NICARAGUA DUTY

President to Act When Situation Warrants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Plans for the gradual withdrawal from Nicaragua of 652 officers and men of the 1,600 odd American marines stationed in the Central American republic were announced by President Hoover today. Arrangements for withdrawal of the remainder of the expeditionary marine forces sent to Nicaragua in 1927 during the revolutionary disorders will be made as soon as the situation warrants, administration officials said.

Announcement that the marines will be withdrawn came immediately after the President had listened to the preliminary report of the Forbes commission sent to Haiti to investigate conditions and to work out a new American-Haitian policy for recommendation to Mr. Hoover. It is understood that the commission advised Mr. Hoover that it has some views relating to future American policy in the Caribbean which it would be glad to submit if such action met with the President's wishes.

Based on Haiti Investigation.

A final report based on their investigations in Haiti will be prepared by Chairman W. Cameron Forbes and the other members of the commission during the next ten days for submission to the President. It is well understood that in considering the steps necessary for the gradual establishment of self government in Haiti the final report will include recommendations for the recall the latter part of this year of Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, American high commissioner since 1922. The commission favors replacement of the military commissioner by an American minister. This change probably would take place in the fall when the new permanent government is to take office.

While members of the commission declined to divulge the details of their findings, it was indicated today that they will recommend the gradual withdrawal of the American marine forces now in Haiti, so that all will be out of the republic when the present treaty expires in 1936. Should complete marine evacuation not be possible at that date the commission favors, it is understood, that they be withdrawn as soon afterward as the Haitian national guard proves its ability to maintain order.

Their Caribbean Policy.

Members of the commission did not discuss their projected Caribbean policy, but it is understood it provides for a minimum use of marines. While marine forces may have to be used to maintain order and protect American property in some instances the commission is hopeful that a course of action can be worked out which will make American intervention less objectionable.

In a public statement the commission praised the work done in Haiti during the last fifteen years by American civil and military representatives. The commission expressed its appreciation for the cordial manner in which it had been received by both Haitian people and the American staff.

NEW LAW PROVIDES KENTUCKY WAIT DAY TO COUNT BALLOTS

Frankfort, Ky., March 21.—(AP)—Kentucky election returns will not be known until one or more days after the ballots are cast, under terms of a bill passed by the general assembly. It became a law yesterday, when it was not vetoed within the 10 day limit by Gov. Sampson.

The bill provides that the ballot boxes are to be taken from the precincts to the county clerk's office as soon as the polls are closed and counted the next day, or on Monday if the election is on Saturday.

Uniform ballot boxes, secured by three locks, are provided for by the bill. The keys would be held by the three election commissioners.

BATTLE LIQUOR SMUGGLERS ON MEXICO BORDER

El Paso, Tex., March 22.—(AP)—Border patrol men working out of El Paso last night fought a battle with six Mexican liquor smugglers near Anapra station, west of El Paso on the New Mexico-Mexico line. No border patrolmen were injured, though more than 150 rounds of ammunition were fired.

The smugglers, bearing a large cargo of Mexican and imported liquors on their backs, dropped their loads and started firing when the officers halted them.

Darkness necessitated firing only at gun flashes and it was not determined whether there were casualties among the smugglers' ranks.

FURTHER DELAY ON TARIFF BILL APPEARS LIKELY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Prospects of the passage of the tariff bill in the senate tomorrow went glimmering today as numerous new amendments were brought up for consideration. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, failed to receive much encouragement when he urged the senate to remain in session tomorrow night until the bill is passed. He promised a week's recess if the bill could be completed by tomorrow night.

Senators were skeptical of the possibility of passing the bill before early next week and suggested that if the end is not in sight by 2 o'clock tomorrow the senate take its usual Saturday afternoon off.

Good Progress Made.

The senator at tonight's session made good progress on eleventh hour individual amendments. It seemed possible that action on amendments to rate sections might be nearly completed tomorrow. There will then remain a few administrative amendments and final speeches from senators who wish to explain votes against the bill. The radicals are expected to vote against the bill and half a dozen Democrats also will do so.

Efforts to obtain an increase in the duty on blackstrap molasses as a means of forcing the use of corn in the manufacture of industrial alcohol failed tonight.

Broom Corn Duty Increased.

Illinois senators were successful in obtaining an increase in the duty on broom corn from $10 per ton as proposed in the bill to $20. Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] offered the amendment on behalf of Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], who is absent in his campaign for renomination, but originally sponsored the increase. Broom corn is on the free list in the present law.

The senate for a fifth time rejected an amendment proposing a duty on crude oil and oil products.

The senate added a duty of 10 cents per dozen pieces to the ad valorem duty carried in the bill on chinaware and approved a cut in the duty on plate glass below rates heretofore adopted.

The senate adjourned at 10 o'clock after Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] had vainly sought to continue the session tonight long enough to conclude action on all amendments.

FORMER PASTOR AND DRY AGENT ARRESTED AS HE TENDS A STILL

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 21.—(AP)—C. L. Thoroughman, who left the Methodist ministry in 1923 to become a federal prohibition agent, today was held under $5,000 bond on a government charge of operating a still.

The former minister, who resigned from the government service last July, was arrested last night in a raid four miles south of Lawton. He was in charge of a moonshine plant. A large still, 70 gallons of liquor, an automobile, and several firearms were seized. He admitted ownership of the still.

SENATORS HEAR PLEAS FOR BILLS PROVIDING JOBS

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Unemployment conditions held "comparable only with those of 1914" were linked with pleas for action on legislation now pending in congress in testimony today before a senate investigating committee.

Miss Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner for the state of New York, and Dr. John P. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, were the witnesses.

Charity Appeals Increase.

Miss Perkins said appeals for charity from families of workmen who should have employment but have not "had increased 200 per cent in the last six months" in her state. Dr. Andrews said families living on barges for lack of other shelter indicated that conditions are "the most serious in years."

Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], author of the legislation which the witnesses united in endorsing, said after they testified that if his measure were enacted, "we'll never hear of seasonal unemployment again."

Green to Testify.

Senator Johnson [Rep., Cal.], chairman of the committee, commented that "every time there has been an unemployment crisis, the same suggestion has been repeated—that public building should be set in motion to remedy the situation—but there has been no real enactment."

Early next week William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and two women social service experts of Philadelphia will testify.

PARENTS SUE FOR INSURANCE OF EXECUTED KILLER

Contending that one Harry H. Diamond came to his death at the hands of persons unknown, by electrocution, and against his will, Attorney Walter Bachrach is seeking to collect a double indemnity insurance policy for the man's parents on the ground that the death was accidental.

The suit, believed to be unprecedented, occupied the entire day in Federal Judge Woodward's court yesterday.

Joseph and Esther Diamond are suing the New York Life Insurance company for the double indemnity policy of $12,500. Harry H. Diamond was put to death by electrocution at the Indiana state penitentiary in Michigan City on Nov. 14, 1924, for the murder of his wife, Nettie.

Attorney Homer Cooper, for the insurance company, argued that under the English common law a man executed for a crime forfeits his estate to the government. Attorney Bachrach contended that the laws of Indiana provided for no such forfeiture.

Bandits Slug Girl Clerk on Way to Bank; Get $900

On an errand to the Commercial State bank, 3600 Roosevelt road, Miss Jeanne Wolan, 21 years old, 4115 Grenshaw street, a clerk for Isaac Baron, wholesale commission merchant of 178 South Water street, was waiting for a street car at 14th street and Solon place when two bandits alighted from a sedan nearby. One struck her on the back of her neck, stunning her, while the other snatched from her hands a brief case containing $900. The pair escaped.

Mrs. John A. Swanson, wife of the state's attorney, yesterday gave a political tea in her home at 7217 Crandon avenue for Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, wife of Senator Deneen, and her daughter, Bina. Attending also were Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson, wife of the United States district attorney; Mrs. Chris Kiessling, Mrs. Russell Olson, and Mrs. L. H. Klass.

Berwyn Candidate Sues His Opponent for $100,000

Attorney John H. Ehardt, Republican candidate for police magistrate in Berwyn, yesterday filed a suit for $100,000 in the Circuit court against his opponent, Frank J. Broucek, charging slander. Attorney Leonard J. Grossman, representing Ehardt, said that the action is brought for serious charges made by Broucek in radio campaign speeches.

Whim Slayer's Brother Asks Damages for Finger Injury

George Vogel, a brother of Gus Vogel, convicted "whim slayer" of Lyle Perrenoud, a salesman, appeared before the industrial commission yesterday and made claim for $667 compensation against the Walgreen Drug company. Vogel is serving a sentence in the state penitentiary of one year to life on two charges of robbery. Vogel claimed his finger was permanently injured while in the drug company's employ as a soda clerk.

DEAN OF POLICE DRAMA CRITICS FAILS AS SINGER

Disappoints Audience at Mae West Trial.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Capt. James J. Coy, dean of the police drama critics, qualified this afternoon as an expert on the art of feminine impersonation, but failed miserably as a soprano. Capt. Coy is playing the leading rôle in the all-cop revival of "Pleasure Man," a garbage pail phantasy attributed to the asbestos ribbon of Mae West's typewriter, now in its fifth day in Judge Amedeo Bertini's courtroom.

Nathan Burkan, head lawyer for Broadway Mae and the 54 other assorted defendants, acted as interlocutor and gave Mr. Coy every opportunity to demonstrate his extraordinary pretean abilities. The police critic gave a more than adequate performance considering his lines, but you can take it on his own word that he is no songbird.

"You whoop pretty well," approved Burkan. "Now let us hear you sing. Give us a couple of verses from 'The Queen of the Peaches' as you heard it sung in the show.

Stumped for First Time.

Coy looked appealingly at the amiable prosecutor, James Garrett Wallace, but saw no succor. The cop twisted in the witness chair, cocked his head to one side, and reflected. It was the first time he had been stumped.

'I can't," he confessed sadly. "I don't know the woids. I don't even know the foist voise."

"Go on and sing," demanded Burkan. But the cop would not warble a note.

"Well, now, I'm not able to," admitted Mr. Coy. "I'll tell you why. It is because I never publicly sang a song in my life. I just heard the song once and I didn't try to get the notes."

The court suggested that Coy recite the song, but the cop only recalled one line.

Audience Is Disappointed.

The jury was visibly disappointed and the audience, composed almost exclusively of wives, uncles, and aunts of court attachés, gave the witness a raspberry that brought down the judge's gavel.

The members of the cast of "Pleasure Man" are gradually drifting back to town. More than twenty of the fifty-four were in the courtroom this afternoon. Apparently only two or three of them are personally acquainted with Mae West, the author-actress, for none of the others exchange greetings with the Broadway star.

For the most part they sat studying their fingernails today and did not seem to care much for Critic Coy's version of their drama.

A part of the afternoon was given over to whether or not Julian Eltinge, noted female impersonator of the legitimate stage, walked with his hand on his left hip.

Recalls Eltinge's Art.

Capt. Coy, a great theatergoer, recalled Mr. Eltinge's art, but was of the opinion that the actor did not keep his hand on his hip when portraying female rôles.

"I recall, now that you have prompted my memory," said Mr. Coy, "that Julian Eltinge walked as a woman dressed as he was dressed would walk if he were a woman. He didn't do anything objectionable."

The reason for Capt. Coy's histrionic ability was explained early today. He used to be an actor himself.

"Prior to joining the police department," asked Mr. Burkan, "were you not an actor?"

"I can explain that," stammered the witness.

"Were you a chorus man?"

"I was not. It was about thirty years ago. I was a sort of a supernumerary—part of a mob. I recall the play was the 'Pit.' I just stood around in the ensemble."

"Is that all, captain."

CO-OP TO LEND WOOL GROWERS 90% ON PRODUCT

Officers and directors of the National Wool Marketing corporation, million dollar coöperative created by sheepmen and the federal farm board, arranged at their meeting in Chicago yesterday to advance wool and mohair growers 90 per cent of the market value of their wool upon its delivery at local shipping points. Shearing of western range sheep is already under way, according to L. B. Palmer, Columbus, O., president of the farmer-owned association. The annual wool crop averages 300,000,000 pounds, one-third of which the organization hopes to market when its present membership campaign is completed.

TWO BIG GERMAN SEA LINES BURY AX; MAY MERGE

Fix Agreement Aboard Europa and Bremen.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 21.—The chiefs of Germany's two leading ocean lines, the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American, in preparing to bury the hatchet of more than fifty years, have initialed a working agreement expected to weld German shipping circles into one of the most powerful mergers on the continent. Approval of the two directorates is all that remains to effect the amalgamation.

German financial and shipping leaders negotiated first plans aboard the Europa on its trip from Bremen to Southampton and aboard the Bremen on the return. The conferences were attended by Gustav Krupp, Dr. Albert Voegler, Herr Silverberg, Florian Kloeckner, industrial magnates; Philip Heinken and Karl Stimming of the North German Lloyd; and Jacob Goldschmidt, bank president and one of the Hamburg-American executives.

Plan 50 Year Merger.

According to plans the two ocean lines will merge for a period of fifty years, fly their own flags, keep their own directorates, but pool expenses and income, with the profits to be shared equally. It is further planned to interchange members on the boards of directors to make the coöperation effective.

The chief purpose of the proposed agreement is to place as many ships from each line, as possible, on important routes and letting both develop new routes, thus saving the costs of building new ships. Coöperation on their schedules of sailings, both for passenger and freight, is an added plan, which will avoid losses through tonnage wastes.

Seek a Third Company.

Both companies are endeavoring to induce the "Hamburg Sued" to join the pool, through Franz Schroeder, president of the Prussian State bank, who also partook in the round trip excursion.

The deal with the "Hamburg Sued" is hanging fire, because of its affiliations with a Dutch shipping company. This somewhat complicates the deal, since the Germans are anxious to bring the Dutch into the pool, and the Dutch are balking. Hamburg reports assert that the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American lines worked out preliminary details today.

FINED FOR NEWS STAND THEFT.

Leroy Morrison, 1251 Devon avenue, a salesman, had a habit of stealing pennies from a news stand at Lincoln and Belle Plaine avenues, according to Raymond Stahl, driver of a newspaper truck, who caught him in the theft and had him arrested. Morrison was fined $10 yesterday by Judge Erickson in Town Hall court.

PUBLIC DEFENDER OF BOYS TO BE APPOINTED IN MUNICIPAL COURT

A public defender for the boys' branch of the Municipal court will be appointed this morning by Chief Justice Harry Olson following the unveiling of a portrait of the late Judge Harry P. Dolan. Attorney John F. Tyrrell, who was the first public defender, when Judge Dolan instituted the system during his term in the Boys' court, will defend the first youth arraigned. The practice of having a public defender in the court lapsed when Judge Dolan died ten years ago.

ITALY MUZZLES BOOTLEGGING OF U. S. EMIGRANTS

Bill Provides Prison for Swindling Promoters.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 21.—Italian emigrants who get into the United States through devious entrances and by clandestine methods will be largely reduced, it is expected, by a bill introduced in the senate today providing new and drastic penal regulations on emigration.

Since the adoption of a restrictive immigration policy in the United States and other transoceanic countries a lucrative business has sprung up in Italy among emigration intermediaries. They procured foreign passports and arranged transportation and other necessary papers for the prospective emigrant. Sometimes these arrangements were bona fide and sometimes pure swindle.

U. S. Consulate Aids Police.

Nearly every week for the last few years the Italian papers have recorded the rounding up of bands of these emigrant bootleggers operating especially around Genoa and Naples, the Italian police work being expedited in many cases by the coöperation of the American consular authorities in Naples, who would report cases of obviously altered and forged passports being presented to them for an American visa.

Maximum penalties of several years in prison are provided for those who promote emigration for the purpose of private gain, and article four of the bill is especially severe to those who procure labor contracts in advance for emigrants or expedite their inclusion with emigrant quotas of other countries.

The present bill follows along the lines of penalties provided in a similar law covering malpractice in internal emigration from province to province in Italy, in which much swindling through speculation on credulity goes on.

W. H. TAFT ESTATE VALUED AT $475,000; STOCKS CHIEF ITEM

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—The late Chief Justice William Howard Taft left an estate valued at $475,000.

Mrs. Helen H. Taft, in filing a petition for the probate of his will, made known that Mr. Taft owned real estate at Murray Bay, Que., Canada, and in Washington, valued at approximately $125,000.

His personal estate, comprising stocks and bonds and personal effects, Mrs. Taft estimated at $350,000. The debts probably will not exceed $3,000.

Dentist Killed in 4 Story Fall, While Feeding Birds

Dr. Rudolph H. Bloese, 60 years old, 4236 Greenview avenue, a dentist, fell from a fire escape on the fourth floor of a building at 140 North State street, where his office was located, yesterday and died on his way to Iroquois hospital. Miss Ruby Anderson, the dentist's nurse, saw him feeding pigeons on the fire escape a few minutes before his body was found on a truck in the alley below. Mrs. Bloese said her husband had complained of dizziness for several weeks. The dentist also is survived by a son, Rymer, a senior in Northwestern university. An inquest will be held this morning.

"Jeeves," That Ideal Valet, Will Reappear

O, Yes, Bernard Shaw Is Collecting Own Works.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The best selling novels of the spring season in London are H. M. Tomlinson's "All Our Yesterdays" and "Her Privates We." In the esteem of critics, Miss Norah Hoult's first novel, "Time, Gentlemen! Time!" is one of the most important books of the year. Miss Hoult is an Irish girl who has been a typist and journalist, and whose book of short stories, "Poor Women," was warmly praised by Arnold Bennett, John Galsworthy, and others.

NORAH HOULT.

She has produced a very painful, but very powerful study of an Irish solicitor, his wife, and their two children, and her picture of the increasing degradation of the man through drink is most impressive.

The title of P. G. Wodehouse's new novel is "Very Good, Jeeves." The author, recently returned from America, is staying at present in England, and is working hard.

Bernard Shaw is said to be collecting all his works, including his early journalism, for inclusion in a definitive edition. As is known, Mr. Shaw's first enthusiastic editor was another Irishman, the late T. P. O'Connor, who ran The Star in its early days. The paper has been looking over its files in order to exhume early Shaw, and has been quoting some of the rampageous articles on musical subjects which Mr. Shaw contributed to its columns. They are most outspoken, as one would expect.

If the definitive edition contains even a judicious selection of these papers, it should provide entertaining reading matter for the next few years, because few journalists are as engaging as Mr. Shaw, and few men of his calibre are as voluminous in their writings.

The death of Edwin Pugh has not been much remarked in the press. This no doubt is because in the years preceding his death he was in poor health, and was doing little effective work. He began his literary career very young, in the nineties, and his best known book will always be the early "Tony Drum." Much of his later writing was inferior in quality. But his was a sad life, for success of a kind came early, and he gave up a regular job to devote himself to literature while he was still in his early twenties.

The result was that after a time he found that the bloom went off his work, editors no longer needed the kind of thing he could do, and he was forced to pot-boil. He had good friends, who helped him, and at last he was granted a pension from the civil list; but by this time he was past recovery, and the fatal fall as the result of which he was taken to hospital led to the discovery that although no more than 55 he was physically a man of 80.

"DAUGHTERS OF EVE" DEPICTS WOMEN OF STRENUOUS LIVES

"Daughters of Eve", by Gamaliel Bradford [Houghton Mifflin] is a gallery of seven of Eve's most alluring daughters sketched in Mr. Bradford's most alluring manner.

Gamaliel Bradford was the first modern biographer to be modern about his heroes and heroines. Lytton Strachey followed, not preceded, him. He "psychographs" his characters, gives just enough of their history to explain their reputation.

The first sketch in the gallery is of Ninon de Lenclos, who, Mr. Bradford says, might well be epitaphed from the lips of Antigone "I was not born to hate, but born to love." A youth of "riot and excess and wild license" should have, the author says, according to the accepted conventions of morality, been followed by "nothing but a decayed and degraded and disreputable old age. Instead of this, she passed all her later years sweetly, serenely, and with the consideration, admiration and respect of 'the best people of her time.'"

Many of the other daughters of Eve were in the lesser degree the same bizarre exceptions to accepted standards, social and moral.

Mme. de Maintenon was a king's mistress (though later his wife), but she was deeply, almost passionately religious. The revocation of the edict of Nantes was her triumph.

Mme. Guyon was even more and obviously passionately mystical. Mlle. de Lespinasse was one of the great lovers of the world, Mr. Bradford says, and he offers her final "At all the moments of my life, my love, I suffer, I love you, I am waiting for you" as "perhaps the completest love letter in the world."

Catherine the Great, whom he calls "Eve Enthroned"; George Sand, who found in her work only a chorus to the melodic solo of her love, and Sarah Bernhardt, who found in love only the echo of her ambition, complete the gallery.

Mr. Bradford gives short, fascinating interpretations more alluring, perhaps, to those who know the facts of the lives which he records than to those to whom the assorted ladies are presented for the first time. But even to the latter they are fascinating.

Strange Lands Yield Secrets to These Two

Deserts, Buried Cities, Jungles Explored.

"Mysterious Sahara," by Count Byron Khun de Prorok. [Reilly and Lee.]

"Carl Akeley's Africa," by Mary L. Jobe Akeley. [Dood, Mead.]

Here are two travel books that for sheer fascination and information are hard to equal. Their authors are the inveterate explorer, Count de Prorok, a scientist as well, and Mrs. Akeley, widow of an explorer and naturalist. Much of his work is in the Field museum.

The count tells of his investigations in the desert of the Sahara. Mrs. Akeley's book is an account of the completion of the scientific work started by her husband in Africa.

"Mysterious Sahara" is a veritable Arabian Nights tale. Although he is now only 34, Count de Prorok has explored many of the most dangerous and remote corners of the earth. He has excavated the tomb of an ancient queen, Tin Hinan, which for centuries lay hidden by the desert sands; he has followed the route taken by Alexander the Great to Siwa and the Temple of Jupiter-Ammon in the Libyan desert; he has led an expedition to the Hoggar mountains in the heart of the Sahara; he has studied the wildest of all tribes, the Touareg, who remain today as they were at the time when Rome was at its peak of power, a strange and unconquerable people. He has explored the ruins of the great African city of Carthage.

In his latest story he tells of his adventures and discoveries and they make more exciting reading than any mystery or detective story imaginable, for they are true. He writes with a flair and all he says is delightfully spiced with wit and humor. "Mysterious Sahara" is a rare find.

Carl Akeley collected valuable specimens for the American Museum of Natural History. In his widow's narrative, "Carl Akeley's Africa," we have the amazing revelations of a new Africa.

Akeley's aim was to secure preservation of animals which are rapidly becoming extinct before the onrush of civilization.

He learned that the gorilla walked on all fours and was quite harmless, unless unduly disturbed; that the lion appeared somewhat bored at the presence of men and allowed himself to be photographed at close range. The culmination of Akeley's dream came after the Congo had taken his life. It was the establishment by the Belgian government of the Parc National Albert, a reservation of thousands of acres to be supervised by scientists of all lands, for the everlasting preservation of wild life.

Book of Fine Prints.

The seventh annual issue of "Fine Prints of the Year" has been brought out by Minton Balch. It is edited by Malcolm Salaman, with a special American section under the editorship of Miss Helen Fagg.

TO COLLECT BOOKS IS ALSO TO GATHER IDEAS ABOUT AUTHORS

"Books and the Man," by John T. Winterich [Greenberg], is an interesting angle on books which have become among the most popular of "collectors' items."

The author considers not so much the book itself but the man (or woman) "behind the book," as Emerson said. He sees the author of "Leaves of Grass," for instance, as a human being and the book as the flower of that human's mind and heart. After he has drawn the picture of the man he considers the fate of the volume. Besides Walt Whitman he discusses Daniel Defoe, Charles Dickens, Izaak Walton, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Georges Du Maurier, John Bunyan, John James Audubon, Robert Burns, Mark Twain, Oliver Goldsmith, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Samuel Johnson, Edgar Allan Poe, Lewis Carroll, Washington Irving, Samuel Pepys, Edward Fitzgerald and his translation of Omar Khayyam, Benjamin Franklin and William Makepeace Thackeray. He also discusses a representative volume of each writer. It isn't meant for a reference book, but it is an excellent one underneath its entertainment.

Craig B. Hazelwood Writes on Banking and Director's Job

"The Bank and Its Directors" [Ronald Press] is the work of Craig B. Hazelwood of our town. He is vice president and director of the First National Bank of Chicago and the First Union Trust and Savings bank, and also chairman of the board of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank. He also is an ex-president of the American Bankers' association. His titles are all put in to prove that when he gives advice, he knows what he is talking about. The book is not likely to be a best seller, owing to the fact that there are really, when you get right down to statistics, not so many bank directors as there are, for instance, readers who could find solace in "Caught Short" or "The Lost Shirt."

Russell Cites Children as Marriage Basis

Briton Urging Greater Freedom for Women.

BY V. F. CALVERTON.

"Marriage and Morals," by Bertrand Russell [Liveright].

Since sex was rediscovered by the Freudians several decades ago, we have begun to think about human life in a way that would have startled an orthodox Victorian. We no longer insist, as did Leslie Stephen, upon describing an "amorous" girl as "sentimental."

On the contrary, we insist upon a kind of candor that today makes such words as amorous seem sentimental. Nevertheless, most of the literature which has become alive to this change in our morality, and has adopted, in part at least, this new vocabulary, has continued to be very timid and conservative in conclusion. It has tried to face new fact not by denying it, but by attempting to interpret it in terms of old attitudes, and as a result has succeeded only in increasing the prevailing moral confusion.

"Marriage and Morals" is a significant book precisely because it never falls into that confusion. Mr. Russell interprets the new morality in terms of new attitudes, and is never intimidated by fear of radical conclusions. He has faced the new morality as it is, noted its origins and predicted its future. Throughout, he has pursued the rational approach. He has tried to eliminate, as far as possible, the personal element from his analysis. For, as he admits, the intrusion of personal preference defeats all attempts at objective consideration. In places he even confesses to a certain regret at what has occurred, or will eventually occur, but he insists always upon the fact, and the necessity of our facing the fact however much we may regret it, rather than in fighting it with the romanticism of the ostrich.

Mr. Russell's contention that we can no longer look at marriage as we once did is so sound that only the hopeless conservative would dispute it. His arguments, nevertheless, as to the new form of marriage that should be instituted are of such a character as to terrify the mind of all but the most advanced liberal and radical. This is not because Mr. Russell's arguments are not rational, but because most people are afraid to be rational about morality, which, as the author indicates, has always been "the outcome of superstition and tradition."

It is children, Mr. Russell maintains, that make marriage important and give it meaning. If people do not want children marriage has no justification at all. It is not surprising, therefore, that he should urge that "no marriage be legally binding until the wife's first pregnancy."

Meetings and Lectures

"Four Faces of Siva," by Robert Casey, will be reviewed this week in the Books and Bookmen reel at the Cinema Art theater. Robert D. Andrews will explain the outstanding features of this book.

Tomorrow afternoon and next Sunday afternoon at 3:15 p. m. at the Adelphi theater at the meeting of the Chicago Forum, "What the Scientists Prescribe for Chicago's Ills," will be discussed. Prof. Jerome G. Kerwin, Prof. Charles H. Judd, and Prof. Benjamin J. Squires will talk this Sunday and Prof. Andrew A. Bruce, Mr. Clifford R. Shaw, and Prof. A. Eustace Haydon next Sunday.

The Friends of American Writers will meet on Wednesday at noon in the Wedgwood room at Marshall Field's. Mrs. H. B. Mitchell will give a book talk and the Rev. Frederick Harrison will discuss "Are We Civilized?" by Robert H. Lowie, and "This Ugly Civilization," by Ralph Barsodi.

Novel Revives Gaudier Days of Oklahoma

From Buffaloes to Rush for Oil Riches.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Cimarron," by Edna Ferber. [Doubleday-Doran.]

The Indian Territory, that last gaudy frontier of America, is the hero of Edna Ferber's "Cimarron," just as the Mississippi was the hero of "Show Boat."

Edna Ferber, from being a novelist interested entirely in character, gradually has changed into one whose chief concern is locality. No person in "Show Boat" is half so fascinating as the river itself, for the river molds them to its own fancy.

So Oklahoma is the hero of this—and not even the unforgettable Yancey Cravat, who had the power, the impressiveness, the thrill of the buffalo, then lord of the plain; nor is the book's heroine Sabra Cravat, who was a pioneer woman grafted on to a stock "très raffinée," as the French call it, and who faced life with a courage which she never suspected herself of having. Yet those two are as clearly hero and heroine as ever appeared in fiction, but neither has the power over the reader possessed by that environment which made them and which they helped to make.

Oklahoma, a prairie one day, a collection of populous communities the next, a fabulous section inundated over night with riches on a scale far gaudier than any in the Arabian Nights; it is Oklahoma—the most romantic spot in America in those nineties that we do so much talking about—that is the real hero of "Cimarron."

To those of us who have ever been in Oklahoma one of the great novels of America has lain unwritten in its history since the great land rush of 1889. No material is more dramatic than the story of the last forty years in the Indian Territory—the old name for part of Oklahoma—no spot in America since the gold rush days in California and the Leadville days in Colorado has had the bizarre moments that were the mere daily dozen of oil towns in that incredible section. For years I have wanted to write the story of those days, so vividly were they etched on my visiting childhood. Then an oil field on fire blackened the sky for days and made it a flame at night. Squaws, wrapped in blankets, came into town, their ears almost torn with the weight of their pendant diamonds, their fat fingers splayed and heavy with them. A motor hearse, in the palest shade of gray, was the station wagon of a local chief.

But, while there is material there for a hundred novels, they need not be written [at least by me], because Edna Ferber has done them all, and so truly.

In a sense "Cimarron" makes one feel that fiction is truer than fact. Miss Ferber has distilled from the heady, strong mash of those days a draught that gives the reader such an intoxication as those days were themselves. There is such a sense of the gaudy life as no minute or meticulous statement of the facts could ever give one. All of the melodramatic quality of that life is in "Cimarron." For actual melodramatic happenings it rivals any "Blue Jeans" or "Married, But No Wife," or any of the Beadle series.

Incredibly, though, the events seem as plausible as a description of a subway trip in a novel of Manhattan, and they are all fact, or restatements of fact. There is not only one scene of that sort, but hundreds. They are the woof of "Cimarron." And yet the book is a powerful novel and not at all mere sensation. It certainly is the most thrilling thing that ever has come from the pen of Miss Ferber, and just as certainly the most memorable.

Even "Show Boat" is tame beside it. Miss Ferber has—believe some one who has for years stored up ideas about it—caught the spirit, the color, the life, of her subject, caught it on the wing. She has written "Cimarron" in the first thrill and excitement of her material. It has as a book the dash, the sweep, the unadorned tragedy and comedy, the gaudy, passionate vitality of its subject.

Sir Basil Zaharoff Europe's Silent Power, Biographer Asserts

"The Mystery Man of Europe," by Dr. Richard Lewinsohn [Lippincott], is the biography of Sir Basil Zaharoff, who, at eighty, rates superlative in every field. He is known [according to his biographer] as the richest, the most powerful, the loneliest, the most mysterious and the least known man in Europe.

He is called "the sleeping partner of war," for at one time he owned stock in munitions works located in four different countries, and he was instrumental in developing the armament industry, so rumor has it, by stirring up rivalry in armaments between nations.

The author points out that by suggestion, intimation and sedulously fostered rumors of war Zaharoff, prior to 1914, greatly increased the demand for land armaments in practically every country in Europe.

Predicted Hapsburgs' Fall, Now Explains That Event

"The Dissolution of the Hapsburg Monarchy," by Oscar Jaszi (University of Chicago Press) is an explanation of what the author, twenty years before, had predicted, and for the solution of the situation he offered a practical plan in a book written in Hungarian called "The Evolution of the Nation States and the Problem of Nationality." The dissolution of the Hapsburg monarchy was not caused, but hastened, by the world war, he points out.

Rocking Chairs Add Their Bit to Book Talks

While Various Authors Are Sipping Tea.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A notable group of their seniors assembled on Wednesday in honor of the year's youngest literati, Philip Wylie and John Hyde Preston Jr. . . . authors, respectively, of "Gladiator" and "A Gentleman Rebel," which March and April bring as spring tonic to members of the Book League of America.

EDWIN A. ROBINSON.

The tea party was in key with the intimate charm of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W Stix . . . he's president of the league, and she is undeniable authority on comfortable Americana—on rare old rocking settles and flickering log fires that lure the muse of "good talk."

The seldom glimpsed Edwin Arlington Robinson was present . . . tall, slender—there's a little hint of gray in his dark hair and smartly clipped mustache to attest that sixtieth birthday celebrated a few weeks ago. His new poem will not reach book form until fall, but he figures in next month's publications as subject of a monograph . . . "An Introduction to Edwin Arlington Robinson," written by the French critic, Charles Cestre.

Ranging from huddle to huddle I harkened a while to Henry Seidel Canby arguing humanism with the rubicund John Farrar . . . to Silas Bent, just returned from the south . . . to Llewellyn Jones on from Chicago as his "How to Read Books" comes from the press . . . to Joseph Auslander. Herbert Gorman . . . Art Young, agog with preparations for the New Masses ball . . . to Arthur Ruhl, and to E. B. White, who splits royalties with James Thurber of that best seller, "Is Sex Necessary?" There also were Frederick Vandewater and John Vandercook, whose short stories of African life, "The Fool's Parade," reach the bookstalls this month.

The Century company turns gaily social once a year with a very grand green tea and reception . . . this March held beneath the crystal candelabra of Park Avenue Delmonico's on Friday, the 14th . . . which was near enough St. Patrick's day to justify shamrock teacakes, cress sandwiches, and mint in the mixture that cheers. Reviewers . . . columnists . . . authors . . . Fannie Hurst, Irvin Cobb, Marc Connelly, Richard Halliburton, Mary Austin, Susan Glaspell, Elizabeth Jordan, Vilhjalmur Stefansson . . . and at least a hundred more . . . danced from four until seven

Under the Century banner, by the way, will soon appear "A Party of Baccarat," one of Donn Byrne's novels printed heretofore only as a magazine serial . . . ultimately will be issued a uniform edition of his books.

That blast of print which put "Cradle of the Deep" in its place . . . remember, it was issued as autobiography and a month later listed as fiction . . . has had results. A number of spring book jackets bear a declaration of contents . . . after the manner of canned food labels.

"Every incident in the book is true, with exception of fictionalized dialogue and details of description. The story is fact."

Another vouchsafes: "He admits that he has embroidered personal incidents here and there by adding conversation that he must, of necessity, have forgotten in the course of years; but so far as the general narrative is concerned, it is strictly true."

This is as it should be . . . pleasant as is fictionized biography, it's only fair that one should know how much fact is diluted.

For Book Collectors.

The first number of "The Colophon," the new book collectors' quarterly, has been published, limited to 2,000 copies. It contains, besides perfectly beautiful type, layout and illustrations, articles by H. L. Mencken, who tells the inside story of the rarest of Mencken first editions, an article on Whitman by Emory Holloway, one on illustrating "Huckleberry Finn," by E. W. Kemble, who is rounding out half a century of activity as a cartoonist and illustrator, as well as reminiscent pieces by Sherwood Anderson and William McFee on their early work. There also are specialized articles on collecting. This publication soon after issuance becomes a collector's item.

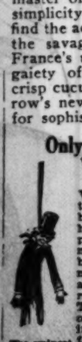
VOLTAIRE
...His Mockery Crumbled Thrones!

"The old scoundrel who started revolutions with an epigram."

PERHAPS the world's most witty writer—certainly Voltaire was the master of French clarity of thought, simplicity of style. In his work you find the acrid buffoonery of Mencken, the savage irony of Swift, Anatole France's urbane satire and the frank gaiety of Rabelais. As fresh as a crisp cucumber, as modern as tomorrow's news—Voltaire is a rare treat for sophisticated readers.

Only Complete Edition of Voltaire's Works



Versatile, yet endowing everything he wrote, with corruscating brilliance, Voltaire used wit, humor, satire, invective, mockery, pathos—whatever the occasion demanded—to score his points. His barehanded treatment of fundamental questions long kept him a stranger to the censor-guarded readers of the United States. The Chicago Tribune, commenting on this edition, said: Publishers in this country have heretofore feared to undertake the issuing of a complete edition of Voltaire's works." Yet, here in "the Aronet Edition, is everything that Voltaire ever wrote—his side-splitting and spicy Candide; the Rabelaisian burlesque of the Joan of Arc legend: the complete, unexpurgated Philosophical Dictionary, in which one meets the great thinkers of all time in their more intimate moments —en chambre et sans culotte; the Princess of Babylon; the famous Zadig; the Plays; Histories; Poems; Dissertations—everything!

A Short History of
THE FRENCH PEOPLE
By Charles Guignebert
Here is a notable interpretation of the French people, comparable in its scope and method to The Rise of American Civilization, for it attempts to explain French life, culture and ideals in the light of the nation's history rather than to tell that history in infinite detail. The book was written especially for an American audience from a course given at the Sorbonne for members of the A. E. F. by Professor Guignebert. He has long held a chair at that university and this book represents a lifetime of research in French civilization. 2 vols. $15.00

SENECA MAGIC MADE HER KILL, OLD SQUAW SAYS

Slew Sculptor's Wife to "Lift a Spell."

Buffalo, N. Y., March 21.—[Special.]—In Anson Jimerson's front yard, located along the banks of Burning Springs creek, a chicken went crazy. And that signed the death warrant of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, born in France, murdered here a fortnight ago.

Nancy Bowen, the 60 year old Seneca squaw who swung the hammer that killed Mrs. Marchand, for whose death Lila Jimerson, stoical Indian woman, is on trial, told her story today to newspaper reporters.

Lila Jimerson also made a statement through her attorneys, clearing Henri Marchand, famous sculptor and husband of the dead woman, of all connection with the crime.

Ninth Juror Chosen.

The statement came shortly after the girl's trial had been recessed until Monday. The ninth juror was picked this morning, and shortly afterward the panel of 137 men was exhausted. One hundred more talesmen will be called Monday.

Mrs. Bowen, widow of Chief Sassafras Charlie, speaks English with difficulty. Through an interpreter, in her cell in Erie county jail, she explained the curious events which led to the murder of Mrs. Marchand.

It was on the basis of Nancy Bowen's story to the police that the indictments were returned charging her and the Jimerson girl with first degree murder. Asked whether she pleaded guilty or not guilty, the Jimerson girl wanted to know what the terms meant. Told that guilty meant that she had killed Mrs. Marchand, she said, "I didn't kill her."

Beyond that denial there has been no indication of her defense.

Old Squaw's Story.

Nancy Bowen's story today, as translated into English, ran:

"If it hadn't been for the chicken I wouldn't have known that Mrs. Tildy [Mrs. Marchand] was a witch. But that told me—I know the lore of the Seneca medicine men—that a spell was working.

"If I had cooked a mess of mashed potatoes, blood sausage and a chocolate cake I could have lifted the spell. I know now, but I didn't. I followed the instructions of the old medicine men, but they couldn't work against a French witch. French witches are the most powerful of all.

Still "Feels Bewitched."

"I have felt sick since I killed her. She had strong magic. I have headaches and pains in my legs. I feel bewitched. Doctors here give me medicine. But I need Indian medicine. Cherry bark and swamp root will make me feel better.

"I didn't know her. I found out she was Mrs. Marchand only when the district attorney told me. Lila told me she was Brown—Mrs. Tildy Brown. I don't know.

"But I killed Mrs. Tildy and I did what the Seneca law says. I want to go to Handsome Lake's heaven. I don't want to burn."

BENDER TRIAL JUROR JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Seebeck, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry Fisher.

Joe Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Edward Meehan, attempted larceny, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Charles B. Kurtz, 29 years old, 632 West 46th street, one of the four jurors accepted on Thursday for the trial of Andrew Bender, former employé of the state's attorney's office, was discharged from the jury and locked up until 5 o'clock yesterday because he had failed to tell of once having been arrested and fined for carrying a concealed weapon. The fine was imposed when he was 18 years old, it later developed.

Judge E. I. Frankhauser, who is presiding at the trial of Bender, at first sentenced Kurtz to five days in the county jail for contempt of court. Later he changed the penalty to 24 hours in jail, and just before the adjournment of court he again reduced the punishment so that Kurtz's jail term expired at 5 o'clock last evening. Attorneys Benedict J. Short and George Guenther argued to the judge that Kurtz could not be said to be a poor juror because his record shows that he has voted to convict three robbers during his first week of service.

Bender is on trial for bribery, charged with taking money to set aside bond forfeitures. When court adjourned last night eight jurors had been sworn in. The trial will be resumed on Monday morning.

Man Sought on Murder Charge Found in Nebraska

Chicago police were preparing extradition proceedings last night against Philip Riggo, formerly of 227 West Van Buren street and now living on a farm near North Platte, Neb., who has been sought since Jan. 21 for the murder of Bernard Benson, 25 years old, 1334 West Grand avenue. Detectives say Riggio shot Benson in a feud over the latter's attentions to Riggio's wife.

Denmark Plans Boost of Alcohol Tax; Halts Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 21.—Denmark is considering abolition of the 10 per cent café tax which netted $4,020,000 annually. To compensate for the loss of this revenue the government plans to raise the tax on alcohol and beer. All trade in alcohol was halted today by a decree to measure stocks.

HISTORIAN DIES

PROF. CLAUDE H. VAN TYNE.

PROF. VAN TYNE, NOTED MICHIGAN HISTORIAN, DEAD

He Wrote Books That Thompson Flayed.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—Prof. Claude Halstead Van Tyne, 60, head of the University of Michigan history department and recognized as the foremost authority on the American revolution, died at his home here today following an illness of more than a year.

The Michigan professor's books were among those denounced as pro-British by Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago. His works, however, have not been challenged by other recognized scholars.

Born in Michigan.

Prof. Van Tyne was born at Tecumseh, Mich. He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Michigan in 1896. After three years' study in Europe he returned to America and received his Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1903 Prof. Van Tyne returned here as assistant professor of American history, and he became head of the history department in 1911.

"India in Ferment" was published by Prof. Van Tyne in 1923 after his selection to go to India to make an impartial study of the Anglo-Indian situation for a group of American business men.

Greatest Work Unfinished.

Four years later his two volumes, "Causes of the War of Independence" and "England and America, Rivals in the American Revolution," appeared. His greatest projects, a four volume series under the name of "The Founding of the American Republic," is left unfinished by his death. Two volumes have been published and a third has been completed, as Prof. Van Tyne continued work on it during his illness.

Two years ago Prof. Van Tyne delivered a series of lectures in English universities in connection with the George Watson chair of American history literature in British universities.

He was editor of the American History Review from 1915 to 1919 and was a member of numerous history societies.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, a daughter, a brother, and four grandchildren.

Chicagoan, 81, Marries Nurse, 26, in South Bend

George H. Miller, 81 years old, of Chicago, who is associated with the Chicago Board of Trade, was married to Miss Inez Belmont, 26, a Chicago nurse, in South Bend, Ind., late yesterday in the office of a justice of the peace. They told the license clerk that it was a first marriage for each of them.

CHINA REDS TRAP 11 U. S. CATHOLIC MISSIONWORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—Messages reaching the state department today told of the grave danger facing a bishop and ten American Catholic missionaries, trapped by Chinese "Red" armies at Kanchow, in southern China. According to cables, the missionaries are completely surrounded by communist armies and have no means of escape. At present one detachment of loyal Chinese troops is at Kanchow.

Bishop J. A. O'Shea of Deep River, Conn., head of the Catholic mission, and his aids have been marooned for several weeks. Attempts to have them withdrawn last December were unavailing.

From Eastern States.

The missionaries stationed at Kanchow last January, and still believed there, are Mary C. Beggs, Emmettburg, Md.; F. L. Cahill, Germantown, Pa.; J. J. Corbett, Boston; Vincent Louise Delude, South Boston, Mass.; Clara Louise Groell, Anselma Jarboe, Emily P. Kolb, Helen C. Lucas, Sarah A. O'Neill, Annie Strable, all of Emmitsburg, Md., and Francis J. Stauble, Rochester, N. Y.

Department officials admitted today that, beyond appealing to the Nanking government to maintain sufficient troops at Kanchow to protect the missionaries, nothing can be done. It was frankly stated the place is too remote for successful military operations by American forces now in the orient. Kanchow is too far inland for naval action.

Following receipt of a plea for help, the state department today delivered a letter to the Rev. John J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare conference, advising removal of its missionaries from the Kanchow area as soon as possible.

Pirates Attack U. S. Ship.

SHANGHAI, March 21.—(AP)—Lawless soldiery between Hankow and Ichang today attempted to pirate a Standard Oil Company of New York steamer, which was nearing Itu, midway between the two towns. Due to the combined efforts of the United States naval guard aboard the steamer and the guard aboard another American ship, which was nearby, the marauders were repulsed.

Chiang Stops at Shanghai.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 21.—President Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government, arrived here today in the course of a general inspection trip of Chinese military stations in Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces.

SLAIN CITY YARD BOSS BELIEVED ROBBER VICTIM

Des Plaines street police, investigating the murder of Dennis Danaher, 55 years old, foreman of the 27th ward city yards, whose body was found yesterday in his flat at 326 South Racine avenue, reached the conclusion last night that Danaher had been slain by robbers, probably on Thursday. His body, with three bullets in the chest, was discovered by an undertaker employed in a mortuary on the first floor of the building.

The seven room flat, in which Danaher lived alone with a spaniel and a canary, was in disorder and one door was bullet spattered.

The killers escaped by jumping three feet from a kitchen window to an adjoining roof and thence by a stairway to the ground. Discovering a diamond ring on Danaher's finger, the police at first doubted the robbery theory, but they later learned that Danaher had collected on his wife's insurance policy a few weeks ago and deposited $1,700 in the bank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 21.—The Canadian parliament today advanced to its second reading the bill to accept two and one-half acres of United States territory at present part of the state of Minnesota. An international survey revealed a slight error in the Canadian American boundary line where it touches the Lake of the Woods and Canada benefits in the readjustment to the extent of about an acre of rock and an acre and a half of water. The new Canadian territory will become part of the province of Manitoba.

PICK NOTED MEN TO INVESTIGATE CANCER DOCTORS

Commission Urged to Rush to 'Frisco.

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Several distinguished American medical men were named today on a commission to go quickly to San Francisco to investigate the Coffee-Humber cancer experiment.

Included were Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins, United States Surgeon General Cummings, Dr. Charles Mayo, Dr. Morris Fishbein, secretary of the American Medical association, Dr. Francis Carter Wood of Columbia university, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, Dr. James Ewing of Cornell, and Dr. Gideon Wells of the University of Chicago.

Invitation Telegraphed.

An invitation was telegraphed from a train at Liberal, Kas., by Drs. Coffee and Humber, who are returning to San Francisco after testifying before a senate committee about their cancer treatment.

The urge for speed was issued by Dr. Bloodgood, who said that on yesterday alone he was asked personally by 60 cancer sufferers whether they should go to San Francisco and have the westerners experiment upon them. These requests came to Bloodgood from as far as Guatemala.

The telegram named Dr. Bloodgood to select the members of the commission. It was addressed to General Manager William W. Buffum of the Chemical Foundation, to whom Dr. Bloodgood assigned charge of arrangements. The foundation has offered to pay expenses.

Discusses Experiment's Claims.

Dr. Bloodgood said:

"An extract from the adrenal gland now is being experimentally employed by Drs. Coffee and Humber in the treatment of hopeless cancer.

"The claim that it relieves pain is no evidence of the curative value.

"The claim that this adrenal extract produces central necrosis [breaking down of cells] in the cancer is also not an evidence of its curative value.

"At the present time cancer students throughout the world agree that there are but two forms of treatment that have ever accomplished permanent cures; complete removal of the cancer tumor by operation or irradiation by X-ray and radium, with or without operation."

WHILE THE IRON IS HOT.

The founder of the Rothschild fortune is credited with the saying that he became rich by never trying to sell at the top or buy at the bottom. He was content to buy on the downswing of prices and sell on the upswing. That was good business in the Napoleonic era and it is good business today. The man who will not buy until the bottom is reached is generally left behind. He waits until his opportunity is past.

The Rothschild precept applies with particular force in these first spring days of 1930. We are not thinking now of the stock market but rather of the commodity and real estate markets. Prices are low. They may go lower, but any one who waits for the last few pennies of decline is likely to get left. Certain it is that the foundations of fortune are laid in times like these when prices are depressed. Real estate is on the bargain counter. Building costs are low. Prudent investment today is as certain to be rewarded within a few months or years as the United States is certain to grow in wealth and consuming capacity.

This is an opportune moment to build and to enlarge manufacturing capacity. Architects and engineers are in a position to give more than the customary attention to details of design; machine builders are disposed to shave their prices to keep their plants running. All along the line the buyer today is receiving more for his money in service and materials than he is likely to get again for years to come. Some shrewd business men are taking advantage of the moment. Others may regret their inaction in the years to come.

THE TRIBUNE is acting in the belief that this is the time to buy. In preparation for the future we are now adding half a million dollars to our pressroom investment. In this policy of expansion under favorable conditions we are in the best industrial company. The steel corporation, the great public utilities and the more progressive railroads have all appropriated heavily for capital investments during the next few months. Able managers know that the opportunity presented to them today will not last forever. Within a few weeks it may be gone for good.

TAKING IT FROM CHINA.

The young Manchurian war lord, Chang Hsueh-liang, recently sent an appeal to the leaders of the two factions threatening a new outbreak of civil war in China. He warned them that Russia will take advantage of a renewal of hostilities to renew its aggressions in the north. That his appeal was ineffectual seems evident from recent reports, though the recent restoration of Russian management in the affairs of the Chinese Eastern railway as a consequence of the military defeat of the Chinese on the northern Manchurian frontier is not the only event giving force to Chang's appeal. We have called attention to the recent declaration of independence of a region in northern Manchuria known as Barga. The declaration was the result of soviet propaganda and direct assistance and is another example of the enterprising expansion policy of Russia under the Red flag. No czarist ministry could be more active and ruthless than the pretended anti-imperialists of the communist régime.

But, aside from the significance of the event as an illustration of soviet policy and technique, the value of the prize involved is worthy of note. Of course, the new government is not independent, but, like Outer Mongolia, will be under the control of Moscow, its affairs directed by soviet emissaries and its resources exploited for Russia's benefit. These resources are important. Barga, as the China Weekly Review remarks, is a territory of 76,000 square miles, about one-third larger than the state of Illinois. The Review asserts that in many respects it is the most valuable section of the Chinese republic. It is thought that along the northern border there are rich gold mines. The Three-River district, scene of frequent Red cavalry raids in recent months, is a fertile agricultural country unequaled for dairy purposes. Stretching northward from the city of Hailar, the metropolis of Barga, are grazing lands the like of which are to be found nowhere else in the Chinese domain. The western slopes of the Hinghan mountains are heavily wooded, where vast virgin forests are yet untouched by the ax. Along the western border are coal mines capable of supplying the entire district with fuel.

Barga is, in other words, an important frontier possession of China, practically unoccupied until recently, save by roving bands of Mongols and other semi-civilized tribes. As an overflow district for China's population, now going into Manchuria by the millions, it is not a possession to be given up lightly. Moscow took advantage of the weakness of the Nanking government, threatened in Honan and Canton by factionalist revolt, and of the military successes won by Russian troops in northern Manchuria, to direct and precipitate a revolt by the Mongols prepared for some time by soviet intrigue, in the form of a "Young Mongol" nationalist movement. It was a repetition of the method used in Outer Mongolia, which is under the compete control of the soviet, though ostensibly an independent republic.

It has been reported that Japan has informally or "orally" protested to Moscow against this proceeding, but nothing has yet transpired to support the report. It is conceivable that Japan may have some agreement with Moscow for compensation or coöperation in the exploitation of Manchuria at the expense of China. Her situation is difficult, for her interest is neither in Russian advance nor a strong hold by China in Manchuria. It will be interesting to observe the course of Moscow's policy in case the new civil war between Nanking and the northern generals develops seriously.

MORE OF THE CASE FOR PROHIBITION.

The case for prohibition, as presented in Washington, continues to adhere to its pattern. Its advocates have one story. Prohibition is a good thing, but even if it were not a good thing, if it were even worse than it is, or if it gets to be as bad as it will, the country must retain it. It pleases its advocates and that is its justification and the reason for its continuance.

For the defense there was presented a statement from Mr. Edison, who, so far as social contacts are concerned, rates as a hermit in his laboratories; from Mr. Ford, who is isolated from knowledge of the world by the largest number of private secretaries ever organized; two athletic directors who have always handled young men in sports requiring total abstinence; a number of women at the head of prohibition organizations, professionally attached to a cause and incapable of examining its results critically; nearly all, with hardly an exception, persons of closed minds.

What these advocates of prohibition said they would have said ten years before Volstead, two months after it, ten years after it, or fifty years after the most miserable failure any law could make. They had made no observations or they refused to make observations. They had examined nothing for cause and effect. Their attitude was wholly uncritical. Their opinions came out of wishes and prohibition was a blessing because it imposed a way of life acceptable to them upon people to whom it was objectionable.

For one reason or another the most prominent of these advocates avoided cross-examination by the members of the house judiciary committee. They were either in frail health or they remained out of Washington and sent their opinion by mail. Thus what they offered was exempt from testing. They could not be made to justify their assertions under questioning. They could not be confronted by challenging facts.

The opponents of prohibition were all subjected to examination by the drys on the committee. Their conclusions were examined as to foundations. They were persons of importance in industry, public life and the affairs of the country who had not carried fixed opinions through the ten years of the noble experiment but had been open minded. Some of them had been hopeful that it would be successful. All were seeking the betterment of conditions of American life. The contrast between the two groups of advocates was as great as it could be.

National prohibition under federal administration produced nothing in its defense except fanatical insistence, wishful thinking and uncritical determination to persevere in the suppression of opposition, regardless of means and consequences.

DISAPPEARING STREET PAVING.

Apparently it won't be long until the pavement of a number of important Chicago streets will be entirely unserviceable. There are loop streets which are in an almost incredible condition of wear and tear. A heavy rain reveals the worst of it by forming duck ponds in which the traffic drenches the pedestrian with flying water. The city faces a great task in the unavoidable necessity of putting its paving in order with many of its busiest streets needing repaving all at once.

The condition of the streets increases the dirt and detracts conspicuously from the appearance of the city, which thus loses the complete effect of its substantial achievements. Subways and street paving may have to be considered together but if Chicago is to have a fair in '33 and invite in the world it cannot go into that period with its streets destroyed by decay or in the confusion of reconstruction.

The paving still manages to carry the traffic, but there is a limit to the period in which that will continue to be possible. Some of the streets have the appearance of ways in a worn out town.

Editorial of the Day

WHERE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS.

[Davenport (Ia.) Times.]

Secretary of Labor Davis protests the suggestion of Senator Brookhart that congress vote $50,000,000 for aid to the unemployed. He expresses the belief that such an appropriation for public buildings would be "far better," adding "the American workman wants honest employment and a steady job, and not a dole."

In proposing this levy upon the federal treasury, Smith Wildman indulges his weakness for paternalism and demagoguery. A sixth grade intellect will at once recognize that $50,000,000 would not be effectual in meeting the problem involved in the enforced idleness of several million persons.

Secretary Davis has pointed out that it would mean a dollar a week for 16 weeks to the three million he estimates to be jobless.

It is just another piece of grandstanding on the part of the mountebank who consistently insults the intelligence of those he professes a zeal to aid.

Those out of work will be more impressed with the soundness of Secretary Davis' observation than the familiar Brookhart panacea, a raid on the federal treasury.

The President and the labor department may rightly blame congress for any lack of improvement in the employment situation. And responsibility must rest primarily upon Senator Brookhart and his fellow obstructionists for the condition they now complain of.

If Senator Brookhart and his fellow saviors of the republic will only restrain themselves for a few days and permit of the enactment of the necessary tariff legislation and the authorization of appropriations for the public works which have been recommended by the President they will make a genuine contribution to the relief of the unemployed.

NO TIME TO PROVIDE.

Old Mose Parker was pretty sick and the darky doctor promptly put him to bed and laid down all sorts of rules and regulations as to sleep and diet. After he had gone Mose turned to his wife and complained:

"Mandy, how does dat dere fool doctor reckon Ah's gwine to eat breast ob chicken ebery day if Ah ain't got mah ebenin's free?"—Stratford Beacon Herald.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

that is, we would like to tell you absolutely about the naval parley in London. But if we base our heart to heart and sacredly confidential talk to you on what we read in the morning paper that is only true until 9 o'clock when the afternoon newspapers run off their first edition. Of course we could wait until 9; we would, anyhow, because we don't get up until half-past 10; but even then we would be in difficulty, for that story would be good only until the noon edition.

If we had decided to address you this morning on how disappointed we were that the naval parley was called off we'd have had to change the whole thing a little later. The naval parley was dead in all the morning papers yesterday. Stone, cold dead, and the undertaker was hanging crêpe on the door and the coroner was on the way. It stayed dead until the first edition of the afternoon newspapers. Then it sat up and took a little nourishment and the doctors said the temperature was almost normal and the pulse regular.

It was that way until the noon edition. Then the darn thing fell over backwards and hit its head on the pavement. Or maybe one of the French delegates hit it with a blackjack. Anyhow, it was just about dead again. And all the delegates were on their way home. But we could talk to you about it even then, for in the 3 o'clock papers the naval parley would be climbing the flag pole on St. James palace and singing the Marseillaise to the tune of Rule Britannia, Britons Never Shall Be Slaves.

In the sport edition of the afternoon papers the naval parley would be dead again. And stay dead until the bulldog or first edition of the morning papers. There's no way of keeping up with the naval parley because the darned thing keeps dying. And it won't stay dead. And it won't stay alive. Oh, well, the baseball season starts pretty soon.

SPRING RHAPSODY.

Oh Spring! You wake us all to life,
Anew, anew, anew!
We burst with joy and song and praise,
To you, to you, to you!
But somehow when you come around—
Achoo, achoo, achoo!
So go away, you make me sick,
Adieu, adieu, adieu!

WHY IS IT we wade through snow knee deep most of the winter, face icy blizzard blasts, slip and fall on the ice, trip sweetly along when the thermometer shows ten degrees below zero, and never have an ache or pain, but as soon as spring comes back we get coughs, colds, pneumonia, laryngitis, winter itch, chilblains, toothache, housemaid's knee, neuralgia, and the bubonic plague?

THA DUKE GOES FLAT HUNTIN'.

Dick: Tha flatest flat sport I know is flat huntin. Yesterday tha B. an' C. phones me to come home early on account she saw tha darlingest apt. an I shood hurry up an get a deposit up cause tha owner tells her that 18 people are breakin their necks to get it. Tha 1st thing I asks tha Mama is "how much bucks" an she tells me $92.50 which calls fer a retort as to how tha hell cood we pay it. She solves tha problem in one second by tellin me we cood economize on a lotta other things. I been doin tha economize act so long that there's 3 sets of soles on my dogs right now, in fact a guy asks me tha other day what tha hell was tha big idea in walkin on stilts an tha shoe shining wop tole me if I had tha benny cleaned once more he'd touch bottom. Of course darned sox don't show but some day I'd like to blow myself to a B. V. D. spare. Tha 2 suits what I got are so chummy that on Saturday nights they say to each other "S'long, see ya in a week." Ennyway, in order to keep peace in tha family I promises to look at tha dump figgerin I cood find plenty of things that wood kibosh tha place even if I hadda take a cupple doz. cockroches with me. Yesterday we goes an as far as I'm concerned I woodn' give $50.92, let alone $92.50. Tha Mama likes it cause it's got what they call a breakfast nook. It's one of them there rat holes what you cood get in with tha aid of a shoe horn, but if ya ate a waffle too many you coodn' get out with a crowbar. Tha only redeeming feature was a ice box what makes cubes of ice, this makes a hit with me cause after 5 or 6 sniffters I generally run tha damn ice pick thru my mit. Another tricky arrangement was that tha milk man an tha butcher shove their stuff in tha ice box from tha back porch. This is very economikal as it saves wear an tear on tha linoleum. You got no idea tha number of holes what store keepers have made for me waiting for their dough. Instead of having a guest room tha dump's got what they call a roll-a-way bed, dimensions 5 feet long by zero wide. I'm all for it cause if tha Ma-in-law slept in it just one night I'm sure she'd cross us off her cadging list. After giving it tha second look I coodn' figure how even a pretzel cood get a good night's rest in it. When we got thru inspecting I tole tha landlord that tha chances was that we wood take tha place but that I first wanted my wife's Uncle to see it. I didn' tell him that tha Uncle was killed in tha Civil War. DUKE BAKRAK.

NOW ALL the headlines say that civil war is threatening in China. A civil war threatening? Then what have they been doing out there—practicing?

LAGNIAPPE.

"AND THE WHANGDOODLE mourneth for her first born." We just threw this paragraph in to pull mail. We're betting on twenty-five letters before Wednesday asking us the name of the book, the number of the chapter and verse in the Bible in which the quotation occurs. Time and again we have said the quotation is not in the Bible; it never was in the Bible; it never will be. It doesn't do a bit of good. This seems to be one of those popular superstitions like throwing salt over your shoulder, or walking under a ladder, or seven years' bad luck if you break a looking glass or three lights from a match. So what's the use! So come on and ask us what part of the Bible the whangdoodle inhabits. "And the whangdoodle mourneth for her first born." On your mark! Go!

CONGRESS VOTED $300,000.00 yesterday to complete the restoration of the old frigate Constitution, more popularly known as Old Ironsides. We ought to hang on to that ship. Maybe after a few more disarmament conferences that will be all we'll have for a navy.

MONEY was that cheap yesterday we would have borrowed a million dollars of it if old Dr. Sauer hadn't made us stay in bed with this what have you. However, it's just as well; in a day or two it may be so cheap they'll pay us to take it away. R. H. L.

OVERCOMING STOOP SHOULDERS.

H. M. J. writes:

Please name a special way for building up the back and neck muscles so as to overcome stoop shoulders.

REPLY.

You are right in thinking the only way to overcome stoop shoulders is to build up the muscles of the neck and upper back. In the ordinary case of stoop shoulders the cause of the deformity is the shape of the chest. Behind that often lies rickets in childhood. The shape of the chest undergoes progressive change from the beginning until about the twentieth year. At first narrow and deep, it gradually becomes broad and shallow. At first the trunk is bent forward and the shoulders are rounded, but as time progresses the trunk becomes straight and the shoulders become square. This is a natural evolution brought about by changes of one kind or another, but all normal. If, because of rickets or for any other reason, this normal evolution stops, the chest remains deep and narrow and the shoulders stoop.

After childhood it is not possible to make much change in the shape of the bony chest structure. The best we can do is to build up powerful sets of pull-back muscles, and let them hold the shoulders back as well as they can. To accomplish this, something more than a slight strengthening of the muscles is required. The building up must go a long way. The muscles must take on the dimensions of those of a wrestler; otherwise, they will never hold flat shoulder blades on the back part of a strongly curved chest wall.

For this purpose I should say that work is better than play. Pitching hay would head the list if it were a year round job; loading wagons with a shovel is work that is good for the purpose; wrestling is one of the best sports; rowing is good, particularly if it takes the form of a job at which one works eight hours daily.

Nothing equals carrying weight on the head. The tropical women who carry water on the head or the washerwomen who carry clothes that way, the laborers who carry burdens that way, the Indians who carry their babies on their backs with a supporting band around the head—these groups have found the ideal method of preventing and of curing stoop shoulders.

ASKS ABOUT MONKEYS.

M. L. asks:

1. Is one apt to get lice or fleas from a monkey?
2. Is the bite of a monkey dangerous?
3. Do people contract tuberculosis from monkeys?

The monkey I have in mind is kept in a clean, well ventilated cage except when he is in the open. All precautions as to ventilation, heating and sanitation are observed.

REPLY:

1. No. The popular impression that the regular occupation of monkeys is catching lice is incorrect. Caged monkeys carry very few insect pests.
2. No more so than the bite of a child.
3. I know of no evidence that they do. Caged monkeys are very prone to tuberculosis, but the disease is not located among the organs as it is in man, and monkeys seldom cough nor do they spit.

SCABS FORM ON HANDS.

W. R. M. writes: A man in the middle sixties, in apparent good health, has for fifteen years or more had small, hard scabs form on the backs of his hands. They stick very tight, but in the course of a month or so they come off. The skin clears up for a while, when they come back and very slowly increase in number. They are not sore. Can anything be done about getting rid of them?

REPLY.

This is probably a senile keratosis, a condition frequently found in elderly people. Treatment with radium will remove them, but as a rule it is not advised.

ABOUT ACID IN LIQUOR.

W. J. B. writes:

1. Do alcoholic liquors tend to produce an acid or alkali condition in the human system?
2. How about vinegar?
3. Roughly speaking, has an acid or alkaline condition any close relation to constipation?

REPLY:

1. Neither.
2. Produces alkali.
3. No.

USE OF COD LIVER OIL.

J. R. H. writes: What would be the results of an adult taking 16 ounces of cod liver oil per day?

REPLY.

Probably the stomach would rebel. That amount of fat would throw considerable strain on the liver. The sum total of calories in a diet containing 16 ounces of cod liver oil would probably be excessive.

STEPS TO CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, March 16.—[Friend of the People.]—An alien born in Finland June 6, 1896, emigrated to Sweden in 1901 and became a citizen of Sweden in 1923. He then emigrated to Canada under the quota the same year, entered the United States, and has resided in Chicago since. 1. What steps should he take to apply for his first papers? 2. How much time must elapse between acquiring his first and second papers? 3. How many witnesses must he have when applying for his first papers?

G. L. Q.

1. He should obtain a preliminary form A-2213 from this office [776 Postoffice building], fill it out and return it.
2. Two years after he has filed a declaration of intention he may apply for naturalization [second papers].
3. No witnesses when he makes a declaration of intention [first paper], two witnesses who have known him during all the time he lived in the country during the last five years when he files his petition.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

DEALER KEEPS INSTALLMENT ON CAR.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A buys a car from an automobile dealer on the installment plan. Dealer turns account over to finance company. A makes six monthly payments through the dealer, who absconds with the seventh payment. Finance company demands that A make good the payment. Is A liable?

A. B.

We incline to the opinion that the company has impliedly authorized payments to the dealer as its agent, which would mean that the company is bound for such payments.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE 15TH DECENNIAL CENSUS.

Chicago, March 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise me when the census of the United States will be completed for the year 1930? And when will it become official?

V. M. R.

We are not certain just when the government will complete the census returns this year. The agricultural and population censuses should be completed by June 1, but the business census probably will not be completed until the close of the year.

If you want to know when the official data will be forthcoming from Washington in published form, please write Dr. William M. Steuart, bureau of the census, Washington, D. C.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 22, 1865.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Colored citizens of Nashville held a grand procession in celebration of the ratification of the revised constitution of Tennessee, which declares all slaves forever free. Upwards of 5,000 joined in the parade.

NASHVILLE.—The great cavalry expedition under Maj. Gen. J. H. Wilson has finally started and all connections between him and Gen. Thomas' headquarters at Nashville have been severed. The first news we shall hear of the expedition probably will be from Mobile.

NEWBERN, N. C.—Parties who have arrived here from Gen. Sherman's army say that we shall be able to join hands with him in a day or two. Lieut. Knox, chief signal officer, in from the front, says the reports were brought in from Goldsboro that the rebels have evacuated the city and marched towards Virginia.

NEW YORK.—The National Republican contains an extract from the Richmond Sentinel of March 17 which says four divisions of Sherman's army were repulsed near Fayetteville with heavy loss.

FORTRESS MONROE.—Gen Sheridan reached White House on the Pamunkey river on the 19th, and began a movement toward the James river. His troops are in the very best of condition and appear to have suffered little from the effects of their long march from Winchester.

NEW YORK.—A Herald special from Washington says it was reported that Jeff Davis has abdicated as president of the rebel confederacy and handed over the reins of his sinking government to Gen. Lee, with the understanding that the latter would make one last desperate effort with such resources as are left under his control.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 22, 1900.

CHICAGO.—Robert G. Gilchrist, a barber at 1764 West 22d street, was shot and killed instantly while preparing to lather a customer who sat in his chair. The murderer opened the door of the shop, took careful aim with a rifle for three or four seconds and fired. He escaped. The customer, whose identity is unknown to the police, threw the towels from his neck and fled.

LONDON.—While Lord Roberts is marching on Pretoria and Gen. Buller is attacking the Boers in Billaraburg, a third column of 20,000 men, with Kimberley as a base, will strike eastward from Fourteen Streams into the Transvaal, with the dual purpose of drawing off the Boers from Mafeking and threatening Pretoria from the west.

CHICAGO.—Prof. Henry Cohn of the German department of Northwestern university died at his home, 610 Lake street, Evanston, at the age of 53, following a stroke of paralysis two weeks ago.

PITTSBURGH.—The Andrew Carnegie-Henry C. Frick battle has suddenly ended following a peace meeting of leaders in the steel industry. A compromise satisfactory to both parties was reached. The new Carnegie Steel company, which was formed as a result of the compromise, will have a cash capitalization of $200,000,000. Mr. Carnegie's holdings will amount to 60 per cent of the capital stock. Associated with him will be Henry C. Phipps, Lawrence C. Phipps, Charles M. Schwab, Francis T. F. Lovejoy, Thomas Morrison, Daniel L. Siemson, Andrew H. Moreland, and Mr. Frick.

COBLENZ.—Three thousand persons were killed in the fighting at Leipzig before government troops captured the town on March 19, according to statements of three American business men who arrived here from Leipzig. The Spartacans gained control of the Ruhr district today. The Red army took possession of Essen, Duisburg, Ganbern, Mullheim and Mettman, west of Elberfeld.

BERLIN.—The government of President Ebert, which left Berlin a week ago when Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and his reactionary troops entered the city, is again in power in the capital. Soon after President Ebert arrived from Stuttgart the order for a state of intensified siege was withdrawn and wire entanglements and barricades erected by the Kapp troops were being removed. It is hoped the city will soon resume its normal activities.

CHICAGO.—At 8 o'clock outside the Auditorium theater 5,000 persons were still clamoring for admission. Husky policemen stood guard at every door to keep the crowd out. Inside another 5,000, each with a shamrock, either wore or waved the orange, white and green of the "Irish Republic." They were gathered there to hear Eamonn de Valera, "president" of that "republic," speak. On his appearance pandemonium reigned. The 5,000 yelled, sang, screeched, stamped, clapped and jumped up and down for seven minutes.

THE OUSTER OF CRANE COLLEGE.

Chicago, March 20.—The action of the North Central Association of Colleges in dropping Crane Junior college from membership in the association is a rank injustice, for dispassionate analysis of the reasons for the action proves this.

To cite such a cause as "inadequate library facilities," with the Chicago public library, Newberry library, the John Crerar library, Municipal Reference library, as well as Crane's own library available to students, is obviously a glaring misstatement of fact.

Furthermore, to remove Crane college because of "large classes and too great a teaching load," when the same situation prevails to an even greater extent in more than half the larger colleges in the association, puts too great a strain on the average person's credulity. No class at Crane contains more than forty students, and many much less, while there are classes in other schools, Northwestern for example, containing 125 students. With every teacher at Crane an authority in his field, possessing previous high school experience and holding at least a master's degree, the general superiority of Crane college teaching over the student instructor system at most of the other large colleges is easily evident.

"Lack of adequate records" is another charge of the association. I am sure that a fair survey will demonstrate that Crane's registration and recording system is superior to that of most schools in the association. Our recording system was adopted only after a thorough investigation of similar systems at other schools, and the recording staff is adequate to take care of all records.

But the most ludicrous, or, more aptly, tragical, part of the report is the criticism of the "general tone of the school." May I ask how an investigating committee of one, the president of a small girls' college in Ohio, with ideas entirely foreign to the administration of a metropolitan coeducational institution like Crane, could have had the time and opportunity to find such fault with "the general tone of the school" in the less than two days he spent surveying the college? As president of the senior class of the college I can testify that the vague something which the worthy Ohio pedagogue defines as "general tone" is eminently satisfactory. There is no more enthusiastic teaching staff than has Crane, and the spirit of the student body and their attitude toward their studies are highly satisfactory.

We ask no more than a fair, just, and capable investigation of the association's charges. The opinion of a small town college professor with rural, localized ideas should not be sufficient to condemn an institution whose students have demonstrated their ability so satisfactorily in higher institutions as have Crane graduates. IRWIN J. KAPLAN,
President, Senior Class, Crane College.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Chicago, March 20.—Now that Crane college has been ousted from the North Central Association of Colleges it's about time some action were taken for its betterment. Where are all these so-called "Chicago big shots" who want their city to rank first in the world? They are continually throwing donations and funds all over except in the proper place. Why not get together and help build that four year city college? Just take a peek at Detroit and New York City. Why, they could make us hide our faces in shame. Therefore, you groundhogs, come out of your hiding places and start things going. Now is the time. ALUMNUS.

UNCONSCIOUS CRIMINALITY.

Chicago, March 17.—Your correspondent J. B. questions how much of truth there is in the statement that "the majority of Chicago people are either criminals or have criminal instincts." While the number of actual criminals is relatively small, the number possessing unconscious criminal instincts includes a large portion of the population, and by no means are they restricted to Chicago.

Civilization is concerned with suppressing or repressing the direct expression of this instinct in the mass of people and to a large extent is successful. However, this inner compulsion to rebel against authority or law finds expression in various indirect ways of which the individual is entirely unconscious. Among the different forms of expression are contempt for the police, hero worship, or envy and hate of gangsters, jury leniency, etc. Criminal lawyers are familiar with the psychology of identification, wherein the juror is unconsciously identified with the criminal to arouse his sympathy.

The unconscious mind is primitive, savage, and unethical. It is unable to reason inductively from effect to cause and therefore concludes that crime pays when confronted with the evidences of the prosperity of criminals. The criminal conscious mind, product of civilization, is aware of the fact that crime does not pay and checks the expression of the primitive nature to get without giving. Unconsciously, he commits sins for the remuneration and attends gang funerals, murder trials, etc. The victim of the drama, through faulty training or bad environment, failed to conquer his unconscious urge for taking what he wanted without regard for the rights of others and meets an untimely end in consequence. Witnessing his fate will deter others from following suit, but will never abolish the unconscious admiration accorded to one who did what he but wished to do. J. B. WATKIN.

FOR A HUNDRED YEARS.

Chicago, March 19.—In answer to the plea of Mr. Josephus Daniels that prohibition be tried for another hundred years, let me, as a humble servant of Uncle Sam and a strong supporter of what is right, ask Mr. Daniels how he would have enjoyed life under the rule of England for one hundred years from the days when the revolution put an end to intolerance.

There were many supporters of English rule as there are many supporters today of the dominion of the so-called dry element. Why didn't the opposition meekly submit, without protest, for one hundred years and allow the yoke to become firmly fastened to the necks of those who desired freedom and equal rights?

Why not try another experiment for ten years and see how it works out? Let the people have beer and light wines and have state regulation of hard liquors for a period of ten years and I, as an intelligent American citizen, will predict success. S. P. NORSTROM,
Capt., U. S. A.

WHERE THEY STAND.

Chicago Heights, Ill., March 18.—Is there any way the public, and especially the voters of Illinois, can ascertain how our candidates for the United States senate and congressmen at large stand on the eighteenth amendment? It seems they are all trying to slip by without expressing themselves on this issue. They might just as well come out with it, as they can't put it over that way for the public has been hoodwinked about as long as it will stand it. If candidates are not man enough or woman enough to state the principles they stand for they surely are not the right kind of timber to represent us in Washington. LEFTHANDED REPUBLICAN.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue Jim. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang come to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old cow puncher, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Jesse kills Doc Brown, who he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Moss and others. As they reach the table the lights go out, and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right arm had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss, and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son Pete. He suggests that she marry him. They are quietly married and Jim continues his investigation. He is lured to the woods behind the town and the Moss gang traps him.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

A SURPRISE VISIT.

"What's that?" asked Clay nervously. "Listen."

On the light night breeze there drifted to them a ripple of girlish laughter followed by the deeper notes of a man's mirth. A pair of lovers had come down to the grove to be alone.

"Got to do it quick," Buck said.

Jim lifted his voice in a shout. "Help! Help! They're murdering me."

The barrel of Buck's revolver crashed down on his head and he passed out of the picture. But that cry had for the moment saved the boy's life. It had upset the plan of Devil Dave. Suicide would no longer serve as a tenable theory to account for his death if he were to be shot and left here.

Ellen and Mrs. Glen came home early from the church strawberry festival. The young wife had been uneasy in her mind ever since she had left Jim. The only reason she had gone to the supper was that he had laughed at her anxiety and made fun of it. She did not want to be fussy, but she was content only when she could see him or, if it was night, only when she could reach her hand out and know he was near. The great love she felt for him sometimes rose and choked her throat, for she was haunted by the constant dread that some time he would go gayly out of the house to his death, that he would be brought back to her laid low by his enemies.

Tonight her footsteps quickened as soon as she saw the house was dark. He had told her, he would be at home working over the accounts of the drive. What had taken place to change his plans? Her fingers trembled while she lit the lamp. Swiftly her glance swept the room, in her bosom a dread of what the light might show. Her eyes fastened to the note pinned to the back of the sofa and she flew across the floor to it.

"I've been called out, sweetheart [so she read] by a message from Mamie Dugan. She wants to tell me something. I'm to meet her in the cottonwood grove south of the track. Probably, I'll be back before you read this. If I'm not, don't worry. She is afraid of Devil Dave. He must know she knows too much. I think we're near the end of the long crooked trail we've been following, honey. Soon now."

The signature was "Jim."

"Oh, I wish he hadn't gone," Ellen cried.

"Gone where, dearie?" Mrs. Glen asked, taking off her bonnet.

"To talk with Mamie Dugan. How does he know it's not a trap? How does he know that awful man isn't waiting for him? Why does he do such foolish things?" she wailed.

Mrs. Glen read the note. It made her, too, uneasy, but she did not say so. Her smile was cheerful.

"So he's going to see another girl and you don't like it," she teased. "I don't know as I blame you. There never was anything prettier in this town than Mamie Dugan. An' they say, though she's play actress an' part Mexican, that she's a good girl. I hope so. Her friends are a queer lot, except your husband, of course."

Ellen waved aside this persiflage. She was not jealous minded, and just now her spirits were too low to rise to teasing.

"I can't sit here an' wait for him," she fretted. "Why didn't he say when he left here? Maybe he has been gone for hours. Maybe——"

"Maybe you're a little goose," Mrs. Glen finished for her. "Dearie, you'll learn that a wife has to do a lot of waiting for her husband. An' sometimes with a heavy heart. It's part of the price she pays for marrying him."

The bride walked nervously to the end of the room and back. "I don't want to be silly," she confided. "I don't want him to feel that I'm hanging 'round his neck like a stone, an' that he's not free to do what he wants to. But this is such a dreadful business. They tried to kill him the very night we were married. They'll try again. Just as likely tonight——"

She broke off in a wail.

Ellen jumped, staring big-eyed at her friend. Some one had knocked on the door. She ran to open it.

Harrison Pendleton was there, filling the doorway with his huge bulk.

"Come in," she cried eagerly. "I'm so glad you came, because——"

The big cattleman interrupted. "Want you to meet a friend of mine, who has come all the way from Texas to see you," he shouted jovially.

Ellen looked at the stranger, a big, bronzed, blue-eyed man in the forceful fifties. That he was a cowman she knew instantly, just as she knew he was one to be trusted out of ten thousand. Her heart began to hammer queerly. There was a look about his face that reminded her of Jim.

"That's who——Chan Rutledge, yore husband's dad."

"I'm——so glad." She celebrated her joy by bursting into tears.

Chandler Rutledge moved forward and took her in his arms. "What's the trouble?" he asked, and the very sound of his deep, strong voice was comforting.

"I'm so worried—all the time—about Jim. They want to—to kill him—that old Dave Moss an' his crowd. An' he's so reckless. But now you're here——"

"We'll fix that up now," Chandler promised, and sealed it with a kiss. He held her from him and looked the girl over smilingly. "If I'd been picking a wife for the young rascal myself I couldn't have done half as well. I want to tell him so. Where is he?"

"That's it," she cried. "He's gone out. I left him here an' went with Mrs. Glen to a church supper. He was doing his accounts an' said he wouldn't leave the house. But he went. Come in, please. There's a note."

Chandler read the message Jim had written. He passed it to Pendleton.

"What's to worry about this?" he asked. "D'you think this girl is trickin' him?"

"I don't know. Jim says she's all right. But you know Dave Moss."

"I know him," her father-in-law said grimly. "The worst villain that ever went unhung. Well, girl, don't you worry any more. This is in my hands now. Harrison an' I will drift down to the cottonwoods an' see what's what. We'll have that boy back with you before you could shake a cow's tail twice."

He left her immeasurably comforted. This Texan looked so wise and so strong. No harm could come to his boy now, with Chandler Rutledge to look after him. She even smiled a little to think what a surprise it would be to Jim to see his father.

But Chandler Rutledge was not smiling.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A "musical romance" has fallen to the lot of the young man who yearned to be a grand opera star and, later, substituted the yearning for contemplation regarding entering a monastery. Easily and well Mr. Novarro, who apparently has discarded both ideas, sings the pleasing lays that star this picture. Easily and well he plays the leading rôle of Armand, who is a dashing Bonapartist in the days when bare mention of the exiled leader was apt to provide rapid transit to the land that is fairer than day. [Or one that is not.]

The picture opens with Napoleon [believably portrayed by Mr. Humphrey] saying good-by to his guard just before departing for Elba. Armand is standard bearer. Bravely he forces back his tears and promises to smile "when you return, sire."

The boy's devotion to the exiled leader causes sentence of death to be pronounced upon him. The clever ruse by which he escapes, his love affair, and adventures attendant upon the pursuit of him and his activities in furthering the successful movement which brings Napoleon back to France for "the hundred days" consume the rest of the picture's footage and provide the story's excitement and suspense.

Mr. Novarro, who once ventured to compete with the late Rudolph Valentino for public adulation, is more pleasing personally and a better actor than he was at that time. He has gained poise and as Armand displays an insouciance and mobility of expression that are engaging. He has a pleasant speaking voice and is no mean singer, as he proved in "The Pagan."

Dorothy Jordan seen as the lady of his heart is pretty, capable and young. Her voice is not so good, however, and you get pretty mad at her, for her rôle calls upon her to be the screamingest woman . . .! But on the whole you like her. As for Marion Harris—she's utterly charming. Not beautiful. Fascinating. Poised. Gracious. And HOW she can sing! John Miljan does well as the gentleman we do not prefer. Minor rôles are well enough handled, while scenery, staging, photography and direction please.

"E" stands for "entertaining."

"Devil May Care" is "E."

Finder of the Bacon Cipher Forbids Sale to Private Collectors

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The will of William M. Voynich, who in 1912 discovered the famous cipher manuscript of Roger Bacon, it was disclosed today, provides that it never be sold to a private collector at any price but that any public institution may buy it for $100,000.

Mr. Voynich, a noted bibliographer and medievalist, who died on Wednesday, discovered the manuscript in an Italian castle. The key to the manuscript, which contains some 300 pages inscribed with more than 800,000 words, was partly discovered by Mr. Voynich and the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold of the University of Pennsylvania. Bacon, a thirteenth century English monk, entered his theories on science in cipher because of the superstition of that age. The manuscript now rests in a safety deposit vault in New York.

American Children Urged to Send Treasure Chest

The committee on world friendship among children, at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle yesterday, proposed the sending of a treasure chest by American children to children of the Philippines as a gesture of good will. Mrs. Jeanette W. Emrich, secretary of the committee, was guest of honor at the meeting.

In March, 1927, American children sent 13,000 dolls to Japanese children for the celebration of the Japanese doll festival. The Japanese reciprocated by sending dolls to the United States. A second international friendship project was carried out in September, 1928, when American children sent bags of toys and other gifts to Mexico, the gifts being distributed on Sept. 16, Mexico's day of independence.

Disabled Veterans to See Dance at Stevens April 5

More than 200 disabled veterans in hospitals in the Chicago area will have a chance to attend their first dance in many months on April 5. They will be guests of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at the fifth annual Liberty ball in the Stevens hotel. Some will come in wheel chairs and some on crutches, but they will find special enjoyment in the crowning of Miss Liberty, Joseph B. Lynch is commander of the Woodrow Wilson post, which is sponsoring the ball. On the executive committee are Col. A. A. Sprague, Gen. James B. Stuart, Thomas R. Gowenlock, J. Hamilton Lewis, Judge Mary Bartelme, Mrs. Bertha Baur, and Mrs. Amos W. Walker.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Given the opportunity to travel in the United States, would you go east, west, south or north?

The Answers.

William Shultz, Lisle, Ill., meat cutter.—I have been in California, and I like it, except that working conditions are not so good. I don't care for the east. The south might be worth investigating. Chicago is good enough for me.

Miss Marie Porzel, 6340 South Keeler avenue, telephone operator.—I would like to try the south, because one hears so much about the pleasant climate. I should like to see a desert. I have relatives in California who have told me about them. I never have been farther from Chicago than Michigan.

Nicholas Nudelman, Fairfax hotel, real estate investments.—I should be inclined to go south at this season of the year. If it were summer I would go to the Adirondacks; that would be my choice in this country, for that is one of the most beautiful sections in the east.

Mrs. Florence Cozzie, 6149 South Francisco avenue, housewife.—I would go south in the winter. But so far I have traveled only to some of the small towns in Illinois and Michigan. I would like to see Niagara Falls.

T. J. Wallace, 1444 Granville avenue, postoffice clerk. — I would go to Miami, Fla., until it got warm. When it got too hot for comfort I would go up to the north woods and fish for bass, muskies and pickerel. I have never been east, but have been south and know it's a good place in the winter.

Mrs. Gillette to Marry Geo. Kothe of Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell Gillette, divorced wife of King Gaines Gillette Jr., son of the razor magnate, and George Kothe, Los Angeles insurance broker, have filed notice of intention to wed with the license bureau here.

Doctor Warns Against Careless Dieting as Playing with Health

The popular idea that overweight always is due to overeating is an error in most cases, Dr. James H. Hutton, president elect of the Chicago Medical society, told physicians of the southwest side and suburbs at a meeting at the Little Company of Mary hospital in Evergreen Park last night.

"The bearded lady, the fat lady, the woman with the deep bass voice, the bald headed and persons of rough complexion are all suffering from various forms of obesity or disturbance of the endocrine glands," Dr. Hutton said. "No amount of dieting can correct these disorders. Dietary restrictions should be undertaken only on the advice of a physician. A fat person who feels well, and is apparently healthy otherwise, is far better off than a thin person who is below par.

"The average fat person eats no more and frequently eats less than his thin relatives. In most cases the cause of his fatness is that something had gone wrong with his internal machinery and he has lost his ability to utilize sugar, starches, and fats. His body becomes a storage house for these substances, as a bear's body does before hibernating."

Diamonds Napoleon Gave to His Empress Returned to Hapsburgs

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—The $400,000 diamond necklace given by Emperor Napoleon I. to the Empress Marie Louise of Austria on the birth of their son, "the little king of Rome," returned today to the ownership of the Archduchess Maria Theresa of Austria. David M. Michel, jeweler, delivered it to Mrs. Anna Eisenmenger of Vienna and Dr. George Schmidt, Austrian consul general, as representatives of the archduchess, together with the authenticating documents.

With the return of the necklace by Mr. Michel, who bought it for $60,000, from Col. Charles L. Townsend, former head of the English police in Egypt, an agreement was made in behalf of Marie Theresa to reimburse him for part of the loss he sustained through paying cash to Col. Townsend and then being confronted with documents showing that the latter's authority to sell had been revoked.

British Shop Clerks Win 2d Round for 48 Hr. Week

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—A bill, which would limit the working time of shop assistants to 48 hours a week, and affect more than 1,500,000 employés, was given second reading in the house of commons today. Shop assistants now work an average of 74 hours a week.

GRACE NELSON WINS AS THE SOLOIST WITH STOCK'S ORCHESTRA

BY EDWARD MOORE.

With the young Chicago pianist, Grace Nelson, making her first appearance in the capacity of soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and with the orchestra playing some of the most entertaining novelties of the season, the concert at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon was enlivening even beyond the wont of such concerts.

As I had a little to do with the choice of Miss Nelson for this appearance, being a member of the advisory committee that conferred with Mr. Stock, it becomes an extra pleasure to record that the audience heartily agreed with us. Miss Nelson made a pronounced hit.

She played Edward MacDowell's fine concerto in D minor, which was last heard at these concerts ten years ago, and the fanciful, tricky "Sortilegi," by Riccardo Pick-Mangiagalli, which was heard only once before when Wilhelm Bachaus played it seven years ago. In both Miss Nelson displayed a striking talent. The one thing that could be alleged in her disfavor is that she is not yet old enough to have the muscular force that will one day be hers, though at that she showed a lift of spirit in the MacDowell work that was more stimulating than any amount of keyboard pounding could be.

She was poised, composed, alert, rhythmic with the elastic rhythm of changing mood. She has an excellently developed pair of hands, and this though it was told afterwards that she hurt a finger early in the MacDowell performance, no joke for a pianist. But more than all these, she is by nature and temperament a sincere musician in all her reactions to music.

She could have ended the program to the complete satisfaction of every one, but Mr. Stock had something else to present. It was the first performance in Chicago of Ravel's "Bolero," and seldom since I started going to these concerts has a new piece made such a deep impression. In theory the "Bolero" is artless, not to say naïve. It is just a little sixteen measure tune, as simple as the simplest jazz tune ever devised, repeated over and over in the same key until it has run about ten minutes.

Starting first with a single flute plus a snare drum to beat out the dance rhythm—the drum never lets up—it picks up another instrument or two, then another and another. Ravel knows all there is to know about combinations of instruments, any way, and Stock knows all that there is to know about playing them. The constant repetition of the tune affects you almost mesmerically, the constant building up and building up gives an extra fillip to your nerves. Finally with a crash that almost lifts you out of your seat, it is over, and you go down the street to the beat of that tune for blocks afterwards.

In the beginning of the program Mr. Stock introduced a revival of Bloch's "Concerto Grosso" and a first performance of Reger's "Four Tone Poems." They were curiously akin to nature, though Bloch wrote four more or less abstract pieces for string orchestra and piano and Reger used the full orchestra for a musical delineation of four paintings by Arnold Boecklin. But spiritually they are closely related. Incidentally, they are both worth hearing.

The Musical Guild, an organization with marked skill in the discovery of promising talent, presented two agreeable young artists at Kimball hall last night in the persons of Miss Agatha Lewis, soprano, and Arthur Landers, pianist. Both are talented, both have been trained to the point where their musical personalities are beginning to show above technical development, both are well on the way to make their personalities marked.

To make the event still more pleasant, neither attempted to go in for the grandiose or long winded in their parts of the program. Mr. Landers played Mozart and Bach in their briefer manifestations, a group of Prokofieff and Debussy, a final group of Chopin and Brahms. Miss Lewis sang groups of songs in Italian, German, French, and studio English, and both she and Mr. Landers proved to at least one listener that skill applied to short forms can exhibit as much art as when it is put on more lengthy ones.

Russian Parades Oppose Foreign Prayer Tactics

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, March 21.—Workers, young communists and Young Pioneer—communist Boy Scout—processions are converging this evening from all parts of Moscow upon the Italian embassy. The demonstration was organized under the auspices of the Atheist league, which is now holding a plenary session under the presidency of one of the leading Kremlin spokesmen, Yaroslavsky, who yesterday stated the organization's membership amounted to 2,500,000.

Soviet authorities have taken full precautions that the Italian embassy be not molested by the demonstration against the "papal prayer campaign." Since 4 o'clock—before the demonstrations got under way—mounted police barred both ends of the side street where the Italian embassy is situated, refusing access to all save those who lived in the neighborhood. The soviet, perhaps, is not unwilling to encourage workers' demonstrations against the "papal campaign," but has decided not to allow the risk of an infringement on the dignity of the Italian state.

The soviet has not forgotten that the present Italian embassy was the scene of the murder of Baron Mirbach, German ambassador, in the summer of 1918, and the difficulties that ensued therefrom. The demonstrators will not be allowed to approach the embassy sufficiently close to cause annoyance, much less danger.

Pressure Put on Jews.

MOSCOW, March 21.—(AP)—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—The Central Association of Coöperative Stores, which controls distribution of food in Russia, decreed today that no store was to sell matzoth (matzos), wine or other Jewish Passover ritual foods. The order also applies to the Russian Easter.

The association has ordered each store, restaurant and tea house to distribute anti-Passover pamphlets to its customers, and special brigades of students will see that the instructions are obeyed.

Churchmen in Prisons.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 21.—Following the recent publication by the soviet press of interviews with Metropolitan Sergei, a high dignitary of the Russian Orthodox church, and a number of Minsk rabbis, both denying that the soviet government is persecuting religion, the Isvestia and other papers publish an alleged interview with the Catholic Bishop Aglo, announced head of the Catholic eparchy of Mogilev. Bishop Aglo is reported as saying that he was unaware of a single instance of a Catholic priest being prosecuted for holding religious services or that the soviet government was using force in closing the churches; however, he knows of cases where priests were arrested for counter-revolutionary activities and even acting as spies for foreign governments.

A member of the Latvian parliament, the Catholic Bishop Ransan, commenting on the Aglo interview, said:

"Aglo I know, and he is neither a bishop nor head of the Mogilev diocese, whose bishop is imprisoned in the notorious Slovetski prison in the White sea. It is possible that Aglo, as the elder clergyman, is now serving at Mogilev, but his statement is either manufactured or false.

"The only freedom of conscience now permitted in Russia is within the confines of communist concentration camps and prisons.

Now Gene Delacroix Gets Big Exhibition, Now That He's Dead

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Art institute has done a stirring thing in gathering together a representative collection of the work of one man, a man not always held in the greatest esteem, and proving that his genius was not a thing of a day but more enduring. Eugene Delacroix suffered all the sneers and drastic criticism that could be handed upon one man in the days when he was beginning to find his strength. He was a Frenchman, the Salon rejected him; he was an original, the leaders in art laughed at him. He came through unscathed because he was sure of himself. The paintings that line the walls of the first room in the Art institute east wing gallery could not be the product of a weakling. Here is a man of strength.

Objections were raised to his crowded canvases; to the vehemence of his figures; to the dramatic confusion that stirred dead paint into life. Little credit was given him for his mastery of color, of line and of anatomy. No credit was given him for his remarkable powers as a draughtsman. Gradually the opinion of his age was changed. Today when he, being dead, cares nothing for fame, honors are being heaped upon his name. He is acknowledged today as the father of modern painting and his influence on every great painter of the nineteenth century, from Daumier to Cezanne, has been admitted.

We can judge for ourselves. The paintings are spread before us. There is the gorgeous "Arab Rider Attacked by a Lion"; near at hand are "The Lion Hunt," "An Arab Spy" and "Cleopatra." Watch how his talent turns itself. Here there is the thunder of conflict, beside it is delicacy and charm in the wistful "Portrait of a Woman." Again we have another play on episodes with the extremely fine "Chess Players of Jerusalem." Then more moving, more hurried, come "The Fanatics of Tangiers" and "Combat Algerien," and, full of color and a rush of sensuous loveliness in the spirit of Rubens, is "L'Enlevement de Rebecca."

It is a stimulating exhibit, the more so as a close inspection of the titles gives ownership of many of the finest examples to the Art institute. Among the other contributors are the Cleveland museum, the Corcoran gallery, the Fogg Art museum, the Brooklyn museum and several private individuals. A further gallery offers a number of drawings and etchings and lithographs by Delacroix, increasing the interest in the paintings and adding themselves to his belated fame.

The exhibit will continue to April 20.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

From observation there is every indication that Chicago is going to be listed as the city of beautiful lawns and yards. So many back and front yards seem to bear evidence of getting in line for the top prize which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has launched in its $5,000 Lawn Contest.

Be sure to get only the best grass seed, as well as the kind most suited for this part of the country. Grass seed fakers, insects, and poor soil are three of the greatest handicaps confronting city dwellers in getting a smooth velvety lawn. Lawn builders cannot always escape the faker, but they can kill the insects and start out with rich soil. The best seed in the world never made a lawn on poor soil. If your soil is suitable, a mixture composed of redtop, frequently with Dutch clover, and either Kentucky or Canada blue grass is recommended.

There is much valuable information to be found in the booklet "Better Lawns for Chicagoland" which is sent to every one entering this contest. Details in full regarding this interesting contest will be found in the Metropolitan Section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Besides this booklet, which is sent gratis, THE TRIBUNE has published a very interesting little book, "Flower Gardening," which tells much that one should know in the making and keeping of lawns. It may be purchased for 15c or by mail 18c. On sale at Chicago Tribune Public Service offices.

Doris Tells Secret of Keeping Man's Affection and Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am engaged to be married to a man who cannot bear to have any of his shortcomings pointed out to him. If we argue and I win a point he goes home in a sulk and I don't hear from him again until I call him up.

"I'm wondering if we wouldn't lead a cat and dog life and if it is worth trying to make a go of a marriage with him? ZELLA."

The wonder is, Zella, how a woman whose idea of showing a man a good time is pointing out his shortcomings and one who insists on winning her points at arguments ever got an engagement ring. A woman must have extraordinary graces to live down those two terrible faults.

Why, if you care enough for a man to say yes, you'll marry him, do you want to go on calling attention to his shortcomings? Are you starting in to make him over according to a pattern in the back of your mind for a husband?

It's plain that you are not aware that the secret of getting a man to stay in love with you, as well as fall in love with you, is to make him appear at his best, which no woman does by calling attention to his faults. And, besides, are you without shortcomings? And how would you bear up under fire of the same sort? Not a bit well, I'll wager. The persons who are ready to tell the other fellow what he ought to know for his own good rarely can bear to listen to like advice directed at themselves.

And about arguing? What argument is worth jeopardizing one's future over? Things may be discussed. They do not have to be argued. With each entitled to his or her own opinion, arguments should be friendly things. There should be none of that triumphant note in winning a point between friends. That's what galls.

Anyway, after you've won the argument, what are you going to do with it? You have it on your hands and that's about all you get out of it. Of course I am talking about the points over which two persons of opposite sex argue. It is not as if one were fired with zeal over some great moral philosophy or over some great ideal of benefit to mankind.

Struggling to win an argument with a man you wish to hold is a perfectly good way of losing him to some woman whose concern is to make him feel that his is the master mind.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Don't Give Jewelry.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have gone with a fellow for one year. Would a ring be suitable for his birthday? "JOKIE."

A gift, other than jewelry, would be more suitable. A bill fold, books, or something for his smoking outfit.

Foolish Procedure.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl and I always quarrel. What'll I do? "T. M."

Surely you can adjust your differences in an amicable way.

Irvin Reay Is Engaged to H. J. Cuscaden

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Reay, who reside at 324 Hazel avenue, Highland Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Irvin, to Henry Jones Cuscaden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Cuscaden of 824 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Both the Reay and Cuscaden families have been long time residents of the north shore suburb. Miss Reay is a graduate of St. Katharine's school at Davenport, Ia., and attended the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. Mr. Cuscaden is a graduate of Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and attended the University of Wisconsin. There he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Miss Irvin was maid of honor for her sister on that occasion. Probably her sister will attend her as matron of honor. Her wedding is planned for early June. The Youngcloves have just recently returned from their honeymoon trip to Bermuda.

The marriage of Miss Jeanette Sterling Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Dixon of Monroe, Mich., to George Morrill Silverthorne Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Silverthorne of Riverside, will be solemnized this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Trinity Episcopal church in Monroe. A reception will follow at the Dixon residence.

BRIDE-TO-BE

The bride's sister, Miss Ada Mae Dixon, will be her maid of honor and Mrs. William McIntyre and Miss Elizabeth Sterling of Monroe, Miss Patti Denman, Miss Luette Spitzer, and Miss Betty Lipe of Toledo, O., will be bridesmaids. John Silverthorne will act as best man for his brother and the ushers will include Henry Silverthorne, Philip Hellyer, Arthur Hellyer Jr., Frederic Hellyer, William Faurot, and Henry Faurot.

Reservations for the Arts club musical evening tomorrow night have been made by Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Wentworth Field, Miss Harriet Monroe, Miss Caroline Kirkland, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. Adolf Bolm, and Mrs. H. C. Kimbrough. Serge Prokofieff and his wife, Lina Bluebera, are to give the program, following a buffet supper. The Arts club's next event will be a tea to open four exhibitions on Wednesday next. Paintings by Pablo Picasso, gouaches by Ossip Zadkine, sculpture by Isamu Noguchi, and a group of contemporary Chinese paintings will be on display at that time.

The fund for the summer camp of Olivet institute is to receive a percentage of the first week's sales of the new junior department of Saks-Fifth Avenue. A group of prominent women, including Mrs. Philip D. Armour III., Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mrs. Donald Ryerson are sponsoring a tea on Monday to open the new department.

Mrs. Linn did the decorating of the third floor where it is to be housed, and has used some of the work of Art Institute students. Two statuettes were selected from some made by students of sculpture, and a sign over the entrance to the "party factory" is being designed by some of the still younger students. Mrs. Linn's idea is to encourage the possibilities of commercializing art students' work.

The John T. McCutcheons entertained a party of 75 guests at Treasure island near Nassau in the Bahamas recently. The party arrived in the late afternoon, made an inspection of the island, and were served a picnic supper outdoors in the light of the full moon. During the evening, the native employes on the island played and sang Indian songs and melodies, and the group sailed back to Nassau in the moonlight.

Knowlton L. Ames Jr., who with Mrs. Ames, is at their winter place at Nassau, has gone for a week's fishing in his boat, Grouper, to Andors island.

Invitations have been issued by members of the 5th and 6th forums of the Chicago Latin school for their annual spring dance, to be held at the Saddle and Cycle next Friday evening. The sponsors include Mrs. Charles D. Frey, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Mrs. Howard F. Kingsley, Mrs. Benjamin F. Sincere, Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, and Mrs. John A. Stevenson.

Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, just returned from a lengthy stay in Florida, is assuming an active part in the campaign for $20,000 for the Association of Housekeeping centers. Mrs. Mitchell is treasurer of the organization and Mrs. Arthur Bissell is president.

Wentworth P. Mackenzie of Evanston won first prize at the annual Hurtington Hilarities costume ball and dinner dance at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena last week. He wore a Scotch plaid and tarletan of the Mackenzie clan, and received a key ring as the prize. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody presented the prizes. Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds and their guests wore Spanish mantillas and hats.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Ogden have returned from Augusta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Low Pierrepont accompanied by Miss Ruth S. Dunning, left today for Vancouver, and sailing on the Empress of Asia on March 29 for Yokohama, continuing their trip later via Sumatra and Java to Australia and New Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge Colby gave a dinner last night, at their Fifth avenue home, for Former Gov. Nathan L. Miller and Mrs. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness of London.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Sargent Gibbs left today to spend a few days in Baltimore.

Mrs. George White Baxter returned from Palm Beach.

IN CHARGE

MISS ELIZABETH BASS.

Miss Elizabeth Bass of Evanston is chairman of the committee in charge of a Russian cabaret party to be given by the Chicago College club this evening at its headquarters at 196 East Delaware place.

G. A. R. Auxiliary Enlists Girls for the Cause of Patriotism

The small but important tasks being executed by those who carry on for the Grand Army of the Republic were the subject yesterday of a meeting in Memorial hall in the Chicago public library. The national and state officers of the Woman's Relief corps met in the first such conference to be held by them.

No burning questions of national defense or international politics were solved in their sessions. Those at the meeting attended strictly to the duties voluntarily assumed by them—planning for the anual decoration of soldiers' graves and looking to the needs of disabled soldiers of all wars.

"Many think this corps is a dying group because it is an auxiliary to the G. A. R.," said Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller of Monticello, national secretary. "But we are a living organization with membership open to all loyal women. We help the world war veterans as well as the old soldiers. And we have more than 100 junior clubs of girls from 10 to 16 years."

It was decided at the conference to equip a room at Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, Maywood, and plans were made for the yearly bronze tablet to be given to the University of Illinois on Military day, May 23, containing an additional twenty names of men highest in military science in the state. Thirty-eight scholarships are given to young people over the country as prizes on patriotic subjects.

Among those attending were Mrs. Margaret Bennett, Pittsburgh, national president; Mrs. Emma Campbell, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Catherine Hunter, Indianapolis, past national presidents; Mrs. Josie Bennett, Harvard, Neb., national treasurer, and Mrs. Edith Mason Christie, Oberlin, O., national councilor. Katherine Selms, Urbana, is state president.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Jane Everett, daughter of Mrs. John C. Everett of 1512 Dearborn parkway, to Roger Quincy White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ferris White of 5413 University avenue, will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Woman's Athletic club.

Miss Joan Everett will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will include Miss Patty Foresman, Miss Margaret Emily Carr, Miss Betty Dixon, Mrs. Sidney Gorham, Miss Honor Merrell, and Miss Ruth Norwood. Ferris White will be the best man for his brother and the ushers will be Philip White, Sidney Gorham, Barron Rockwell, Edward Wilson, John Kohler, Franklin Kohler, and Frederick Jerauld of Niagara Falls.

Benefit Dance Tonight.

When Your Child Fails It's Often Your Own Failure

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bovard

A book on the care of babies by Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, a noted authority on the subject, can be had at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents, or by mail for 65 cents.

Yesterday, in this column, a mother's intention of sending her son to a reform school was quoted and discussed a little. When a father and mother express their discouragement—and often disgust—with the behavior of a son or daughter in the early teens, and then turn to the idea of a reform school, their disapproval should instead be directed toward themselves. Their boy's or girl's actions are a striking sign of the parents' failure. With exceptions, of course, some unusual cases.

Not only should their disapproval be directed toward themselves, but their thought of reform should be directed toward themselves. They are the ones who are responsible for the failure and they should make themselves responsible for a change.

Many letters come to me about boys and girls in the early teens who act this way and that way—and although each case usually needs a first hand analysis to be personally helped, frequently the same points of failure will rear their heads. Some of them are that frequently the mother works, as well as the father. (This objection is not directed toward the mother who is supporting her children alone—nor toward the desperately poor family who need the wages of both father and mother.) And frequently she does not need to. This leaves the children without an anchor—or a very poor one.

Frequently there is a much admired, much praised younger child who is very "good"—perhaps because he is of a docile or less vigorous temperament that reacts differently to the same conditions, or because he is more loved and favored.

Often the children are thrown into most undesirable associations because of the neighborhood they live in. Or they find companions who are a bad influence for them, but who attract them because their homes are not made happy or interesting places for them to stay in. Or they go outside because at home they meet with mismanagement, which by sternness, whippings, suppression, or nagging, antagonizes them.

These are a few underlying causes of the conditions that give rise to behavior which makes parents talk of reform school.

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This straightline sports ensemble is an advanced idea for spring that will not only make you look slender, but will be smart and serviceable. The skirt has plaits at either side and is made of plain blue crêpe, while the applied bands on the waist are of the printed crêpe that is used for the coat. The plain crêpe lines the coat.

The pattern, No. 3286, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 5 yards of 39 inch plain material and 3½ yards of 39 inch figured material.

Parisiennes Appear in Draped Scarves

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—What with tailored suits romping all over the field of French fashions, and the weather what it is in March, April, and far into May, fur scarves are inevitable.

It is said that there is no love like the love of the ladies for fox fur scarves, but I can tell you a better and a truer one. There is no love like the love of ladies for novelty, and in Paris they are demonstrating the truth of this latter statement, because smart women are abandoning fox fur scarves for the season at least, and taking to draped scarves of flat furs.

Ladies of the "grand chic" who got that way because they do not make sartorial mistakes are wearing broadtail, galyak, ermine and pony scarves with their first spring tailleurs, and if they own a fox neckpiece it is embalmed momentarily in moth balls and cedar.

Three of the smartest fur scarves to wear with coat dresses and tailored suits this spring are shown in our sketches. At the top is an ermine scarf from Molyneux shaped like a broad flat triangle and bordered with a black georgette hem. Nothing could be more attractive than this kind of fur with a black suit or dress.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Little Side Jaunt.

About a week ago our Scout troop was giving a demonstration for the parents. Everything went along nicely until we began to march. I was marching, head high, chest out, feeling rather proud. At the command, "Column left!" I turned abruptly, wishing to make a good impression.

Imagine my embarrassment when I found myself walking alone. I had been so interested in showing off that I had quite forgotten which was left and which right. E. M.

Making the Guest Comfortable.

My most embarrassing moment came at the time I was entertaining an unexpected caller who had been living out of town for years. I was delighted to see this old friend and in my desire to make her feel at home and in a mood to have a real old friendly visit, I exclaimed as she was about to be seated in a chair in the living room: "O, do take a comfortable chair, tha' is the most uncomfortable chair in the house!"

Later my husband informed me that that was the chair that she and her husband gave me years ago for a Christmas present. J. M. B.

Banana Omelet.

Banana omelet is in a sense an upside down omelet. It is an omelet that when folded is completely covered with gently cooked slices of bananas covered with caramelized sugar. The red banana is a superior fruit for this omelet. Often red bananas need to be cooked so that we may fully appreciate their flavor, which the heat brings out.

There is another fact about the banana omelet that makes it interesting and acceptable to people who dislike the least flavor of fat in connection with an omelet. It is possible with care to make this omelet without any, although a little bit of butter is acceptable both as flavor and in the making of the caramel sirup. We might recommend this piece of work for another reason, that the one practicing this will learn to make a just melted and slightly browned sugar, which is sometimes called butterscotch sirup, and much used nowadays on certain sorts of rolls and buns.

For a two person banana omelet take three egg yolks and two egg whites, a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of sugar and one red banana. Just a teaspoon of butter may be used and melted in the frying pan first, otherwise put the sugar into the pan over low fire and shake it or spread it about while trying not to cover the outer quarter inch of the pan. On top of the sugar place thin slices of the banana, cooking gently, and just as soon as the sugar begins to boil and the banana to brown lift the pan from the fire and turn the bananas with a spatula, so that they really float on a caramel sirup.

After they are turned, cook and brown gently. Have ready the egg yolks, beaten with two tablespoons of ice cold water, turn these over the bananas, which should be gathered toward the center of the pan if necessary, so as to form a firm layer on the outside of the omelet. Prick the yolks while they are cooking, and just as soon as they have set spread the whites over them, and after that cook the whole for about three minutes longer, then fold and serve.

The yolks and whites should both be salted to taste. Great care should be exercised not to overcook the yolks before the white is put on, because they should not lose their creaminess. Banana flavored with caramel sugar is delicious, and this omelet can be made most attractive if one will try to do a nice piece of work in putting it together and cooking it.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"Our baby had been crying constantly, so I explained to my little girl, who is 5, that he was expecting his first tooth. A friend dropped in to inquire how the baby was feeling a few days later and my little girl said, "O, he's fine now; he got his tooth that he has been crying for." MRS. A. M.

Ever Try Relaxing Your Mouth? It's Fine Beauty Aid

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There was an editorial in one of the current monthlies written by an observer of American women's mouths. Seated with a companion in a Paris café where all visiting Americans come at least once, the writer observed the chic of the American woman's dress, the beauty of her silhouette, the slenderness of her ankles—and the inconsistently unbecoming expression of her mouth. Spoiled mouths. Discontented droops to them. On women noticeably well provided with money and time and freedom to spend it, too.

"Why?" the writer asks. "With so much to keep the mouth corners turned up, why is there so much discontent written there?"

The answer, no doubt, involves a wide discussion of woman, her work, her interests, her pursuit of pleasure and her absorption of self when she is denied opportunity for constructive, useful work.

But I notice a mouth muscle tenseness, more than discontent, that prevents any number of women from being as alluring as they might be. Whether it is the deadly pursuit of business, or of bridge, or of a matinée or dressmaker appointment, that jawline is set in a bulldog grip and the mouth snaps tight. It is just a habit and one that does not facilitate the attending to business, to bridge or to appointment. It's just a way of gripping the teeth and setting the jaw for action, however serious or light.

The trick of undoing the muscle tenseness lies in relaxing the mouth muscles. It is as simple as that. And if you don't believe this one little trick can make an amazing difference in a person's expression, stand before a mirror and let your mouth demonstrate it for you. Set the jaw, lock the teeth, and look. Now, relax—and isn't that a prettier girl?

American women are not any more envious or any more miserably dispositioned than any other race. They have just taken too literally the go-getter's phrase to grit your teeth and go to it.

See if I am not right by interviewing yourself on the subject. There is this to say, though: If the habit becomes fixed that set mouth will not permit any one to judge of the swell, elegant disposition your mother or your husband could righteously swear you have.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A Pathetic Request.

"There is a little boy in this tuberculosis sanitarium who is badly in need of clothing. He is 14, but small for his age and would wear 11 or 12 year size. He has no parents and is almost alone in the world. He is able to be up and around a few hours each day and in that way needs a change of clothing which he doesn't possess. He could use a suit, some shirts and underwear. He likes long trousers, but, of course, would be happy to get any kind. F. J."

This letter comes from a sanitarium in Iowa. The boy mentioned is certainly in a distressing situation—no family, no money, and afflicted with the most terrible of diseases. Won't you send him the clothing your young son is discarding?

Portrait by Raphael Sold to Chicagoan; To Be Exhibited

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Raphael's "Portrait of the Parmesan," secretary of Pope Julius II., has just been sold by a New York dealer to an anonymous Chicago connoisseur. The painting is expected to be placed on loan exhibition in the Art Institute of Chicago. The price paid was not revealed, but Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the institute, said today by telephone: "I understand that Baron Rothschild offered $500,000 for this portrait some time ago and his offer was refused."

Wins Common Law Rights for Her Canadian Sisters

EDMONTON, Alta., March 21.—(AP)—An act sponsored by the Hon. Irene Parbly, minister without portfolio in the Alberta cabinet, which establishes the rights of women at common law, has been indorsed by the legislature.

The proposed act provides that no person shall be disqualified by sex or marriage from exercise of any public function, from holding any civil or judicial office, or from entering upon or carrying on any civil profession or vocation.

Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe to Aid Lake Co. Children

Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe of Lake Forest, daughter of the late John G. Shedd and wife of a Chicago banker, accepted appointment last night as a member of the Lake county commission on child health, welfare and education. The appointment came from Francis G. Blair, state director of education at Springfield, who also named T. A. Simpson, superintendent of Lake county schools, and Dr. Maurice Penney, deputy coroner at Libertyville.

Byrd Polar Ship to Sail Homeward Tomorrow

DUNEDIN, N. Z., March 22.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd announced today that his antarctic exploration bark, the City of New York, was ready for sea and would begin its return voyage to New York tomorrow with a portion of the expedition. The Eleanor Bolling is expected to follow the City of New York a week later, both going by way of Tahiti and the Panama canal. Admiral Byrd will rejoin his expedition at Panama.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sheriff Attaches Funds of Opera Singer.

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Suit for $187,500 was begun against Ganna Walska here today by George Djamgaroff who describes himself as a "public relations counsellor and broker."

Djamgaroff charges that the singer and sometime perfumer failed to appear under various contracts procured by him for her as a singer, including one for twenty weeks' appearance in "The Miracle."

Under an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Philip, the sheriff's office has attached whatever funds the singer may have on deposit at the New York Trust company and the Bankers Trust company. How much the deposits amount to was not disclosed.

In his papers the broker says that on or about Aug. 20, 1928, he was employed by Mme. Walska to procure engagements for her in opera, at concerts, in sound pictures, and over the radio, and that she agreed to pay him one-half of her profits from these engagements.

He obtained contracts for her aggregating $175,000, he states, and he demands half of this amount. The second big item of the petition is based on a publicity campaign which Djamgaroff says he conducted for the singer and for which he seeks $100,000.

"Dad of Radio" Paints Future of Broadcasting

Tells Fans Television in Homes Is Near.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Dr. Lee De Forest, internationally known as "the Father of Radio," was a guest speaker on a mercantile anniversary program broadcast over W-G-N from 8 to 8:30 o'clock last night. The inventor was introduced by an imitation reproduction of the first Metropolitan opera broadcast in 1920. Quin Ryan was the announcer. Mr. De Forest said that in the early days of radio he expected that broadcasts would become popular in the rural districts rather than in metropolitan sections. He believes that in time broadcasting as an educational factor will be secondary only to the public schools and that probably within five years perfected television will be in our homes alongside our radio sets.

The United States navy band concert, through WMAQ, furnished good mass coloring during the 7 to 7:30 early evening period. Sibelius' "Finlandia" was rich and colorful beyond the resources of a symphony orchestra with the stringed instrument complex.

The instructive spelling bee broadcast over WBBM from 8:30 to 9 was concluded last evening.

A pretty number on the W-G-N 8:30 to 9 program was "Piccolo Blues," a number composed and played by George Sellers, flute and piccolo soloist with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra. I fancy that radio listeners who know birds and their calls had an enjoyable time naming the original composers of some of the birdlike passages.

At 9:45 o'clock the W-G-N Symphony orchestra played Rimsky-Korsakow's "Flight of the Bumblebee." Great technical difficulties must be surmounted by any radio studio orchestra that can whiz through this piece.

YRIGOYEN BOWS TO ARGENTINE POLITICAL RIVAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 21.—The final result of the federal capital election of 14 national deputies is an overwhelming victory for the Independent Socialist party, which obtained all but ten majority seats, while three Radicals and one Socialist obtained four minority seats.

The Independent Socialists polled 109,292 votes, the Socialists 83,076, and President Yrigoyen's Radicals, 82,713. The result is interpreted as Buenos Aires' complete repudiation of President Yrigoyen's policy. It makes little or no difference in the Yrigoyenist control of the chamber, but entails a loss of prestige in representation in Buenos Aires.

Antonio Detomasos, leader of the Independent Socialists, now the man of the hour in Argentina, seceded from the old Socialist party in 1925 and founded the new Socialist party. Señor Detomasos' father was a mason worker and his mother a seamstress. He was once a stenographer.

Body of Harold M. Kramer Taken to Frankfort, Ind.

Funeral services for Harold Morton Kramer, author and lecturer, who dropped dead on Thursday while in a telephone booth in a drug store at 4300 Drexel boulevard, were held last night at 8 o'clock in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Interment will be today at Frankfort, Ind. Mr. Kramer, who was an officer in the Spanish-American war and who served with the Y. M. C. A. in France in the world war, was a well known lecturer and the author of a number of novels. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Nora Kramer.

SARAH J. DUNNE, NOTED FOR WORK FOR BLIND, DIES

Mrs. Sarah Jane Dunne, 70 years old, widow of the late Patrick W. Dunne, died yesterday in her home, 1122 Holly court, Oak Park. She had been an invalid for six years. Her husband was the father of ex-Gov. Edward F. Dunne by a prior marriage.

Mrs. Dunne lived in Chicago most of her life. She was an energetic worker for the blind, and was instrumental in establishing the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, 1900 Marshall boulevard. For this work she was awarded a diamond medal by the state legislature.

Besides two stepsons, former Governor Dunne and Sarsfield Dunne, Mrs. Dunne is survived by two sisters, Mary A. and Rebecca C. Condon. Funeral services will be held on Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Edmund's church, Oak Park avenue and Pleasant street.

Hold Funeral Services Today for J. C. F. Royer

Funeral services for J. C. F. Royer, a practicing attorney in Chicago for two decades previous to his retirement in 1903, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in a chapel at 1253 North Clark street. Mr. Royer, who made his home at the Hamilton club, died last Wednesday at Orlando, Fla., after a brief illness. He was 74 years old and one of the few surviving members of the class of 1880 at Princeton university. Two daughters and a son survive him.

PRELATES CANCEL FOCH CHURCH SERVICE AS "COMMERCIALIZED"

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Msgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's cathedral, announced today that a pontifical requiem mass for Marshal Foch, to have been held at the cathedral next Wednesday, had been canceled. At the same time District Attorney T. C. T. Crain reported that he had requested Kenneth D. Murphy, chairman of the so-called Marshal Ferdinand Foch memorial committee, to appear in his office as soon as he returns to New York.

Murphy, adjutant of the National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., whose activities were the subject of a congressional investigation in 1925, arranged a similar pontifical mass for St. Matthew's Catholic church in Washington for yesterday, President Hoover and some 2,000 prominent persons being invited on beautifully engraved cards, but through the orders of Archbishop Curley of Baltimore the mass was "indefinitely postponed."

In Washington Murphy invited those who attended the mass to meet at a hotel afterward, where subscriptions were to be taken for a Foch memorial fund. Archbishop Curley said he postponed the mass because it appeared the service was being commercialized.

M. J. SHANLEY OF RESTAURANT FAME IS DEAD

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Michael J. Shanley, one of six brothers whose name for a generation was synonomous in New York with good food, died suddenly today of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in West 71st street. He was 63 years old.

The six Shanley brothers came to New York from Ireland as youths. In 1893 Michael and his elder brother, Thomas J., started their first restaurant at 6th avenue and 23d street. It was so successful that, with the assistance of their brothers, they opened a chain of restaurants which became famous for good, plain food. Their most elaborate place, in Times square, where the Paramount building now stands, went into bankruptcy in 1923, after which Michael Shanley retired.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

BECKER—Jack Becker. Our dear boy who passed away March 22, 1929.
"His memory is as sweet today as in the hours he passed away."
May his soul rest in peace.
LOVING MOTHER AND SISTERS.

CULL—John Cull. In loving memory of my beloved husband who passed away 2 years ago today.
I think of you in silence,
No eye can see me weep.
But many a silent tear I shed
When others are asleep.
YOUR LOVING WIFE GERTRUDE CULL.

NICHOLSON—John L. Nicholson. Passed away March 22, 1925.
Sad and sudden was his call,
So dearly loved by one and all.
Thoughts return today long past;
Time rolls on, but memory lasts.
Your life is a beautiful memory to us,
Your absence a great sorrow to us.
Always remembered by those who never forget. LONESOME WIFE AND SON.

PIEPER—Edward W. Pieper. In fond memory of our dear husband and daddy who passed away one year ago today.
LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

RIEGER—William Rieger. A tribute of love and remembrance to our dear husband and father who passed away 1 year ago today. May his soul rest in peace.
LOVING WIFE, DAUGHTERS AND SONS.

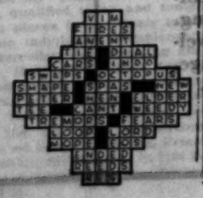
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



JURY WILL GET DOHENY CASE BY NOON TODAY

Evidence Confuses Even the Judge.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—Edward L. Doheny, on trial in the District Supreme court charged with passing a $100,000 bribe to A. B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, may know his fate before tomorrow night. The case, the last of the criminal prosecutions growing out of the Harding administration oil scandals, will be given to the jury before noon.

Nine hours of closing arguments by opposing counsel in the last two days ended early this afternoon, but Justice William Hitz announced he was not prepared to charge the jury until he has reread important portions of the evidence which he declared the attorneys had confused in his mind by widely varying interpretations.

If convicted, Doheny, now 73 years of age, faces a maximum sentence of three years in the penitentiary and a fine of $300,000. Fall, convicted last November of accepting the bribe, was sentenced to serve one year in jail and pay a fine of $100,000. The former cabinet member is now at liberty on bond pending the outcome of an appeal.

Responding to the five hour closing argument of F. J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, Owen J. Roberts for the government reminded the jury that "innocence would need only one defense instead of the seven or eight alternative defenses," advanced by Hogan. Roberts insisted that the evidence showed that the very day Fall received a proposal from Doheny under which the latter's company would secure leases on the navy's Elk Hills, Cal., oil reserves, the former secretary asked Doheny for $100,000.

The government counsel pointed out that Doheny never mentioned a "Japanese war scare" in his testimony before the senate oil scandal investigation committee, and that the oil man candidly conceded to the senators that the $100,000 might have influenced Fall in his favor.

UNION MINER CHIEFS PLAN TO REORGANIZE DISTRICT IN ILLINOIS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—[Special.]—The tangle in Illinois [district No. 12] of the United Mine Workers of America was discussed today at a meeting of loyal union delegates from the district and international executive board after closing of the thirty-first convention here last night.

Definite action was taken by the convention to reorganize district No. 12 and machinery was set in motion to enforce edicts of the international union.

Material was assembled to be used in the trial of insurgents, who have been notified to appear before the international executive board in Indianapolis Tuesday. It was the opinion of many here today that none of the twenty-one summoned would appear and that the evidence would be kept for organization records.

The convention unanimously adopted the report of the scale committee, which recommended that efforts be made to have all contracts in bituminous fields expire at the same time, April 1, 1932.

Start Plane-Ship Service for Brazil-German Mail

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 21.—(AP)—The first combined airship mail service from Brazil to Germany started today with the departure of a mail plane to overtake the liner Caparoona off the island of Fernando do Noronha to transfer mail. On the arrival of the mail in Lisbon it will be picked up by a Lufthansa plane and flown to Germany, giving a nine day service from Rio de Janeiro.

START BUILDING RIVER TERMINALS IN THREE MONTHS

Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways corporation, yesterday announced that construction of two new river terminals at Peoria and Rock Island, would be started within three months. The new terminals will be of vast importance, Gen. Ashburn declared, giving the farmer new market sources which are especially needed during bad years.

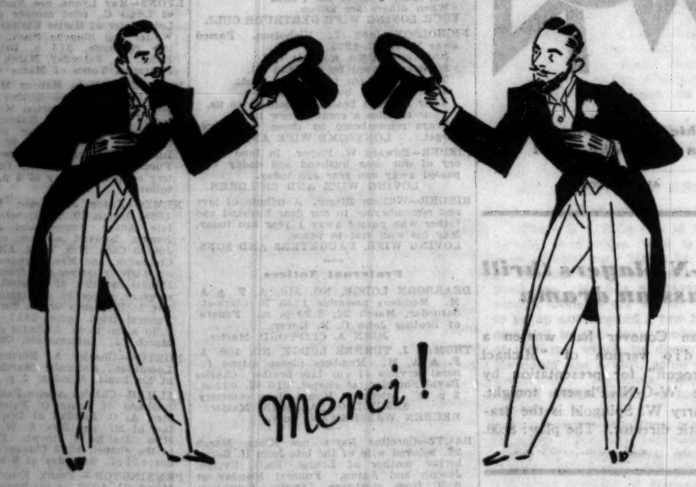
Negotiations have been completed at Peoria, he revealed, and the corporation is on the verge of an agreement with the Rock Island railroad and the city of Rock Island for the operation of the terminal there. The railroad is expected to agree to allow other railroads to approach the terminal over the Rock Island tracks, as it already has agreed for the Peoria project.

Gen. Ashburn conferred with President James E. Gorman of the Rock Island road yesterday and expressed high satisfaction with the "forward looking attitude" taken by the railroad president. All obstacles to construction of the two terminals have been cleared away and both probably will be finished within the year.

River transportation has been proved a success on the Mississippi river, the general said. The corporation of which he is head, a federal organization, now has 400 boats in operation and $18,000,000 in equipment, and has been making profits of $85,000 annually for the last five years.

"As soon as the terminal at Peoria is built and the channel to it finished, barges will come to that city," he stated. "In another year it is expected that the service will be operating upon the Missouri river to Kansas City."

Barges will come to Chicago soon, in his opinion, the general said. He said he believed the federal government would soon appropriate the necessary funds for completion of the waterway.



We thank you, ladies, one and all . . .

To the ladies . . . who came, who saw, and who were conquered by the charm of our presentation of fashions from Paris Couturiers . . . we make our most gracious bow! In all our 75 years of trying to please the ladies, we've never entertained more pleasant company than came to our party on Monday and Tuesday. Our hunch that women-about-town would relish doing their own Paris shopping right here at home . . . has proved RIGHT by the orders placed for coats, suits, frocks, hats and jewelry . . . since the presentation.

We've assembled the star successes in our Chic Chicagoans Shop for your inspection. All orders may be placed there, too, for coats, suits, frocks, hats, and accessories.

For some time we've been entertaining the happy idea that all (meaning each and every one) of our Apparel Shops should enjoy the most friendly relations . . . on color . . . on style, and, of course, on price. And now, by the right of good planning, we announce ourselves to be the Store of the Ensemble.

You can now ensemble an entire wardrobe that matches or harmonizes as it should, to be truly smart, right here at

CARLSON, BLAKE MAKE BEAVERS' HITTERS BEHAVE

Hartnett Adds Punch to Attack.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—Having been humiliated yesterday by the way the Portland Beavers treated his rookie hurlers, Joss McCarthy of the champion Cubs came up today with different arrangements. He summoned a couple of his veterans and the Beavers curled up just as a minor league outfit should curl before serious big time opposition. The exact count was Chicago, 9; Portland, 0.

The hurlers who put the Beavers back in their place were Hal Carlson and Sheriff Blake. They accepted the assignment so gracefully that only five hits were produced, three of them off Carlson in six innings. Carlson not only kept the hits down to a minimum, but also was so effective that only one of the twenty batters facing him was equal to the task of driving a fly to the outfield.

Hartnett Leads Attack.

The most active fellow in the Cub layout was Gabby Hartnett, the celebrated 1929 cripple. Gabby started a run in the third with a single. Another single off his bat inaugurated the big fifth round in which he also made the last out. Later he doubled to drive across another run. On top of this Hartnett turned loose a couple of bullet-like pegs to second base when Portland runners sought proof of the report that the strongest arm in baseball had done a comeback.

The Cubs' initial effort in the run column occurred in the second round. After Wilson had popped out, Cuyler whacked one against the left center bricks for two bases. In his haste to return the ball, the center fielder passed wild, and this gave Kiki opportunity to ramble to third. He scored while O'Dell was throwing out Stephenson.

A couple of hits in the third were added into the Cubs' second tally. Hartnett opened the inning with a single through short. Carlson moved him along by sacrificing. English hit to left, and Gabby hustled home. Grimm and Hornsby were unable to prolong the rally, but they made up for this by contributing nobly in the fifth when Young Yerkes was given a parting shot of five tallies.

Carlson Baffles Beavers.

Carlson handled the Beavers so easily at the start that the third inning arrived before they even managed to promote a base runner. Cronin broke the charm when he opened the round by singling to left. He tried to steal, but Hartnett's restored throwing arm nipped him by yards. The only other men to reach base on Carlson were French, who singled in the fourth, and Bloomer, who scratched a hit to short in the sixth.

The five run explosion touched off by the National league champions in the fifth got under way with Hartnett's second single of the day. Carlson was hit on the shirt front. Both runners moved up on English's sacrifice bunt. Grimm singled to left, and Hartnett scored. Carlson halted at third. Hornsby almost annihilated the third baseman with a smash that bounded away for a single, Carlson scoring.

Wilson Joins in Uprising.

Wilson took a part in the proceedings by lining a single to center, Grimm crossing the plate. Cuyler rolled one slowly toward third and beat it easily, thereby filling the corners. Stephenson's single drove Hornsby and Rave over the counter. Then the rally subsided, and Yerkes was excused from further pitching.

As soon as Bloomer began work in the sixth the Cubs registered another run. The round started with Carlson surviving on a fumble by the second sacker. English bounded a single over second, and Carlson halted at second. He strolled off the bag, and a throw from the catcher nipped him. Then Grimm whistled a two bagger to right center, English going home. English's running effort proved too much for his right leg charley horse, so he retired in favor of Beck.

Hartnett came up with his third hit in the seventh, and this induced Bloomer to give up another run. After Cuyler's demise, Stephenson singled to right and Bell popped out. Then Hornsby drove the ball to the wall in left for two bases, Stephenson racing home with the Cubs' final run. Score:

PREP TOURNEYS.

ADOPTION of a resolution by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools prohibiting its members from conducting interscholastic tourneys informs many persons for the first time that there is a North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Well, that much is accomplished, anyway.

This body appears to be following the national urge to regulate the other fellow's conduct. Now there may be honest differences of opinion as to the benefits or evils resulting from such events. Our opinion that the advantages of a visit to a large city and the experience of such competition outweigh the evils, if any, of absence from classroom work and physical strain may be no more correct than that of the antis. But why not let the individual schools decide the matter?

Stagg's interscholastics have become what are known in sporting parlance as classics. They are invitation events. Those of Loyola are attaining the standing of classics. If participation therein were regarded as harmful, certainly so many teams would not come from afar to compete. It is hardly conceivable so many school boards wittingly would expose their athletes to the evils conceived by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Yale Swimmers Lead Qualifiers for Meet

New Haven, Conn., March 21.—(AP)—Yale, led by Capt. Howland and Messimer, qualified today and tonight for fifteen places in the finals tomorrow of the individual championships of the Intercollegiate Swimming association. Rutgers qualified for six places, and Princeton for four places.

A new National Collegiate and Intercollegiate Swimming association record for the 200 yard breaststroke event was set by Edwin Moles, Princeton, who swam the distance in 2:34 2-5, 3-5 of a second faster than his old mark of 2:35.

MEHLHORN'S SUB PAR GOLF LEADS $15,000 TOURNEY

Reaches Half Way Mark with 140 Score.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Bill Mehlhorn, Pensacola professional, today turned in a sub-par 69 to lead the field at the halfway mark of the $15,000 72 hole La Gorce open golf tournament.

Mehlhorn posted his 69 beside a 71 turned in over the first 18 hole round yesterday for a 36 hole total of 140. His steady playing today won for him $200 in prize money—$100 for medalist honors at the end of 36 holes, and $100 for low score on the second 18 hole round.

Off to Poor Start.

The Pensacola pro got away to a comparatively bad start, taking a pair of fives on the par four first and second holes, but struck his stride on the short number three for a birdie two. Mehlhorn proceeded to chalk up birdies on holes 4, 5, and 6. He made seven and eight in par and took one over par on the 400 yard ninth for a 34 on the outward trip.

Coming in, "Wild Bill" shot par golf on the first seven holes, made a birdie four on the par five 17th and finished with a par four on the 18th for a 35.

Armour in Third Place.

Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, Fla., was in third place with a 145. Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, were on the heels of Armour all day and tied for fourth place with 146.

Giants and Sox Resume Feud Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 21.—It's still raining in San Antonio, but plans are going on apace for the resumption of the White Sox-New York Giants series tomorrow.

There's a lot of interest hereabouts in J. Smead Jolley, mammoth Sox outfielder, and a goodly gathering is expected to see his debut against major league competition. J. Smead's style may be a little cramped at his inaugural, for Mr. McGraw is expected to start Bill Walker, his sterling left hander. While the big fellow is by no means helpless against left handed pitching, he'd a heap rather smack at right handed throwing.

Cissell Out of Lineup.

In the meantime the second team will be engaging the Denver club at San Benito, down in the Rio Grande valley. Connally will pitch and Autry catch. Sunday the outfit moves over to Harlingen to engage the Des Moines club. Faber is expected to make his first start of the year in the Sabbath encounter.

Cissell will be out of the regular lineup against the Giants tomorrow, but may be able to play Sunday. He wrenched his left ankle sliding into the plate in the game against the University of Texas Longhorns at Austin yesterday. Jeffries will take his place.

Alex May Come Through.

Alex Metzler, a regular outfielder on the Sox for the last two years and a half and a holdout this spring, arrived today from his home in Fresno. Alex is in good physical shape, but it is not believed he has the class to compete with this year's outfield talent in the matter of gaining a regular job. Alex, however, is a fighter, and may be able to convince Boss Donie that his puny 1929 batting average—275—is not typical of his ability.

U. S. Plea for Open Net Tournaments Is Rejected

Fainting Phil Yet May Be World Champion, Pegler Says

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—There is a strong temptation to be narrow minded about Fainting Phil Scott, not only because he malingers over harmless touches out of bounds, but also because his promotion in the United States has had the assistance of a political cabal.

Perhaps one should be willing to waive this latter objection. Prize fight commissions, almost everywhere, are composed of minor politicians who take the jobs for the opportunity to strut their pomposity, befriend their friends, and oppress their opponents. Scott was advanced here not because he himself has any political influence but because his manager, James J. Johnston, has.

But in a country where every man knows or wishes he might know some one whom he might call upon to tear up a summons for speeding or to reason with the judge in chambers, it would be fastidious to complain of the favors which Mr. Johnston receives from his friends in New York.

Phil Will Be Back.

He is an entertaining youth with a houseful of hungry progeny who are very hard on clothes and, inasmuch as it makes no difference in the life of the common customer whether he gets the favors or Leo P. Flynn gets them, there is no reason to protest over any little assistance that the commissioners may lend Mr. Johnston in the advancement of Fainting Philip or any one else under his direction. There may be other jurisdictions where Mr. Flynn drinks with the commissioners and tells them to have cops at the railroad station to meet Mr. Johnston and invite him to keep right on going whenever he attempts to light.

All this has to do with a premonition that Fainting Philip will be back in this country come summer time, and that William Muldoon of the New York prize fight commission will nominate him once more as the prize fighter who must be licked by the next heavyweight champion of the world. By the sheer force of relteration, Jack Sharkey has come to be regarded as one of the two best heavyweights now operating, but the unfortunate fact of the case is that Fainting Philip was beating Sharkey until Sharkey began to foul him in Miami and undoubtedly would have outboxed and outpointed him in his delicate, reticent way if the prize fight had been decided by the rules.

Headed for Championship.

This is bad because, conceding Sharkey the status which is now rather widely accorded him, then Fainting Philip, dull, timid and negative as he is, is a better prize fighter and there is no blinking the horrible possibility that within six months he will be heavyweight champion of the world.

Of course, it must be remembered that no heavyweight champion ever beat all the better current heavyweights, and that Fainting Philip therefore would not have to beat Johnny Risko, who once beat him, nor Primo Carnera nor George Godfrey nor even Tommy Loughran. He would have to beat only the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout, and, being a much better boxer than either of them, he would only have to emulate Gene Tunney to win.

Mr. Tunney was master of a style of attack which might be described as the advance to the rear, and although this was something of a bore to the customers at times, yet he caught very few punches while dashing briskly backward.

To be sure, Fainting Philip must first obtain the match, but this boon

Fainting Phil Reaches London; Still Complaining

LONDON, March 21. — (AP) — Phil Scott, British heavyweight, limped into London from a trans-Atlantic liner today, still complaining that a foul blow brought about his defeat by Jack Sharkey in three rounds at Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.

Scott received a warm welcome from a crowd of 5,000, and police had difficulty getting the defeated hero through the cheering throng at the station. Scott said he was anxious to fight again as soon as he could.

"I've heard about the proposal that I should fight Young Stribling, but I shall have to rest a good while, because my leg is still very painful," he said.

PEORIA PLAYS BLOOMINGTON FOR PREP TITLE

State Championship Is Decided Tonight.

Champaign, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Bloomington and Peoria Manual will play tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock for the state high school basketball championship in the deciding game of the state tournament.

Tonight Bloomington defeated Olney, 33 to 23, and Peoria Manual conquered Beardstown, 31 to 25. Peoria Manual, coached by Telfer Mead, a veteran of the prep coaching game, won the state sectional at Peoria by defeating Seneca.

Play for Third Place.

Olney and Beardstown will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the consolation game to decide third place in the state ranking.

Headed by Clauss, who scored 13 points, and presenting a baffling four man box zone defense, Peoria Manual defeated Beardstown decisively.

Manual took the lead at the jump and was never headed, although Beardstown in the third quarter came within three points of catching up.

The Beardstown play was largely built around the lanky figure of its center, Martin, but the Peorians held him to three baskets. Meyers, who scored 13 points against Waterman last night, suffered from an infected foot and did not play the entire game but shot four baskets.

Peoria Never Headed.

Peoria was never headed during the first half. Beardstown's defense allowed the Manual forward to work the ball down the floor for under the baskets. Myers, who was Beardstown's star in their victory over Waterman in the first round, was taken out of the game after three minutes of play when he committed two personal fouls. Peoria led at the end of the quarter, 8 to 5. Beardstown made one field goal in the first quarter and another in the second. Clauss, Manual forward, made three baskets and a free throw. Lineups:

KID CHOCOLATE STOPS RIDGEWAY IN TWO ROUNDS

The flashy "keed" from Havana made short work of Ridgeway. Early in the first round he floored the New Jersey boxer for a count of nine with one solid punch to the chin and Ridgeway was taking a bad beating when the bell rang.

INDRISANO BEATS DUNDEE.

Boston, March 21.—(AP)—Johnny Indrisano, Boston welterweight, outboxed Vince Dundee of Baltimore, by a wide margin here tonight in the Boston garden's feature ten round bout. They battled evenly during the first three sessions but Indrisano had the edge in the other seven.

DATTO WHIPS MANDELL.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

The national championship of the Catholic high schools had to go into the second round before it provided any "garrison finishes," but when they started they came like sticks of dynamite—six to the case. In the eight second round games played at Loyola university yesterday, three times an apparently beaten team came from behind to nose out an opponent in the last quarter and in two more of the games, dazzling finishes barely fell short.

The most heart breaking defeat came to the Big Red team from St. Stanislaus of Mississippi, whose great rally fell short by a point. The boys from the Bayou country were playing the powerful team of Rockhurst, Kansas City, which was plenty tough as an assignment, but worse than that, the pint-sized Toca, dead-eye Dick of the team was off in his shooting along with big Luke Saucier. Toca made only one of four free throws and he's usually good for four out of five.

Crowd Cheers 'Em.

The Mississippi boys left the floor defeated, but lost nothing of their popularity for the crowd cheered them from the final gun until the last red uniform had disappeared toward the dressing room. It was an uphill fight for them most of the way, as they were behind 11 to 6 at the half and midway in the third quarter trailing 17 to 8. Then came their gallant last stand.

A free throw and Saucier's pivot and shot brought the score of 17 to 11, with a quarter to play. Saucier added two free throws and Odell, Rockhurst's brilliant forward dribbled through for a short shot, and a basket that meant victory, though it didn't appear so at that time. After that St. Stanislaus held its opponents scoreless. Toca caged the only free throw he made in the game and Saucier batted a shot through the hoop. Buster Hallisley, Chicago's representative on the team, sank a long shot to leave them a point behind, 19 to 18, with a minute to play. They strove mightily in that last minute, once Toca rimming the basket with a shot from the side and Saucier missing from under the basket, but it was not in the cards for them to win. Which is all the more credit to Rockhurst's big blue team that was almost ignored in view of St. Stanislaus' great drive.

Hoosiers Get Hit.

Jasper, Ind., did something of the same thing in the first of the night series of games, but it never got too far behind. Only a point behind at the half and trailing, 12 to 14, at the end of three-quarters to Father Ryan of Nashville, Tenn., the Hoosiers suddenly began to click and ran up eleven points in the last eight minutes, while holding their opponents scoreless. Baker, Jackie Quinlan and not the least, although the smallest, Oscar Aubin, a 4 foot 11 inch guard, rolled in baskets in a style that bewildered their opponents.

And in the last game of the night came another one of "Custer's last stands," in which a courageous team went down fighting. Spalding institute of Peoria was ranked a strong favorite over St. Rose of Lima, O., especially after Quinn, guard, went out early with a broken nose. Spalding ran up a lead of 17 to 9 in the first two quarters but St. Rose came back after the rest to run them off their feet.

Call on Reserves.

In the third quarter, St. Rose scored seven points to two for Spalding, leaving the score 19 to 16 and St. Rose tied it half way through the last quarter. But Spalding called on its own reserves. Big Peters, center of Spalding, stood in the center circle and shot a basket that put the Peorians ahead again and resorting to a delayed offense, drawing St. Rose out. Harding took a long pass to give Spalding a 23 to 19 point margin. A free throw was the only other point St. Rose got.

In the afternoon games Loyola academy of Chicago went down before Columbia academy of Dubuque, 11 to 10, the final score, a free throw in the last minute putting the Iowans ahead for the first time in the contest.

Phil Krause Wins Game.

Earlier in the day De La Salle High school, champions of the Chicago Catholic league, and defending champions of the tourney, had moved into the third round by defeating St. Xavier High school of Louisville, Ky., 11 to 9. The game was marked by unusually fine defensive play and uneffective free throw shooting. At the end of the first quarter it was 2 to 2 and at the half St. Xavier led, 5 to 3. With a quarter to go the count was 7 to 7 and a foul toss gave De La Salle an 8 to 7 lead, but another free toss made it 8—all.

Then with two minutes to go Phil Krause, all-tournament player last year, sank a long shot to win the game. He added one of two free shots and Schwartzel added a foul toss for St. Xavier.

ST. MEL'S CAGERS LOSE CLOSE GAME IN ACADEMY PLAY

Morgan Park Advances to Semi-Finals.

Madison, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—A battle between southern and midwestern teams for the national academy basketball championship was assured tonight when Terrill academy, Dallas, Tex., nosed out St. Mel's High school of Chicago in an overtime game, 31 to 28, and Morgan Park academy of Morgan Park, Ill., eliminated the New England title holders, Vermont academy, 25 to 21.

Morgan Park must meet St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., at ten o'clock tomorrow morning to determine which team opposes Terrill in the finals tomorrow night. St. Johns downed Culver, Ind., military academy, 16 to 14, this afternoon in the only startling upset of the tournament to date.

Coach Paddy Driscoll's St. Mel team fought a thrilling battle against the tall Texas cagers. Trailing by a score of 8 to 1 in the first quarter and 16 to 9 at half time, the Chicagoans rallied to tie the score at 23 all in the last period.

Tied After Last Period.

Red Hayes and McGuff put St. Mel out in front with a pair of short baskets, but Taylor and Fagan retaliated for the Texans, necessitating an extra period. In the overtime session Fagan got a field goal and free throw and Erwin flipped in a field goal for Terrill, while the best St. Mel could accomplish was a basket by Hayes. Hayes counted 13 points for St. Mel, while "Country" Harrison, 6 feet 4 inch forward, did the same for the southerners.

Vermont rained shots on the hoop in its battle with the Morgan Park five, but could not halt the slow, steady march of the Illinoisans, who were led by Thrasher, who also got 13 points.

St. John's Beats Culver.

St. John's, bottling up Harrison and Oliver, Culver aces, flashed surprising strength to trounce the Hoosiers, 16 to 14. Culver had beaten St. John's twice during the regular playing season. Williams, with some superb dribbling and shooting, and McDevitt, Gaeslen and Fenske, on defense, accounted for the victory. St. John's took a lead of 13 to 3 in the first half which was too much for a late Culver rally to overcome.

Bethel institute of St. Paul won from Racine, Wis., college, 22 to 15, and Northwestern of Lake Geneva, Wis., defeated Chicago Y. M. C. A. college, 22 to 10 in consolation games. Northwestern plays the winner of the Bethel-Harvard school, Chicago, title tomorrow morning in the consolation finals.

In the last game of the evening Morgan Park [Illinois Military] academy defeated Vermont academy of Saxton Rive, Vt., 25-21. Lineups:

K. C. BASKETEERS RESUME LEAGUE PLAY AT STADIUM

Featured by the initial appearance of Hennepin, the league champion, four games will be staged tonight when the Knights of Columbus basketball league title series is resumed at the Chicago Stadium. Hennepin, which drew a bye in the initial round, is slated to meet the speedy St. Patrick's team from the central division, conquerer of Washington, southwest section titleholder. Tonight's schedule is as follows:

8:15 p. m.—De La Salle, central, vs. De Soto, north.
9:15 p. m.—Marquette, north, vs. Loyola-Hyde Park, south.
10:15 p. m.—Hennepin-Shields, west, vs. St. Patrick's, central.

The Hennepin-St. Patrick's game should be a thriller. Hennepin, with Cunningham, Leroy Winterhalter, Mickey Donnelly, Hussfield, and John Winterhalter, plays a smart, conservative game on the order of Marquette. St. Pat's, on the other hand, depends on speed and basket shooting ability, with Kane, Varnes, and Bowers leading the attack.

HAHLBOHM MEETS FACTOR IN PLAY FOR CHESS TITLE

The Chicago chess championship will be decided tonight at the Roosevelt Chess and Bridge club, 3253 W. Roosevelt road, when Herman Hahlbohm, western title holder, meets Samuel Factor, former western and city champion who, in six rounds of play, has not lost a game in this tourney.

I. Michelson of the Chicago Chess and Bridge club follows with six wins out of seven played. Alex Cederquist of the Commonwealth Edison Chess club and H. Jensen of the Norwegian Chess club are also scheduled to play in the final round.

Majestics with Murphy Playing Defeat Goldes

Majestics basketball team, with Charles Murphy, formerly center on Loyola university's quint, defeated Goldes, 30 to 19, last night on the west side K. of C. court. Approximately 2,500 saw the game. Goldes led during the early part of the first half, 7 to 4, but Majestics took a 14 to 9 advantage at half time. Herb Lutz featured for the losers, garnering five baskets.

Fainting Phil Yet May Be World Champ

would mean so much to Mr. Johnston that I cannot believe the New York prize fight commissioners would deny him, especially considering that old Mr. Muldoon is in a bit of a fix himself, having placed his approval on Philip some time ago. Mr. Muldoon takes a naïve pride in his judgment regarding prize fighters and thus there are two very serious reasons to fear that Fainting Philip will fight for the championship and win it before next football season. It cost Mr. Muldoon nothing to humor his nonegenarian crotchets. The customers pay for that.

You Don't Have to See Him.

A better way, of course, would be to silence the heavyweight championship in the papers until such time as a punching champion comes along, but one does not silence congressmen until they have something to say, and there is no need to be drastic about such harmless nuisances. Philip will draw as much money as he will draw, and now that his tendency to vertigo and his blank public character are familiar matters to the trade he cannot expect to draw much.

The thought of Fainting Philip's return and the more dreadful idea of his receiving one more political appointment which might carry the championship with it, are quite shocking at first, but the customers are a hardy lot and they can live through the visitation. Heavyweight champions never are much concerned about the peace of the customers and I doubt that Philip, should he win the title by political appointment, would be any less considerate than any of his recent predecessors.

The Worst Is the Best.

I hope I do not seem to be pleading the case of Fainting Phil, who ranks with Mr. Tunney and Michael McTigue as one of the three most oppressive bores who ever drooled over a water bucket. But the fact remains that Jack Sharkey couldn't even tag him on the fair ground, which, to my way of reckoning, makes him one of the best of the very inferior lot of heavyweight prize fighters. If there is to be a recurrence of Fainting Philip, Sharkey will be the one to blame. The outlook is very dark and the worst is the best customers can expect.

Marshall Fish Named Captain of Maroon Five

Marshall Fish was elected captain of the 1931 University of Chicago basketball team yesterday. Fish played guard and forward during the last season, leading his team in scoring and finishing tenth in the Big Ten standing.

The new captain comes from East Chicago. He is 20 years old. Fish is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Shatter Two Meet Marks; One National Record at N. U. Swim

Two meet records and one national interscholastic mark were broken in the preliminary events of the swimming division of Northwestern university's eighteenth annual interscholastic track, swimming, and wrestling meet yesterday afternoon. Finals will be held today.

Bob Kerber of Maine Township High of Des Plaines, cracked the national interscholastic mark in the 220 yard swim, negotiating the distance in 2:19.2. This bettered the old mark of 2:21 set by Al Schwartz, formerly of Marshall High of Chicago.

Minnesota Swimmers Star.

Viitman of Chisholm, Minn., lowered the meet record in the 100 yard breast stroke, swimming the event in 1:09. The old mark was held by Lemak of Detroit in 1:10.6. The other meet record was established in the 100 yard back stroke, in which Paavola of Hibbing, Minn., was clocked in 1:04.6. The former mark of 1:06 was held by Fela of Akron, O.

Chisholm, Minn., loomed as probable winner of the swimming division by qualifying five men, together with teams in both relay events. Thirteen teams qualified men.

Two Schools Lead in Track.

Oak Park High and Froebel High of Gary, Ind. set the pace in the track meet, the former qualifying seven men and the latter six. Twenty-nine teams qualified men in the five preliminary events.

Tulsa, winner of the wrestling tournament a year ago, came back with another strong team which appeared likely to run off the first honors again. Each of the Tulsa entrants in the nine weights won his opening round bout. The western team, however, must fight off a decided threat by Fort Dodge, Ia. Seven of the Hawkeye grapplers survived through the first round.

Reach Semi-Final Round for Illinois Handball Title

Four players will compete in the semi-finals of the Illinois singles handball championship tournament at the Lake Shore Athletic club this afternoon after victories in the quarter finals played last night. Jack Brodar, city champ, triumphed over M. Weiler; William Serritella defeated Charles Bergherm; Louis Nelson won the first two games to whip H. Lawler, and C. Thorsen eliminated H. Wolfe. The finals will be held tomorrow.

Poor Track Conditions Delay Don's Speed Test

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Kaye Don, British racing driver, announced tonight that the poor condition of the beach would prevent him from attempting to break the world speed record of 231 miles an hour before Sunday at the earliest, and possibly Monday.

The beach was inspected late today by a committee of racing officials. Later they said the sandy stretch was in poor condition and there was no possibility of making a run tomorrow morning. Since the low afternoon tide comes after dark, Sunday will be the earliest possible time for the test.

St. Louis Church League Champs Entertained Here

The Hyde Park Presbyterians, church champions of St. Louis, will be entertained tonight by the Irving Park Presbyterians, champions of the Northwest Side Church A. A., at the Carl Schurz High school at 9:30.

At 6:30 the lightweight champions of St. Louis will play the Independence Park Varieties; at 7:30 the Irving Park Lutherans will play the Berwood A. C. The Bethany girls' team, contenders for the Church A. A. championship, will meet the strong Christ church girls five at 8:30 p. m.

HRACH CAPTURES LEAD IN SINGLES OF BOWLING MEET

Cleveland, O., March 21.—[Special.]—Scoring games of 234, 244, and 231, Frank Hrach of Cleveland crashed through to the lead in the singles division of the American Bowling congress tourney here early last night with a 709 count. Score betters the former high mark registered by Eddie Nelson of Racine by four pins.

Hrach had 22 strikes in the series, 16 spares and one split. He cut down the 5-7 pins in the opening frame of his second game but drew the 4-6-7 split in the sixth session of the same game. The Cleveland bowler, member of the Cleveland Ice Cream five, has competed in three past national tournaments.

A total of 728 won the singles crown for Adolph Unke of Milwaukee last year at Chicago. A score of 706 captured the title for Hank Summers of St. Louis two years ago at Kansas City, and a 706 mark, registered by Bill Eggars of Chicago, won the 1928 event crown three years ago at Peoria.

Buffalo was awarded the 1931 tournament at the annual convention of officials and delegates. Elmer Baumgarten was elevated from Chicago executive committeeman to third vice president.

A new rule proposed by George B. Howard of Chicago will leave future tournaments solely in the hands of Secretary Abe Langtry and the congress. Heretofore local tournament companies were organized in the various cities staging the tournament.

YANKS SNAP OUT OF LOSING HABIT; BEAT CARDS, 9-1

Score Six Runs in 7th Inning.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The New York Yankees snapped out of their three game losing streak today, winning from the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 1, thanks to a six run rally in the seventh. Single runs had been scored in the first, second and sixth rounds.

Ben Chapman, rookie third baseman, was responsible for 50 per cent of the Yanks' scoring, with a single, double and a triple.

Score:

St. Louis [N.].....	000	000	010	1	8	1
New York [A.].....	110	001	60*	9	11	1

ATHLETICS TRIM REDS.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Gilt edged pitching by Glenn Liebhardt and Al Mahon gave the Philadelphia Athletics their second straight victory over the Cincinnati Reds today, 5 to 2. Jimmy Foxx propelled one home run. Score:

Cincinnati.....	000	000	002	2	7	0
Athletics.....	200	201	00*	5	9	0

INDIAN BOOKS BEAT REGULARS.

New Orleans, La., March 21.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indian rookies nosed out the regulars, 6 to 5, in the first Regular-Yannigan game of the season at the Indian training camp today.

Of the four young pitchers used by Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, Charley Armstein, who twirled the last three innings for the regulars, and Mel Harder, who finished for the Yannigans, pitched the best ball. Score:

Yannigans.....	310	020	—6	7	2
Regulars.....	102	002	—5	7	2

ROBINS OUTHIT PHILLIES.

Clearwater, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals went on a home run spree in their exhibition game today with the Brooklyn Dodgers, pounding four over the fence in the first three innings. Friberg contributed the first in the opening inning, with O'Doul, Klein, and Hurst continuing the act in the third. Lee, Gilbert, and Bressler did likewise for the Dodgers. Seven runs in the first inning gave Brooklyn a lead which the Philadelphia sluggers were unable to overcome.

The Robins collected 13 hits off the combined deliveries of Milligan, Benge, Dalley, and Sweetland, while the Phillies found Elliott, Vance, and Phelps for a like number.

Score:

Philadelphia [N.].....	104	101	002	9	13	2
Brooklyn [N.].....	120	300	00*	12	13	1

Wisconsin to "Bring Back" Wild Turkeys

BY BOB BECKER.

In case visitors to southern Wisconsin should hear the musical gobbling of wild turkeys this spring they can rest assured that their ears are not deceiving them, because Wisconsin today is the possessor of thirty-five of these great game birds. They were released a few days ago in the southeastern part of the Baraboo hills.

The Milwaukee chapter of the Izaak Walton league presented the turkeys to the Wisconsin conservation commission and the rugged, timbered Baraboo country was selected by W. B. Grange, superintendent of game, as the most desirable for the birds. With good luck, the gobblers should increase readily, and in a few years become common in much of the territory along the Wisconsin river from Columbia county southwest.

The wild American turkey formerly was native to both Wisconsin and Illinois. The last specimen of this beautiful game bird, formerly the largest in the central states, of which the state of Wisconsin has record, was killed near Prairie du Chien in 1894. Since that time Wisconsin has done nothing in experimental work to see if the gobblers could ever be brought back as game birds. If farmers and sportsmen will help protect the thirty-five just released there is no reason why they should not thrive.

STADIUM BOXING CARD ABANDONED; PRINCIPAL HURT

Plans for a boxing show at the Chicago Stadium on Friday, March 28, were definitely abandoned yesterday when Maxie Rosenbloom suffered a recurrence of a forehead injury in his training in New York and declared he would be unable to meet Larry Johnson, the west side "Coal Comet," in the ten round windup.

Rosenbloom sustained the head injury in his last fight, in which he won over Johnson on a foul in the sixth round at Madison Square Garden.

Rosenbloom was the fourth opponent selected and ultimately discarded in a search for a foe for Johnson. Pete Latzo, who won a close decision over Johnson in the Garden just before the Rosenbloom fight, agreed to a return bout here, but took more kindly to a case of la grippe than he did the match and entered a sanitarium.

MICHIGAN SWIM TEAM TROUNCES WISCONSIN, 62-13

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—Michigan's swimming team opened its conference dual meet season with a 62 to 13 victory over Wisconsin here tonight. It was the highest point score of any conference team this season.

The Wolverine 200 yard relay quartet, composed of Walker, Walaitis, Smith and Hosmer, tied the national intercollegiate mark of 1:35 4-5.

Buddy Dainty Boots In Three Winners Again

[By Associated Press.]

Coming right back after a brilliant exhibition of reinsmanship Thursday, Jockey "Buddy" Dainty, midget Canadian rider, again rode three winners at St. John's Park, Fla., yesterday. In addition he had one placed horse, but was out of the money on his fifth mount.

A well judged ride astride Justa Queen from the Justa farm in the opening race inaugurated Dainty's triple. His second victory was on Satisfy in the sixth race and his third was Elfin Star in the last number.

Although not winning the American Legion handicap, which featured the card, Dainty forced J. C. Ellis' Playfellow's Dream to set a new track record for the mile and 70 yards. Dainty was astride the Oakland Farm's Mr. Dick, which was a length and a half back of Playfellow's Dream at the finish line.

Playfellow's Dream, a 3 year old daughter of Playfellow, full brother to Man o' War, snapped her string of four consecutive places as she clipped four-fifths of a second off the track record of 1:46 4-5 established by Boris at the December meeting. The speedy miss tripped over the route in 1:46 to qualify for the $10,000 Louisiana Derby to be run at Jefferson Park March 28.

A different style of riding contributed largely to the filly's victory. Instead of rushing her to the front as in previous races, Jockey W. Carroll elected to rate her back of the pace setter. On the rise of the barrier she was taken to the rear, as Guide Right drove off the mark to set a burning pace through the early stages of the journey. Entering the stretch, Carroll sent out his mount to win easily. Mr. Dick beat Guide Right a neck for place.

With the track in a much improved condition, Lillian Mooar, in E. E. Mooar's silks, accounted for the fourth race, which featured the card of claiming races at Jefferson Park, New Orleans.

No matter what weather you pick, it's all right if you pick a Rogers Peet Scotch Mist* to go out in.

These topcoats are everything that Scotch cheviot topcoats should be in smart appearance and attractive colors and patterns—AND—they are wetproof as well!

A mere $60 is the answer.

Spring hats? Spring shoes? Spring furnishings?

Top yesterday, $10.85; average, $10.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep.

Abnormally small hog receipts, coupled with a drop in temperatures, which improved the demand for pork, boosted prices 15@25c at the opening yesterday. Average prices were highest since Friday of last week, the general average at $10.10 showing a gain of 20c. The extreme top for full loads equaled the highest of the week at $10.80.

A small lot at $10.85 was no criterion of the trade. Shippers bought more than 50 per cent of fresh receipts, while small local packers and city butchers put up some of the smallest droves in several years. The local slaughter this week at about 71,000 is 30 per cent smaller than a week ago.

Hog Futures Higher.

More activity featured trading in hog futures yesterday at mostly 10@15c higher prices, with buying confined to April and May light weights at $10.70@10.75, against $10.50 Thursday and $10.40@10.50 at the low point last Monday. Prices, however, are 25@35c under a week ago.

On the "to arrive" market, light hogs for today's delivery were bid $10.80 and for Monday $10.70. Heavy for Monday carried bids of $9.750@9.80 and for all next week, $9.50. Since the opening of the futures market, the clearing house has handled contracts for 131 carloads of hogs to be delivered as follows: Thirty-nine for the present month; 66 for April; 19 for May, and 7 for September. The trade expects a number of deliveries next week, the last full week of the month.

Yesterday's meager supply of 1,000 cattle sold at generally steady prices, although hardly enough stock was available to establish quotations. Sales were largely 50c under last week's finish. The best available averaged 1,291 lbs. at $13.00, although only a handful was good enough to bring more than $12.00. Cows and heifers sold on a "catch as catch can" trade, occasional sales showing the week's full 50@75c decline.

Lamb Trade Erratic.

Following a 10@15c bulge at the opening yesterday, the lamb market reacted and finished about that much under the general selling the previous day. Top kinds gained another notch, selling to city butchers and shippers at $10.50@10.65, while larger houses bought most wool lambs at $9.75@ 10.25, according to quality and weight.

Light shorn lambs sold at $9.25@ 9.50 and heavy were quoted at $8.50@ 8.75. Aged sheep and yearlings were firm. Feeding lambs were scarce and steady. A government report places the supply of "fed" lambs in Colorado, the Arkansas valley and Scotts Bluff sections at 1,315,000, which compares with 1,000,000 on the same date at 1929 and with 755,000 two years ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep, against 356 cattle, 6,637 hogs, and 6,735 sheep the previous Saturday, and 818 cattle, 7,505 hogs, and 5,284 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 35,000 to 37,000. J. A. Bunyan marked 35,000, J. T. Brown, 39,000; R. B. Ellis, H. Pattison and William Garrett, 40,000; J. M. Waters, 41,000; W. C. White, 42,000; N. R. Denny, 43,000; H. C. Carlson, S. Lund, W. T. Baneker, J. T. Agar, and A. G. Wellener, 45,000; W. S. Nicholson, F. Knutsen, and G. W. Chandler, 50,000; F. M. Sherwood, 55,000, and R. W. Trotter, 57,000.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Pennsylvania railroad in 1929 handled, on its directly operated lines, 233,108,956 tons of freight, representing one of the heaviest yearly movements of freight traffic in its history. The volume of 1929 traffic was exceeded only by that of 1923 and 1926. Last year's freight business marked an increase of 18,219,817 tons over that of 1928.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Soo railroad to abandon 32½ miles of railroad in Aitkin and Crow Wing counties, Minn.

The net operating income of Nickel Plate railroads for February amounted to $481,303, as against $584,642 in February, 1929.

WILL BOOST STOCK.

Stockholders of Eaton Axle and Spring have voted to increase the company's authorized common stock to 1,000,000 shares from 500,000.

NET EARNINGS OF PULLMAN CO. SHOW 1929 GAIN

Fewer Travelers Ride Farther.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The American penchant for luxurious travel vied with the spirit of economy last year. Fewer travelers used sleeping cars than at any time in the last five years, although those who did journeyed a longer distance. In fact, it took an average journey of 429 miles to get passengers in the sleeping cars.

These and other interesting facts are set forth in the annual report of the Pullman company made public last night. It shows that the company earned less from carrying passengers than in any time in five years, but made the decrease up from its operations in manufacturing railroad equipment.

Approximately 33,434,000 passengers were carried last year in 8,842 cars, which averaged 374 miles a day, or a total of 1,206,767,059 car miles. The average loading fell below twelve passengers per car. The average revenue per passenger was $2.51 and the net income to the Pullman company was 27 cents after expenses.

Earns $5.23 a Share.

Net earnings of the Pullman company last year were $17,678,698, equivalent to $5.23 a share on 3,375,000 shares of capital stock, compared with net earnings in 1928 of $16,396,696, or $4.86 a share. After paying dividends a balance of $4,160,904 was added to surplus, compared with $2,904,312 in 1928. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $96,175,-885, current liabilities of $25,706,279, and surplus of $12,497,518. Total assets were $315,564,891.

The Pullman company on March 1, this year, completed acquisition of the Osgood Bradley Car and Standard Steel Car companies. Its manufacturing capacity has been increased to 113,100 freight cars, 2,850 passenger cars, 450,000 wheels and 45,000 tons of forgings. Manufacturing earnings last year were $6,161,892, an increase of 111 per cent over 1928.

"Continued good manufacturing earnings are in prospect for the first half of 1930," President David A. Crawford says. "The manufacturing subsidiaries have larger bookings than at this time last year."

While all is not beer and skittles in the realm of trade and industry, a gradual and uneven advance is continuing, according to the weekly mercantile reviews. Stiffening in commodity prices is regarded as one of the most favorable factors. Bank clearings this week increased 14.6 per cent, although they still are 18.2 per cent under a year ago. There were 555 business failures, compared with 560 last week and 438 a year ago.

Outstanding Features.

"At least three features of importance stand out," Bradstreet's Review says. "Perhaps the most immediately important one is the stiffening of prices of a number of farm products and raw materials, the effects of whose weakness in recent months have hardly received the notice their importance deserved.

"Another is the continued easing in quotations for money, both at home and abroad, which has usually been a prerequisite of a renewal of trade activities after such a series of events as has faced the business world since the autumn of 1929.

"A third feature earlier predicted, based on the late date of Easter this year, has been the evident leisurely advance of spring buying, which, it is now conceded, has run true to traditions of other similar years."

"A new season begins with promise of an extension of the commercial recovery, but existing conditions point to a gradual and uneven advance rather than a rapid and general upturn," Dun's Review says. "The constructive elements are gaining in number and force. Among the most significant movements of the current week has been the decided change in the course of commodity prices, quotations making the best showing since last autumn's stock market collapse."

Canadian Poultry Pool Advises Higher Egg Duties

OTTAWA, March 21.—(AP)—The Canadian Poultry Pool, Ltd., has told the tariff advisory board that increased duties on eggs entering Canada are necessary to maintain the Canadian poultry industry. Chief competition comes from the United States, the pool said, and large quantities of eggs from the United States are dumped on the Canadian market during certain seasons of the year, forcing prices down below production costs.

Heads Ill. Group Seeking Action on Inland Waterway

Edward N. Hurley, recently elected president of the American Manufacturers' Export association and former president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, will head a delegation of the latter group to the convention of the national foreign trade council in Los Angeles the week of May 21. The Illinois delegation will seek united action of American manufacturers and exporters at the convention on the Lakes-to-Gulf waterway.

Plan Stock Increases for Lead, Steel Concerns

Stockholders of the St. Joseph Lead company at their annual meeting on April 10 will be asked to approve increasing the capital stock from 2,000,000 $10 par shares to 2,500,000 shares. The Michigan Steel company plans to increase its authorized capital stock from 220,000 to 500,000 shares.

MORE VESSELS ARE NEEDED AS U. S. LETS SEA MAIL CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—With the award today of five ocean mail contracts, Postmaster General Brown brought to $141,500,000 the amount of new ship construction that will be required to carry out the contracts let within the last two weeks.

Contracts awarded today were: Baltimore to Hamburg, Germany via Hampton Roads, to the Roosevelt Steamship line, New York; New York to Port Limon, Costa Rica, to the United Fruit company, Boston; New Orleans to Puerto Colombia, the United Fruit company; San Francisco to Puerto Armuellas, Costa Rica, the United Fruit company; Tacoma to Valparaiso, the Grace Steamship company, New York.

Referring in his announcement to the contention of some members of congress that the United Fruit company should not be given mail contracts because "it is making money for its stockholders," the postmaster general said that he did not agree to a construction of the Jones-White act that "limited the award of ocean mail contracts to indigent shipping companies."

He said that the question involved was whether the United Fruit company should replace its fleet with vessels constructed of American fabricated materials in American shipyards, built according to specifications of the navy department so that such vessels might be used by the government in the event of a national emergency, or whether that company should replace its fleet with vessels built in foreign shipyards at a cost substantially 40 per cent less than the cost of similar vessels constructed in American shipyards.

In consideration for the award of three ocean mail contracts the United Fruit company will be required, he said, to build in American shipyards 50,000 tons of new construction, fully refrigerated and conforming to government specifications.

HEAR CHANGE IS MADE IN PRAIRIE, SINCLAIR PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Negotiations between Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Sinclair Oil company looking to a consolidation are understood to have undergone a change, so that Prairie Oil interests are likely to become the dominating factor in the proposed corporation. Union of the two companies will create a $300,000,000 unit.

The merger was scheduled for announcement several weeks ago, but it is understood failure to win approval in Washington has forced a delay. The government recently refused to sanction a merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company, both former Standard Oil units, and a contract uniting the two is to be tested in the courts. There is a possibility a similar procedure may have to be followed in the Sinclair-Prairie case.

Standard Oil Company of Indiana is slated to take over Sinclair's half interest in the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and Sinclair Pipe Line company when the Prairie deal is completed. Standard of Indiana now has a half interest in the companies. There is some talk now of Standard taking over the Sinclair marketing agencies.

A.T.&T. ENLARGES SCOPE OF PLAN FOR EMPLOYES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company has modified its plan for giving employes the right to subscribe to shares, it was learned today. Under the modified program persons in the employ of the company six months will be permitted to subscribe to additional shares and pay for them out of interest on stock already bought under the old plan.

The modification which enlarges the scope of the old plan, permits such subscriptions to be made in the ratio of one new share for each four shares of stock of the company already owned. The new feature goes into effect April 1.

Pay Steel's Refund Largely Through Credit on Taxes

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—A treasury statement on the much discussed tax refund of $33,000,000 to the United States Steel corporation today said that only slightly more than $4,000,000 was actually returned to the company.

Since announcement of the refund it has furnished material for several controversies on the floor of the house with Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, criticizing the treasury for the settlement and asking a congressional investigation of tax refund methods.

The announcement today said credit given on taxes pending from the steel company had made the sum actually refunded only a little more than $4,000,000.

Smith Corp. Gets Contracts for 300 Miles of Pipe Line

The A. O. Smith corporation of Milwaukee, has been awarded a contract for the manufacture of 300 miles of 24 inch pipe for the Moody-Seagraves interests, which plan construction of a gas line from Stevens county, Kas., to Omaha and surrounding territory.

ALLEGHANY CORP. CALLS SPECIAL MEETING TO INCREASE CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—A special meeting of Alleghany corporation stockholders has been called for March 31, to vote increases in authorized capital. Alleghany corporation is a Van Sweringen holding company dealing in railroad securities.

The increase in the common will be from 7,500,000 no par shares to 8,500,000 shares and the increase in the preferred will be from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 $100 par shares. The stockholders will be asked to empower the directors to issue the preferred stock from time to time, with offering in no event to be less than $90 a share.

The amendments to be voted on are to enable the corporation to fund indebtedness incurred in the purchase of certain railroad securities by the issuance and sale of additional convertible collateral trust bonds in addition to preferred stock with warrants for the purchase of common stock.

It was announced recently that the Alleghany corporation had a substantial stock interest in the Missouri Pacific Railroad company.

A short time ago J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National bank, the National City company, and the Guaranty Company of New York offered an issue of $25,000,000 of twenty year collateral trust convertible 5s at 97. A few days later a group headed by the Guaranty Company of New York offered a $12,500,000 issue of the company's cumulative 5½ per cent preferred stock, series A, at 98½.

WIGGIN, HEAD OF WORLD'S LARGEST BANK, IS HERE

Albert H. Wiggin, senior executive officer of the largest bank in the world, the Chase National bank of New York, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Century to attend the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of Armour & Co., of which he is a member. He is staying at the Blackstone hotel and is expected to return to New York today.

Merger of the three institutions—Chase National, Equitable Trust, and Interstate Trust—which placed Mr. Wiggin at the head of the world's largest bank, was voted early this week. He began his banking career as a clerk and later rose to assistant national bank examiner and then an officer of a Boston bank. He later went to New York and became head of the Chase National in 1926.

Spreckels Makes Profit of 12 Millions in Stock Sales

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, chairman of the board of directors of the Kolster Radio corporation, made a net profit of $12,908,612 in the sale of Federal-Brandes and Kolster stock in 1927, 1928, and 1929, according to a statement filed in Newark today by his attorney, Walbridge Taft.

The statement was submitted at the last of a series of hearings held by John A. Bernhard, Newark attorney, who was appointed special master to investigate charges made by Albert Schwartz, a Paterson attorney, in connection with the receivership proceedings involving the $17,000,000 radio company. Mr. Schwartz had charged that some one had "rigged the market" in the sale of Kolster stock.

Loft, Inc., President Is Ousted, but Fights Back

New York, March 21.—(AP)—A board of directors chosen yesterday at a stormy session of stockholders of Loft, Inc., has elected Charles G. Cuthpresident to succeed Alfred R. Miller. Meanwhile, Miller, who still considers himself president of the candy company, obtained an order in a Wilmington, Del., court declaring yesterday's meeting illegal and appointing a master to conduct another annual meeting of the stockholders. When strife between the two factions led to an uproar at yesterday's session, Miller declared the meeting adjourned, and left with the company's books. The board was chosen after his departure.

Twin States Natural Gas Company Is Formed

New York, March 21.—(AP)—A new natural gas merger is announced with the formation of the Twin States Natural Gas company under the laws of Delaware, to acquire ten properties aggregating 7,000 acres of gas producing land in West Virginia and Kentucky with an estimated daily capacity in excess of 9,000,000 cubic feet. The properties are in Floyd county, Kentucky, and the counties of Lincoln, Putnam, Kanawha, Cabell, Logan, and Roane, in West Virginia.

Raps Figures of His Foes in Steel Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, today appealed to stockholders for support of the Youngstown-Bethlehem merger in a letter condemning as misleading the figures used by the Eaton group in opposing consolidation.

On the exchange basis of one and a third Bethlehem shares for one of Youngstown, Mr. Campbell said the earnings of the two companies were practically the same for the last six years, with Bethlehem's earnings on 1 1-3 shares exceeding those of Youngstown on one share of stock in the last three years.

The figure of $11.01 given in the opposition stockholders' circular as Bethlehem's earnings per share is based upon the number of shares outstanding at the end of the year, Mr. Campbell said.

"It makes no allowance for the fact that for the additional stock which Bethlehem issued during 1929 it received $136,000,000 in cash, which, because received late in the year, contributed little to earnings," he continued.

"Indefensible," He Says.

"No one can honestly question the fact that that sum, when invested in its business, will add materially to Bethlehem's earning power. There may be a question how best to make allowance for this addition, but to make no allowance and no mention of the omission is indefensible.

"We have made allowance for this factor by stating Bethlehem's earnings in 1929 on the basis of the average number of its shares outstanding during the year. This is the basis customarily employed in such cases, and it is the basis which the opposition committee itself has used in stating Bethlehem's earnings for 1923. On that basis Bethlehem's earnings for 1929 were $15.50 per share.

"In condemning the relative earnings of the two companies since 1923, please also bear in mind that during the last seven years Bethlehem has expended, upon the modernization and development of its properties, approximately $180,000,000 in cash and that, although these expenditures in large part explain Bethlehem's relatively better showing during the last three years, the full benefits of the expenditures have not even yet been realized."

REFUSE SPECIAL AUDIT.

Youngstown, O., March 21.—(AP)—Demands for a special audit of books of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, made by the proxy committee opposed to the Bethlehem-Youngstown Sheet and Tube company merger, have been refused, the anti-merger headquarters said today.

From the pro-merger headquarters an announcement was issued that Bethlehem's own auditors would furnish any information desired, but that Bethlehem was not willing to allow promiscuous auditing.

Attorneys for Cyrus S. Eaton and his anti-merger committee made the demand for the Bethlehem audit in a letter addressed to James A. Campbell, chairman of Sheet and Tube. It asked him to obtain permission for the audit from Bethlehem officials, so that stockholders could "act intelligently on the merger proposal."

The scheduled mass meeting with Eugene G. Grace and Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem, and Eaton, as speakers, was cancelled today. Grace and Schwab will come here next week, however, to hold private conferences with prominent citizens.

BROKERS' RATE CUT TO 4½% BY CHICAGO BANKS

Easing in money rates, particularly on stock market collateral, was reflected in Chicago yesterday when the big banks reduced the rate to brokers from 5 to 4½ per cent.

The new rate applies to demand loans secured by high grade mixed collateral, chiefly securities listed on the New York and Chicago exchanges. Rates to customers are a shade higher, ranging from 4½ to 6 per cent.

The Chicago federal reserve bank made no change in its 4 per cent rediscount rate yesterday.

Cabbage Scarcity Brings Imports from Holland

Imported Holland cabbage is selling at wholesale in the Chicago market at 5 cents a pound. The retail price is probably double that figure. There have been twelve carloads of this imported Holland cabbage brought into Chicago of late which met a ready market. Scarcity of cabbage is due to a short crop in 1928 and the supply for market being cut down by a greater increase in the manufacture of sour kraut. The partial failure of the new Texas crop this spring has made the supply the shortest in years and has enabled holders to secure fancy prices.

WHOLESALERS LEAD FIGHT ON DECREE CHANGE

Protest New Deal for Packers.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Opposition to the modification of the consent decree of 1920, which provided that the four largest packing firms now in existence, should not engage as wholesalers or retailers of products other than meats, is most vigorously made by wholesale grocers.

Some retailers and their organizations are likewise represented in the chorus of protest that arose after the Armour and Swift concerns went into court to ask for a new deal based on economic considerations. Some senators, notably Black of Alabama, are definitely against modification.

Retailers Not So Contentious.

It can fairly be said that the retail merchants in foodstuffs are not so solidified in opposition as the wholesalers. As for the chain store managements, there are two reports about them. One is that certain of them are hopeful of absorbing or combining with at least one of the big packing firms if the decree is lifted. The other is that as a class they would not welcome the packers as competitors, either on a wholesale or retail basis, and would prefer to see them fail in their present battle. The chains are officially neutral.

Below is printed an excerpt from a statement made by H. F. Stickney, president of the Chicago-Cook County Retail Grocers and Butchers association, on the reasons why he and his organization oppose the big packers.

Cites Purpose of Decree.

"The decree was entered and accepted by the packers in an effort by the department of justice to protect smaller businesses from unfair competition by the very large packers. The intent, and it has worked out successfully, was to protect the producer as well as the retailer.

"The independent retailer of food was also protected to the extent that this so-called efficient, economical distributive system would not build up a monopoly of retail outlets favored by combination freight rates, which only the packers' outlets could take advantage of. It was not a system free, open, and competitive, and the court so ruled and the packers so admitted."

Mr. Stickney insists that the packers, complaining of undue restrictions under present conditions, have asked only for modification that will effect the food retailer alone. He adds that the big packers have secured the aid of farm organizations by leaving the latter all the protection of law against the packers and trying to take away all the legal protection against monopoly which the retailer now has.

Either leave the decree as it is, or abrogate it entirely, is the stand of Mr. Stickney, and if it is abrogated, then pass suitable new legislation to care for the independent retail grocer and butcher.

Ridicule Chain Absorption.

The stand of the two largest wholesale grocers' organizations is that there is a danger of monopoly of foodstuffs if the bigger packers can get into distribution and retailing of products not related to meats. Senator Black goes farther and predicts that the setting aside of the decree would mean permission to form a giant food trust which by the stroke of a pen, could "lift the price of bread and meat from Maine to California."

In a recent article in the National Retail Grocer, C. H. Janssen stated that the packers should have equality of opportunity, but that retail grocers believe the removal of restraints from them is not the proper way to attain it.

It may or may not be significant that there is little opposition to the packers' basic proposition that they are equipped to handle the distributive function in many foodstuffs economically, and that the appeal is against monopoly possibilities. Some dire predictions along this line are made. One is that one of the packers will be absorbed by a large chain store group at once if consent decree goes. This is ridiculed by representatives of the packers.

Decrease Is Reported in Lake Ore Shipments

Chicago Stock Prices Finish on Upgrade

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stock prices in the main were in better condition at the close of the market yesterday. The session was devoid of spectacular movements. The list struck some choppy going as realizing developed, but got its bearings again in time to turn upward before the gong.

Utility stocks maintained a strong tone throughout. Middle West was out in front in point of sales and improved about a point to 36⅝. United American Utilities rose 1¼ on sales of less than 1,000 shares, while Central and Southwest preferred edged up an even point. United Gas and Missouri-Kansas Pipe each gained a fraction.

Abbott Holds Firm.

Among the specialties, Abbott Laboratories was firm, but not heavily traded in. Stockholders have been notified that directors will hold a special meeting April 17 to consider increasing the dividend rate. Art Metal, which is understood to be receiving more support, advanced a point. Kalamazoo Stove recovered 1¾ of its previous day's loss. Other issues in the group which improved a point or more were Jefferson Electric, Lincoln Printing, and Vortex A.

There were weak spots among the specialties, notably Marshall Field and Keystone Steel. Field slipped to a new low below 47 and Keystone continued soft, as it has been since the passing of the dividend on the issue. Butler eased a bit in early trading, but finished unchanged. Great Lakes Dredge fell to 190 on a few sales.

In the investment group, Burnham reflected strength in its holding with a gain of 1¾ and Bancokentucky advanced 1.

Cord Is Active.

Cord was the most active among the motors, but only slightly changed at the end of the day. Bendix and Borg were firm. Noblitt Sparks snapped up 1¾. Castle was up over a point, while Auburn slipped 5. Foote rights were quoted at 5-16.

Radio stocks were dull. Grigsby lost a fraction, and a bare fifty shares of Steinite changed hands at 2¼. It was announced yesterday that John C. Tully has been elected president and chairman of Steinite Radio company and its five subsidiaries. Representatives of several creditor companies are now serving on the board of the Steinite Manufacturing company, chief subsidiary of the parent firm.

INCOME TAXES ARE $5,000,000 IN ADVANCE OF 1929

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Latest reports from the March 15 income tax collections placed treasury receipts from that source by March 19 at $384,853,426.20, a sum nearly $5,000,000 ahead of receipts for the same period a year ago.

The expected slump in receipts after March 18 was shown, as the total for the day was only $70,652,867, contrasting with more than $108,000,000 a year ago, but it was not sufficient to offset the tremendous total received on March 18 as a result of overtime work last Sunday at the collection bureaus all over the country.

Nothing in the latest figures, however, was interpreted today as changing the expectation that the total collections for the month would approximate the $550,000,000 budget estimate.

Mather Interests Acquire Corrigan McKinney Steel

Cleveland, O., March 21.—(AP)—The Corrigan McKinney Steel company, a $60,000,000 concern, passed into the hands of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron corporation late today. The Corrigan-McKinney company has been controlled by Mrs. James Corrigan of London since the death of her husband here a few years ago. She is reported in financial circles to have owned more than 51 per cent of the stock. The Cleveland Cliffs company is controlled by the Mather interests with William G. Mather the chief figure. Mr. Mather in making announcement of the sale said that sale of Corrigan-McKinney has no connection with steel mergers now pending and in which he has a large interest.

Tobacco Company Will Make All Cigars by Machine

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The cigar manufacturing plants of the Porto Rican American Tobacco company will be on a 100 per cent machinery basis by the end of April, Luis Toro, president, said today. The company is now making 80 per cent of its cigars by machines, savings of from $4 to $7 a thousand cigars are effected by the use of machinery, Mr. Toro said.

TWO RAILROADS REPORT SLUMP IN FEB. TRAFFIC

Business conditions during February caused a slump in the traffic volume of Milwaukee railroad and the Soo Line road, reports by the presidents of the two systems yesterday shows. President Henry A. Scandrett of the Milwaukee said traffic volume continues to lag behind a year ago and business in the northwest remains quiet. President C. T. Jaffray, president of the Soo, said that earnings for February were off considerably from a year ago.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Stock prices continued to advance today in the most active trading session of the year. Gains of the more active issues ranged as high as 6 or 7 points and the volume reached a new 1930 record of 4,629,290 shares.

The forenoon session was marked by scenes reminiscent of the hectic autumn days preceding the big crash. For two hours or more the market literally boiled, the pace of operations hitting such a stride that the ticker fell nearly forty minutes behind.

Although many of the pivotal issues, such as United States Steel common, American Telephone, and the like pushed into new high territory, the trend was not solidly upward by any means. Indeed, for a time around noon it looked as though the bear crowd was getting the upper hand, but the market quieted down and the middle of the afternoon found price trends again going—somewhat irregularly—upward. A number of outstanding weak spots persisted to give a ragged appearance to the closing tables.

Steel Is Headliner.

United States Steel was the twinkling headliner of the list. Primed by revived rumors of an impending stock split-up or extra dividend, it sprang out in front at the opening and cut out a pace all day calculated to make traders forget all about the big increase in brokers' loans for the week. Its closing sale—at 190¾—recorded a net gain of 4½ points on the day, which for an issue of its dignity and market standing was something to tell the boys in the back room about.

Buying was almost equally as brisk in American Telephone, boosting that gilt edge favorite to 248½ or some 4 points above yesterday's closing figure. Profit taking shaved a fraction from this new high, but it still had a gain of 3½ points to its credit at the finish. On a straight dividend basis American Telephone at today's high levels is selling to yield only about 3.6 per cent, but it must be remembered that biennial "rights" received by shareholders add substantially to that figure in the net result. Incidentally, the street believes that the company will offer additional stock

PLAN BUSINESS STRUCTURE FOR BEVERLY HILLS

Syndicate Buys Site at 95th and Longwood.

BY AL CHASE.

Construction of a $150,000 business block is announced for the northeast corner of 95th street and Longwood drive, at the Rock Island railroad station, in the shopping district of Beverly Hills. Joseph Levinson, representing a syndicate, bought the 161x137 feet at this corner from the Eugene Pike estate. Mr. Levinson then conveyed title to the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank.

Peter Tutules represents the syndicate which plans to erect the structure. The building is to be either entirely of one story or a part one story and a part two story. There are to be eight shops on the ground floor and if a second story is added it will contain offices. The exterior will be finished entirely in Indiana limestone.

Work to Start Soon.

It is expected that work will start sometime this spring, with completion in from sixty to ninety days. The project is in a section in which interest has increased since the widening of 95th street last summer. The $150,000 investment will include the land. Mr. Tutules and William C. Groebe & Co. were brokers. Tannenbaum, Pollkoff & Schmidt and Fisher, Boyden, Bell, Boyd & Marshall were attorneys.

Excavation has started for the store and apartment building to be erected on 71st street, opposite the Bryn Mawr station of the Illinois Central, mentioned in this department last December. The structure will be erected at 1931-45 East 71st street, adjoining a four story building completed at the southwest corner of 71st and Jeffery last May. It will occupy a lot 163x110 feet and will have seven stores on the ground floor and forty-six apartments of three rooms on the upper stories.

Reported Cost $500,000.

John Hocke designed the structure and he reports that the investment in land and building will be approximately $500,000. The building is to have an elevator and will possess the customary well appointed lobby. The owners are G. A. Hackel and George D. Bockus, building contractors.

Frank Rosengren, who formerly operated a book shop in the Tree Studio building on State street, near Ohio, has leased the store at 500 North Michigan avenue, formerly occupied by the "New and Forgotten Book" store. Mr. Rosengren is opening his new book store today.

Mrs. Emma L. Caul has sold the thirty-six apartments at 628-32 Grace street, lot 60x150 feet, to Grover Calvert Burch and La Vergne Palmer Burch.

GARDEN OF ALLAH RESORT ACQUIRED BY A SYNDICATE

The Garden of Allah company, owner of the well known roadhouse of the same name, has quitclaimed its holding at the southeast corner of Waukegan and Lake roads, Northfield township, to Edgar Scott Jr., a real estate man with Cheshire & Shotwell. Mr. Scott says he acquired the roadhouse property for a syndicate, which is holding it for speculative purposes. The property includes 12 acres of ground. Improvements on it, including a stucco roadhouse, are said to have cost $150,000. Al R. Tearney is president of the Garden of Allah company and John L. McInerney is secretary.

STOCK MARKET BOILS UP, THEN SETTLES DOWN

some time this year to provide for contemplated expenditures. Moreover, there are rumors that a split-up is not without the range of probabilities.

Public utilities did better as a group. Public Service of New Jersey advanced more than 2 points on unusually heavy trading during the forenoon, but profit takers cut down its showing to some extent. Peoples Gas, which has been performing so nobly for several days on talk of that pipe line project, had to pay the piper today. Shareholders took their profits on a heavy scale and the result was a cut of nearly 3 points from its newly acquired price rating.

On the Run Again.

Bear traders had Simmons and Gillette Safety Razor on the run again. The latter rallied somewhat on the official statement that the company feels confident of its patent situation. Montgomery Ward joined the list of laggards despite the general belief that the market position of the stock had been corrected by the selling in the issue a few weeks ago.

Still another weak feature was American Car and Foundry, which was hammered down some three points. New lows for the year were registered by a number of victims of the bear attack. National Cash Register broke 7 points during the forenoon and only succeeded in recovering a fraction of its loss. The only immediate explanation the street could find for the weakness of this stock was its report for the last quarter of 1929 and the prospect of financing for the company.

Strong Issues.

Among strong individual issues of the day were Case Threshing, United Carbon, Hershey Chocolate, Coca Cola, Union Carbide, Byers, Atlas Powder and Corn Products. Gains of from 2 to 8 points were scored by them.

News overnight was perhaps more favorable than unfavorable as it bore on credit. In line with expectations, however, the situation in demand money turned abruptly as banks began calling loans heavily against withdrawal of funds on deposit by the treasury department. Money renewed at 3 per cent, against 2 per cent yesterday, and as heavy calling continued the rate for new loans mounted first to 4 per cent and later to 4½ per cent. A total of about $100,000,000 in loans was called by the banks during the day.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

BETTER FEELING IN GRAIN MARTS; WHEAT GAINS

General Short Covering Aids Movement.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

General short covering and commission house buying was under way yesterday in wheat in all of the leading world's markets. There was also a more confident feeling on the part of buyers, with a better demand for the cash grain abroad, as there is little likilhood of the American farm board dumping its purchases of cash grain in European countries.

Prices here were up as much as 3c over the outside figures of the close of Thursday, and despite heavy profit taking the finish was at net gains of ⅞@1¼c, with May $1.10¼@1.10⅝, and July, $1.08⅝@1.09⅛.

Foreign markets have gained rather sharply on Chicago of late, with Liverpool closing 2@3½d higher, while Winnipeg was 2¼@2⅝c higher, with May in the latter 2⅜c over Chicago, compared with a discount recently, and American hard winter is now closer to a world's parity than for some time past. Buneos Aires was up as much as 3⅛c at one time, but reacted toward the last and finished 1½c higher, while Rosario was unchanged to ½c higher.

Longs Sell Wheat Futures.

At the top yesterday July wheat here showed 9¼c above the low of last week, which induced many recent buyers to take the selling side, feeling that the bulge had been too rapid. Temperatures in the southwest failed to get as low as expected, but this was offset by a resumption of dry weather reports from parts of Kansas and Oklahoma, and returns to the Modern Miller late in the day suggested that the recent rains were too light to be of material benefit over a wide area.

Considering the selling the market gave an excellent account of itself, and bearish news was ignored to a large extent. A full cargo of Russian wheat was bought by England at a price equal to $1.06 per bu. The seaboard reported around 1,000,000 bu, mainly Manitobas, had been sold abroad, and there were intimations that a much larger business has been put through of late than has been claimed.

Basis on No. 2 hard winter at the Gulf was firmer at 1c under Chicago May, which compared with 6c over Winnipeg May for No. 3 Manitobas at New York, the difference in actual price being equal to about 9¼c per bu.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

While steyness in wheat had some effect on corn early, there was a material increase in country offerings to arrive, which brought profit taking in futures, and the finish was at the low point, with net losses of ⅛@1c, with May leading. The latter closed at 84⅛@84⅝c, and July, 86⅝@86⅛. At the high point prices were up 8⅝@9⅝c from the low of last week, which many local operators thought sufficient for the time being. Purchases to arrive were finally placed at 156,000 bu. Eastern distributors refused to follow the upturn and shipping sales for the day were only 37,000 bu.

Around one-third of the Argentine crop acreage will be abandoned, according to Broomhall, who estimates there will be a yield of around 275,000,000 bu with normal weather conditions, but the government looks for a yield per acre below normal. A Buenos Aires cable suggested an exportable surplus of around 235,000,000 bu, or about the same as the previous year, and well below the 1926-28 Buenos Aires futures closed ⅛@1c higher.

Oats market was unsettled, and closed unchanged to ½c lower, mainly in sympathy with corn. May finished at 43⅞@44c, and July, 43½c.

Houses with eastern connections were heavy buyers of July rye, and some observers expressed the belief that eastern traders who were credited with having been long the March and May earlier in the season were taking the buying side. The close was ⅛@⅜c higher, with May 66½c, and July, 71½c.

PACKERS BUY LARD

An early advance in grains, combined with an appreciation of 15@25 cents in hog values on light receipts, with packers buying lard and bellies, made higher prices. The close on lard was at net gains of 5@7½c on the active trading futures and on bellies, 12½@15c. Offerings were not large and the market responded to new buying. Cash trade was moderate. Liverpool lard was unchanged for spot and 3d higher for futures. Export clearances were 274,000 lbs of lard and 6,000 lbs of bacon. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

All grains have had a good advance in the last week to ten days, wheat being up 9c to 10c, Corn 8c, and rye 8¾c to 14c. Oats have also moved up rapidly. The oversold condition has been corrected and bearish sentiment modified, and profit taking by recent buyers has checked the upturn for the time being. It was said at the close that there had been sufficient advance for the time being and a moderate setback was due.

Sentiment was rather more bearish on all grains at the last, but not so much so as at the beginning of the week. The situation in the world's markets has improved and the markets are more responsive to constructive influence.

Bartlett-Frazier's Liverpool cable said wheat was decidedly strong and prices tending upward in consequence of Argentine markets. Shorts are becoming anxious and offerings are small on advances, but there is some selling by Russia.

PROFIT TAKING IN COTTON

Selling for profits on bulges took the edge off the market at times, while breaks brought support and several rallies. The close was well toward the best prices of the day, with a fairly steady tone. There was said to be support on breaks from the cooperative, which absorbed the offerings and was responsible for a good part of the rallies.

May cotton was especially strong, with all offerings absorbed, and closing in the various markets showed advances of 20 to 26 points, New Orleans leading. Other months were up 9 to 25 points and Chicago and 5 to 27 points at other markets.

Spots in New York advanced 35 points to 15.85c, while recently it was down to 14c, an advance of nearly 200 points, equal to almost $10.00 a bale. New Orleans gained 25 points to 15.50c; Galveston was 15.95c, and Houston, 15.85c. Liverpool was lower early, with spot sales 7,000 bales.

Spinners' takings for the week were 347,000 bales, against 259,000 bales the previous week, and 343,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

RALLY IN BUTTER

Rallying from a weak opening, March butter futures closed ¼c, or $24 a car, higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The recovery seemed largely sentimental, as the spot market was down ½c and receipts normal for a Friday. Other contracts were firm. Sales were 46 cars and receipts 11,717 tubs.

Easier closes were marked up in egg contracts in light trading. Sales were 10 cars and receipts 28,527 cases. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were a shade firmer on stronger cotton, although spot weakness occasioned price irregularity. Print cloths were in fair demand. An effort to advance sheetings was noticeable. Fine goods were in moderate demand. Burlap cables were about unchanged with spot lightweights at parity with ready shipment, but heavyweights here subject to discounting. Stocks of burlaps here were increasing. Price cuts in wool goods aided stability. Eastern demand for rayon yarns gained. Spot raw silks were quiet and unchanged here, with holidays in Japan. Piece goods sales fair at lower prices.

DOLLAR SALES.

Dollar sales of the Jantzen Knitting Mills for the six months ended Feb. 28, 1930, totalled $3,191,900.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL AND SPECIAL MEETINGS OF STOCKHOLDERS.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, FEBRUARY 25, 1930.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND AND PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY will be held at the office of the Company in the City of Chicago, County of Illinois, on Thursday, the first day of May, 1930, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, for the consideration of the following questions:

1. Whether the Company shall be reorganized under the laws of Illinois and Iowa for a period of fifty years after the expiration of the present Articles of Consolidation of June 1, 1880.

2. The increase in the number of directors of the Company from thirteen to fifteen, and the amendment of the Articles of Consolidation to provide therefor;

3. The creation of an issue of $35,228,000 Thirty-Year 4½% Convertible Gold Bonds, to be dated May 1, 1930, to provide funds for the general corporate purposes of this Company, said bonds to be convertible into common stock of the Company at any time on or after May 1, 1931, and before May 1, 1940, at $100 per share, with an adjustment of accrued interest and current dividends to the date of such conversions; and, in order to secure said bonds, the execution and delivery of an indenture setting forth the terms and conditions on which said bonds will be issued and delivered, and will be convertible, and the approval of the form of the proposed indenture;

4. The increase of the authorized capital stock of the Company from $140,000,000 to $170,000,000, all of the proposed increase to be common stock; and the amendment of the articles of Consolidation to provide therefor;

5. The repeal of Article VIII of the Articles of Consolidation of June 1, 1880, which provides that the amount of indebtedness of the Company shall not exceed $275,000,000, exclusive of bonds issued in the acquisition or of additional railways or property;

6. The amendment of the By-Laws to provide that the Board of Directors may authorize the signature of the president, or vice president, upon the Company's stock certificates to be engraved in facsimile, under such regulations as the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe;

7. The election of directors.

And for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

In order to comply with certain statutory provisions of the State of Iowa, A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE STOCKHOLDERS of the Company is hereby called to be held at the principal office of the Company in the City of Davenport, Scott County, Iowa, on Friday, the second day of May, 1930, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, for the consideration of the questions set forth above.

By order of the Board of Directors.

J. E. GORMAN, President.

22 Story Building.
Modern to the Minute.
Exquisite in every detail.

A great location and a great building. Doorman, elevator service. Prestige. Character! Six renting brokers kept busy tells the story of 5000 Cornell's popularity. Only a few apartments left. They are being offered at rentals so low that we can give no options, nor hold any apartments. First come—first to make application and deposit—is the rule and order of the day. Don't miss these bargains. Next fall rents will soar account no new construction.

Rent Today and Save

Bring your check book. Get set in one of these lovely apartments before too late. Immediate occupancy—and 5000 Cornell has every feature you've ever wished for in an apartment. This building is our greatest offering of the season.
